REDS TAKE ZHITOMIR, SPLIT NAZI UKRAINE FORCES

Mighty Allied Blows Against Shaky Nazis And Nipponese Seen

Interpretation By
Kirke L. Simpson
(Wide World War Analyst)

New and mighty Allied smashes against shaky Nazi and Nipponese foes apparently are forthcoming soon to cap a full year of unbroken Axis defeats and retreats.

Russian expectation of sweeping Nazi invaders off Russian soil completely by the year end clearly is indicated—and within sight of accomplishment.

In Italy another German holding front south of Rome is as certainly cracking in the center under Anglo-American attack.

From British and Italian bases Allied air power already is roaring into redoubled action to pave the way for cross-channel invasion of the continent by pulverizing smashes at German war industry and public morale.

Half way around the globe, the men and means for a new thrust at Japanese conquest outposts in the Burma-Bay of Bengal sector are being mobilized. Even in China a way of turning from defensive to offensive operations is being cleared at last.

And in the Pacific on the word of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commanding the hugely expanded and powerful American Pacific fleet: "Our time has come to attack." Indication of what those words mean came from Rabaul where 300 United States carrier-borne planes sank a Japanese cruiser and two destroyers and damaged 12 other warships.

Since that somber December 7 at Pearl Harbor, the nation has yearned for word from the central Pacific that the march on Tokyo is on in earnest to avenge Pearl Harbor and Wake, Bataan and Corregidor.

Reduction by combined sea, air and land action of the insular defense in depth of Japan itself and the approaches to the China sea from the Pacific seems about to start.

No other construction can be placed on the Nimitz Armistice day broad-

NAVY NOW READY IN PACIFIC WAR

Hundreds Of Ships Grouped Around Battle-Type Carriers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The United States navy has now perfected one of the greatest tactical reorganizations in its history in order to bring massive air striking power against Japanese sea forces and air-defended land positions in the Pacific.

It is completion of this reorganization, as well as the launching of 17 battle-type aircraft carriers and hundreds of other ships in the last two years, that enabled Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet chief, to say this week with full confidence of victory that "our time has come to attack."

A ranking naval leader told this reporter today that "just about all the ships in the Pacific, except the submarines, have been grouped around aircraft carriers and the organization takes such a formidable force that when I saw it, and the fighting spirit of the men in it, I almost felt sorry for the Japs for the first time in my life."

The initial problem of this massed force is two-fold:

To clear the Japanese out of key land positions and, if possible to create an opportunity to engage and destroy the enemy fleet. How soon the latter stroke can be delivered depends, of course, on when the Japanese are willing to come out and fight.

The reorganization of the Pacific fleet around aircraft carriers began tentatively before the enemy attack on Pearl Harbor. At that time the United States had seven carriers and several individual carrier task forces. The battleships remained the backbone of the fleet, and the tactical concept was that in any engagement it would decide the knockout punch.

The temporarily paralysis of the battle force resulting from the Pearl Harbor bombing automatically and quickly elevated the aircraft carriers into the leading role of paramount importance.

Subsequently, Rear Admiral John Towers, then chief of the bureau of aeronautics, was assigned to Admiral Nimitz' staff with the rank of vice-admiral and later his successor, Admiral John S. McCain, was elevated to the new post of deputy chief of naval operations for air with the rank of vice-admiral.

Americans Extend Beachhead In All Directions At Empress Augusta Bay

300 JAPS LEFT DEAD ON FIELD

Marines And Troops Occupy Piva, Capture Artillery

CEASELESS ATTACKS KEPT UP ON ENEMY SHIPPING

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Sunday, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The American beachhead at Empress Augusta bay on the west-central coast of Bougainville in the northern Solomons has been extended in all directions, General MacArthur's headquarters reported today that the Japanese have left 300 dead in fighting there.

The beachhead, where the marines landed on November 1, is on the last big Solomons island barring the eastern approaches to Rabaul.

In their advances, marines and army troops have occupied Piva village, captured Japanese artillery and supplies.

The Americans previously had held a rectangular position with the bay on the south, mountains on the north, the Piva river on the east and the Laruma river on the west. Prior to the village's occupation it had been 50 per cent wiped out by divebombing attacks.

Headquarters reported today the second roundtrip flight of more than 2,000 miles within less than a week by Liberators for a night attack on Soerabaja, former Dutch naval base now held by the Japanese of Java. Twenty-two-tons were dropped, duplicating the earlier raid.

Allied planes kept up the ceaseless attacks on shipping in the New Ireland-New Britain sector from which the Japanese on Bougainville must draw their support. A Liberator, in the latest blow, scored a bombhit which damaged a 7,000-ton merchantman off Kavieng, New Ireland.

Units of the Japanese air force attempted one of their infrequent forays against Darwin, Australia. They lost two bombers and caused minor damage in two night raids.

At Darwin, which now has been raided 84 times by enemy planes, Spitfires intercepted the nine latest raiders.

The offensive action announced at Empress Augusta bay occurred Wednesday.

(Previous dispatches had told of 250 Japanese being killed there last Sunday and Monday and of 150 being slain Tuesday. If these are not overlapping reports, at least 100 enemy troops have died there recently attempting to check the American offensive.)

The exact distance gained Wednesday from the initial beachhead was not stated.

The beachhead by passes enemy troops garrisoned around Buin on Bougainville's south coast and is 260 miles southeast of Rabaul.

The new raid on Soerabaja, the third of the war, was made Friday.

In the extremely vital but less spectacular air war on Japanese supply barges, P-29s swept low in the Bo-

DAVIS IS RUNNING ON 'OWN MERITS'

PONCHATOULA, La., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Gubernatorial candidate James H. (Jimmy) Davis told voters here today that he was running on a "strictly Jimmy Davis ticket."

Continuing his tour of the sixth congressional district, the public safety commissioner from Shreveport said:

"So that you will not be misinformed, get this straight from Jimmy Davis, and I speak to you straight from the shoulder—I am running strictly on my own merits and on the Jimmy Davis ticket. Of course, I am seeking the approval and endorsement of all individuals, and I am trying to get votes from all factions, but when I am elected governor I will be the governor of all the people. There will be no politicians swinging on to me at Baton Rouge telling me what I can do or cannot do."

DELTA SEEKS AIR LINE TO HAVANA

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Otis Hardy, Delta Air lines agent here, announced today his company has made application to the Civil Aeronautics board in Washington for permission to establish a direct cross-gulf air route from New Orleans to Havana, Cuba.

The proposed route, first sought by the company outside the United States, would be a direct extension of the company's present route from Fort Worth to New Orleans via Dallas, Shreveport, Alexandria and Baton Rouge, Mr. Hardy said.

The distance from here to Havana is 678 air miles.

Although air service has been offered between Havana and Miami, Fla., for several years no air line now operates between Havana and New Orleans.

AMERICAN FORCES IN GRIM, SEE-SAW FIGHTING IN ITALY

British Army Still Moving Into Position On Sangro River

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Winter descended on the Italian front in earnest today with the American Fifth army locked in grim, see-saw fighting with the Germans on the main road to Rome and the British Eighth army still moving into position against enemy lines along the Sangro river.

The Fifth army made what headquarters described as "further local advances against stiff resistance and in difficult country," occupying the towns of Filignano and Pozzili, respectively four miles north and two miles northeast of Venafro and about 25 miles inland from the Tyrrhenian coast.

The Germans in their determined resistance have struck out at several points, and headquarters disclosed for the first time today that on Thursday the Germans had beaten the Fifth army back and occupied high grounds on Mount Camino, north of the town of Mignano strategically guarding the road to Rome.

The allies had taken the heights on Wednesday. After losing them to the Germans in Thursday's counterattacks, they smashed forward Friday and not only regained the lost ground but won new positions.

The Eighth army was engaged principally in sending out patrols, one of which crossed the Sangro river and wiped out a German machine-gun nest. To the south they repelled a German counterattack in brisk fighting between allied-held Casalagnida and Nazi-held Atessi, and succeeded in occupying important high ground.

The struggle during the past week has demonstrated conclusively that the Germans still cherish the hope of staving off a real attack on Rome for months, thereby nullifying any prospects the allies have of using Italy as a jumping off point for further assaults against axis-held Europe in the spring.

The terrain and the weather as well as reinforcements of several divisions which the Nazi command moved into the line during the past week combined to give Generals Clark and Montgomery one of the toughest assignments any allied commanders have yet faced.

The Germans have 11 divisions (perhaps 165,000 men) on the line now, and the Americans, slugging it out with tough enemy veterans from the Russian front, found that the mountain strongholds around Mignano had been prepared with meticulous care.

LIE TEST GIVEN TO DE MARIGNY

Criminologist Says Instrument Proves Man's Innocence

NASSAU, Bahhamas, No. 13.—(AP)—Alfred De Marigny answered with an unhesitating "no" when asked during a lie detector test if he killed Sir Harry Oakes, Leonarde B. Keeler, private criminologist, declared today.

Keeler said the needles of the machine kept on a straight path indicating the truth when De Marigny, acquitted by a Bahamas supreme court jury of a charge of slaying his wealthy father-in-law, answered the question in a demonstration last night.

The lie detector device is not recognized by British courts and could not be used in De Marigny's defense during the sensational 22-day trial which ended with a verdict of innocent Thursday night.

Twenty friends, including Defense Attorneys Godfrey Higgs and W. E. A. Callender and their wives and the Baron and Baroness Georg Af Trolle watched, the room tense with excitement.

Keeler began with unimportant questions then asked, "When you took

CLEO DORTHLON DIES IN ACTION

Another Ouachita parish war casualty was made known when Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Dorthlon, West Monroe, Route 4, were informed by the war department that their son, Private Cleo Dorthlon, died in Italy in action on October 11. He had been in service exactly a year and four days. He attended schools of the parish and was also a member of the Sunday school class at Pleasant Hill church, ten miles out on the Jonesboro highway.

He leaves his parents; five sisters, Mrs. R. L. LeBrun, West Monroe; Mrs. Velma McMellon, and Mrs. Ida Mae Trichell, Fairbanks; Mrs. Ozie McMelion and Mrs. Laura Trichell, Criston, La.; and two brothers, Jimmie and Paul Dorthlon, living at home with their parents.

Found In Ditch

This unidentified baby girl, found abandoned in a ditch at Mobile, Ala., November 6, is all smiles now—with toys and new clothes given by new-found friends. The infant was named "Rosemary" by the Sisters of Charity who are caring for her at Mobile's City hospital. Police have found no clues to her identity or that of whoever abandoned her.

WIDOW WILL AID IN DEATH PROBE

Mrs. Gene Mano Returning Voluntarily To New Orleans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Gene Mano, 30, is returning to New Orleans to help solve the mystery death of a man identified as her husband, police reported today.

Detective Sergeant Walter Perry of the homicide squad said the woman bought a railroad ticket yesterday and may be on the way to the southern city. She was not at her rooming house this morning and a little girl who answered a knock at the door said she was gone.

The girl didn't know where Mrs. Mano was or whether she would return.

Washington police said they had no official interest in the case. They disclosed that Mrs. Mano went to them voluntarily several days ago offering to help if she could.

Mrs. Mano came to Washington, she told police, after her husband left her. She had turned down an offer of New Orleans police to hunt Mano, saying, police quoted, "If he wants to leave me, let him go."

WOMAN VOLUNTEERS TO ASSIST POLICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Theresa A. Mano, wife of Gene Mano, missing French market butcher, wired New Orleans police today from Washington, D. C., and volunteered to come here to aid in solving the mystery of her husband's disappearance.

A body believed to be that of Mano was found Wednesday in a shallow grave near suburban Willswood. Dr. M. M. Odom, Jefferson parish coroner.

EXPECTS ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR

General Richardson States 100-Plane Raid Couldn't Be Stopped

SAYS ASSAULT FITS INTO FOE'S MILITARY SCHEME

HONOLULU, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The commanding general of army forces in Hawaii believes that another Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor is likely within the next four months.

Vital installations, army and navy hangars and supply dumps on Oahu island would be the primary targets. If incendiaries were used some might be dropped on Honolulu's waterfront.

These are the considered opinions of military experts including Lieutenant General Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commanding army forces in Hawaii and in the central Pacific areas, and other military authorities.

General Richardson expressed the views in a conversation after studying reports about the sighting of an enemy plane the night of October 16. That enemy plane was caught in searchlight beams near Pearl Harbor but it escaped.

When the writer said that he was taking bets that Pearl Harbor would be attacked within six months, the general said that he would be willing to reduce the time to four months.

How the Japs would do it is the logical question.

The general replies: Cite one example wherein a 100-plane attack has been stopped. Never. The Germans still raid London. The United Nations, despite flying over hundreds of miles of enemy territory containing radio and sound detection devices, fighter planes and antiaircraft positions, still get their bombloads to their targets with a loss of perhaps five per cent; never more than 20 per cent.

In the Pacific, we recently hit Rabaul, catching more than 100 Jap planes on the ground. Wake, Tarawa, Rekata bay—to name a few—are other examples of catching the Jap with his planes down. On Doolittle's Tokyo raid, the carriers Hornet and Enterprise were intercepted 750 miles away by radio-equipped patrol boats and yet Tokyo did not repel the attack. Too, the Japs successfully punched through attacks at Pearl Harbor, Manila, Midway, Wake, Guadalcanal, Port Darwin.

Why should Oahu be the target?

An attack upon this fortress fits into the military scheme. It is beyond calculation what it would be worth to the enemy to cause Pearl Harbor serious damage at this stage of the war. It is the base from which we must defeat Japan. And if this naval base is destroyed it will delay the defeat of Japan.

For vainglorious face-lifting what could be better propaganda than a second attack on Pearl Harbor?

The bright spot in the picture is that Oahu stands ready to destroy any surface or invasion force, regardless of its might.

With what would the Japanese make such a raid?

It is known that Japan has a first rate carrier force with which she has been extremely cautious since Santa Cruz, October 26, 1942. The chances are remote that she would risk these in ship for ship action. To date, in every action the Japanese used carriers only when they had us outnumbered two to one. There remains then the sneak raid use. The Japanese command is not timid. Its first six months' bold army and navy campaign won one of the world's largest and richest

SECRET WEAPON MAY BE ROCKET

Suicide Parachutists And Stratosphere Bombers Considered

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Germany's "secret weapon" may be either rocket guns, suicide parachutists, stratosphere bombers or gas—arrayed in the order of their possibility—but all of these have become the subject of much speculation since Prime Minister Churchill gravely warned of possible new forms of attack on England.

In giving official cognizance to the threat in his speech Tuesday, the prime minister hinted that the Nazis' projected new methods of warfare might not be entirely secret, assuring the nation that the British have been watching closely for signs of such developments—and presumably planning counter action.

Rocket guns, of which the "bazooka" used by American ground forces and the plane-mounted type being put into use by the German air force are examples, seem the most likely threat. They appeal to military observers as a better weapon for extreme long-range bombardment than the "big Berthas" which shelled Paris from 76 miles in the last war.

No reason is seen why big rocket guns could not be built to fire on London from the French coast 100 miles away.

Because they are self-propelling, needing only a comparatively light force to start them off, rocket projectiles can be launched from a simple, durable apparatus, contrasting sharply to the "big Berthas" which not only were intricate and costly, but wore out after 30 rounds had been fired.

The great disadvantage of rockets at extreme range is their lack of ac-

PHILIPPINES TO BE FREED, HULL SAYS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's pledge to redeem the Philippines is certain of fulfillment, Secretary of State Cordell Hull said today in a statement on the eighth anniversary of the establishment of the Philippine commonwealth.

Warning that the Japanese never would withdraw voluntarily from the Philippines, to whom he said they had granted "independence" in name only, Hull said flatly:

"They will not remain. They will be driven out."

"No one knows better than the Filipinos themselves that so-called independence at the hands of the Japanese, whose one thought is to stifle Filipino initiative, to stunt Filipino culture, and to mold the Filipino people to Japan's purposes of empire and self-aggrandizement, denotes independence only in name," Hull declared.

"Remembering their life before Japan came, the Filipinos will not forget their rightful heritage and will wonder how Japan, itself the slave of its own military, could hope to grant real independence to another people."

RUSSIANS SPEED TOWARD POLAND

Only 60 Miles From Old Border, Converging On Korosten

CAPTURE MORE THAN 100 TOWNS IN DAY'S BATTLE

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Red army virtually split the Germans' Ukraine forces yesterday by capturing the rail junction of Zhitomir and sped on today toward the old Polish border 60 miles beyond.

Soviet forces smashed into the city on the Leningrad-Odessa line from the east, west and south and it was conquered after a violent night struggle.

Other units, Moscow said, were converging on Korosten, a second vital junction on the same line to the north. One group took Chernyakhov, on the railway 13 miles above Zhitomir and 33 miles south of Korosten.

A third force that drove into Malin was 27 miles east of Korosten. Occupation of this town would force the Germans to re-route all their north-south traffic through the Pripet marshes of pre-war Poland.

More than 100 towns fell in yesterday's drive that bled the Germans with "enormous losses in manpower and equipment," said the Moscow midnight communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Another important Russian attack northeast of the Zhitomir-Korosten area was plunging ahead through the marshes toward Rechitsa, now but 15 miles away, to outflank Gomel in White Russia.

Twelve heavily fortified German strongpoints were taken and about 2,000 Germans were declared wiped out in the bloody fighting. Large numbers of prisoners were taken and tanks, guns and stores destroyed or captured by the Russians.

The fall of Zhitomir also gained another important milestone on one of the few east-west automobile roads in Russia from Kiev to southern Poland. Its capture was announced by Marshal Joseph Stalin exactly a week after he had triumphantly hailed the fall of Kiev, 85 miles eastward.

Later details told of fighting in the streets before the Germans fled during the night leaving large stores of ammunition, provisions, big guns and trucks behind. In one town in the area the Russians said they found 128 trucks, 1,000 rifles and 30 guns and mortars.

Russian guerillas also were operating behind German lines in the Zhitomir region and the communique said they derailed two German troop trains and three repair trains. About 400 Germans were killed or wounded in the wrecks.

Southeast of Zhitomir the Germans beat frantically at Russian forces holding the town of Fastov. One German

GERMANS TRYING TO TAKE LEROS

Reinforcements Are Landed Both By Boat And Parachute

CAIRO, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Germans in an all-out effort to take Leros from the Allies landed reinforcements both by boat and by parachute and on the second day of stiff fighting got a footing on the northwest corner of the tiny Aegean island, it was disclosed officially today.

The Germans dropped numerous parachutists in the center of Leros as sea-borne invaders landed on the coasts, and Nazi dive-bombers attacked the British and Italian defenders repeatedly. Landings were made in force on the west coast.

Reports from the island continued to be sketchy as the Allies fought off the second day of attack. No authoritative persons in Cairo was hazarding any predictions on the eventual outcome.

A British Middle east command communique today said that "throughout yesterday the Germans continued to reinforce their troops invading Leros and are endeavoring to consolidate their beachheads. Fighting continues and casualties are being inflicted on the enemy."

The Germans, in dropping parachutists were using tactics which were successful in the investment of Crete in 1941.

The middle east air command sent long-range fighters as well as bomb-

SAYS LEGISLATURE MUST APPROVE SUMS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Attorney General Eugene Stanley said in a statement today that he had advised Governor Jones verbally that any attempt by state agencies to borrow money without legislative approval would be a violation of the law.

The attorney general stated that he had been incorrectly quoted as being opposed to the borrowing for state agencies unless the proposed borrowing also included teachers salaries.

"My position simply is that the board of liquidation cannot authorize the borrowing of any money for any purpose without a poll of the legislature, and without legislative approval," Stanley's statement said.

"I will introduce a resolution at the next meeting of the board to poll the legislature to authorize the borrowing of a sufficient sum to take care of the needs of the 34 agencies whose funds have been cut off as a result of the Carso decision, and I will also introduce a resolution to poll the legislature to authorize the borrowing of a sufficient amount to increase the pay of school teachers, bus drivers and other employes, and will also introduce another resolution to poll the legislature for authority to borrow a sufficient amount to take care of the request of the police jurors, provided it is shown that a grave emergency exists which justifies the borrowing of money for such purposes."

U. S. BOMBERS ATTACK BREMEN

Blast Rail Yards, Bridges, Highways And Best German Port

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—American Flying Fortresses and Liberator bombers, protected by Thunderbolt and Lightning fighters, fought through swarms of German fighters, thick clouds and 50-below-zero temperature today to batter the vital port and communications center of Bremen.

Railway yards, canals, highways, bridges and the Germans' best port since the destruction of Hamburg were blasted by the American heavy bombers which also took a toll of 33 nazi interceptors. The accompanying hunderbolts and Lightnings accounted for 10 more enemy aircraft for a total of 43.

In swamping the heavily-defended port—using a new technique of bombing through the clouds, Berlin said—15 of the big bombers and nine American fighters were reported missing.

"Several hundred" German fighters were seen by the Thunderbolts and Lightnings which in escorting the bombers made their longest and most hazardous mission to date, it was announced.

The importance of the raid—the

TWO AIRMEN KILLED ON TRAINING FLIGHT

THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN LOUISIANA, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The public relations office of the third army announced today that a captain and a non-commissioned officer were killed in the crash of an artillery liaison plane on a routine maneuver training flight.

The accident occurred late yesterday a half mile east of Burr Ferry, La. The victims were identified as Captain Worth S. McCue, whose wife lives at Fairhope, Ala., and technician fifth grade Cecil G. Patterson, husband of Mrs. Katherine B. Patterson, South Elm street, Greensboro, N. C.

The victims were identified by the public relations office as members of an infantry division artillery unit.

PLANS DISCUSSED FOR AIR ROUTES

Chamber Of Commerce Anxious To Obtain North-South Route

Post-war commercial aviation as it will relate to Monroe was among matters discussed at the meeting Friday of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce board is keenly interested in seeing that the Twin Cities are well cared for on the airways' map after the war, George Holland, secretary, stated. Delta Air lines, in east-west operations, stopping off at Selman field airport was termed entirely adequate, but the Chamber board, Mr. Holland said, wants a responsible major airline operating through the Twin Cities in a north-south direction.

Discussed Saturday was the CAA's refusal to hear the application of Eastern Airlines to furnish passenger service and air mail between Memphis and Corpus Christi, along with an application to operate between Detroit and Memphis.

The refusal of the CAA was termed a keen disappointment, since it was said it would to a very great advantage here to be on Eastern Airline's route from Detroit to Memphis, to Monroe, and thence to Corpus Christi, with connections to Mexico and South American points.

CAA has said the hearings on the applications for Eastern Airline's permits to operate between Memphis and Corpus Christi, and Detroit and Memphis, will be held separately.

Other major airlines have expressed interest in a route established through Monroe's Selman field airport, one of the finest in the United States, offering every facility needed for post-war aviation here, Mr. Holland said.

The local Chamber board also decided Friday to initiate a real study of Ouachita parish post-war problems beginning immediately after January 1. A series of 12 readjustment conferences will take place to which Chamber board members and other interested citizens will be invited. A general meeting of the Chamber members during the second week of January will precede the 12 conferences.

Enthusiastic approval of the public hearing held before the national board for rivers and harbors here at the court house in Monroe last Wednesday was expressed by Chamber of Commerce board members.

Opinion of the local chamber members was that the case of facts presented to the national board from Washington, D. C., concerning the proposed channelizing projects in four streams here in northeast Louisiana, ably expressed the economic feasibility of the projects to the federal government, according to George Holland.

Attitude here is that there could be no better project carried out in the post-war period to compare in value with these public works, Mr. Holland stated. A saving of millions of dollars, he said, would be made each year in crops grown on acreage in 11 Louisiana parishes and five Arkansas counties.

THEFT SUSPECT DRINKS POISON

Officers Say Clarence Wilson Attempted To End Life

Clarence E. Wilson, taken into custody by Bossier City police officers early Friday morning for theft of an automobile belonging to a Monroe man, S. T. Glusketer, tried to commit suicide Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock when officers from the Monroe police and sheriff's departments went to return him here for trial, Monroe officers said. It was stated that Wilson swallowed a considerable amount of poison. Doctors refused to allow him to be brought back and the man is under guard now at the Charity hospital in Bossier City for a period of 24 to 48 hours.

Wilson, who was acquitted two weeks ago in Monroe in district court on a similar charge of auto theft, had previously served two penitentiary terms and is considered a habitual criminal and a desperate man, officers say.

Thursday night at 9:30, S. T. Glusketer who lives in the Frances hotel, reported the theft of his 1941 black Buick sedan. At 3 o'clock Friday morning the police department here received word from Bossier City police that they had made three arrests in connection with stolen car, acting on information which was broadcast around midnight.

Wilson had been held in the city jail at Bossier City awaiting his transfer back to Monroe to stand trial.

ASTP INSTALLS NEW OFFICIALS

Cadet Hayden New Captain; Other Officers Are Selected

Cadet Warren G. Hayden was installed November 9 as new cadet captain of the ASTP unit, replacing W W. "Tat" Tatgenhorst who had commanded the organization since its inauguration in August. Going into office at the same time and succeeding James E. Hutson as adjutant was Bernard "Tex" Graybill. Leon Flemmons, cadet first sergeant, took over the job formerly held by Rudolph Halliburton.

Hayden came to N. J. C. by the way of the STAR unit at Arkansas college in Jonesboro. He was assigned there from a west coast medical outfit attached to the Air corps. Since arriving here he has been platoon sergeant and platoon leader, finally attaining his present position of cadet company commander.

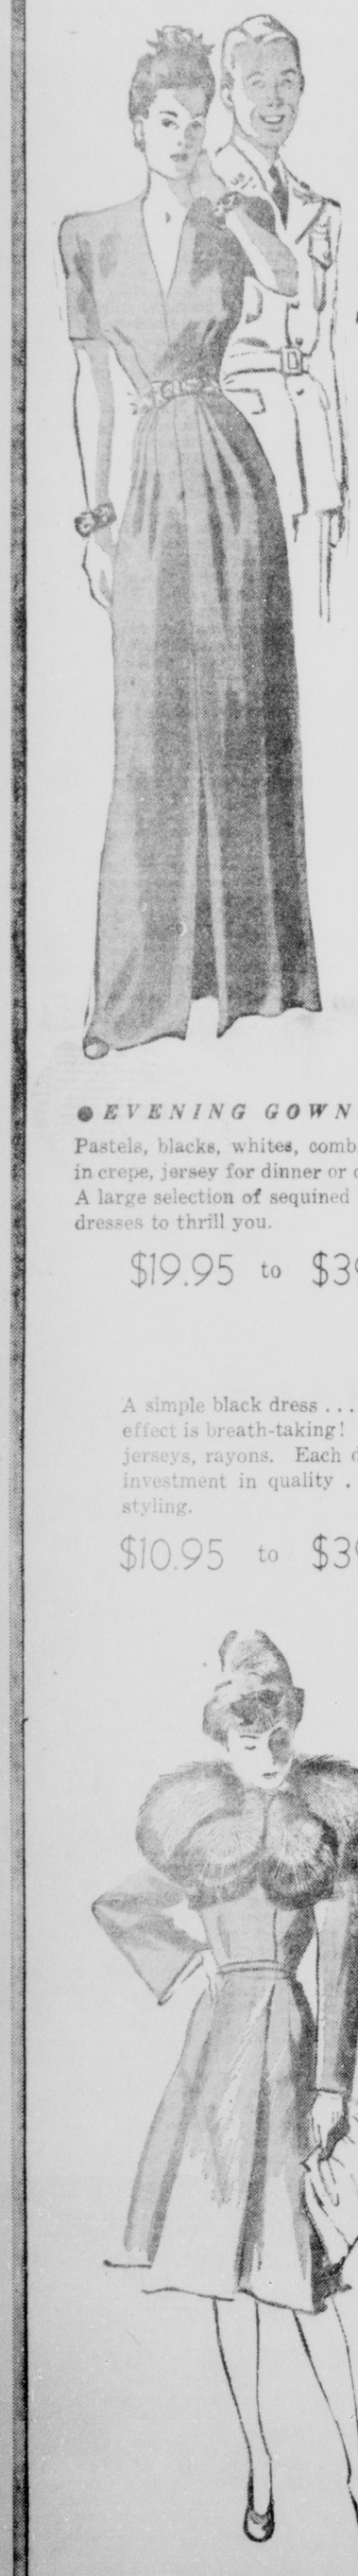

The new officers, selected by the commanding officer of the unit, Lieutenant Harry G. Zink, will have full charge of the company and will operate in the same manner that proved so efficient in the smooth organization of the unit for the past three months.

New platoon leaders were also selected and put into office on the same day, and they in turn chose their non-commissioned officers to assist in the operation of each platoon. Now commanding the first platoon is Bob Egan while Guy Huber is the new leader of the second platoon. Retiring company commander Tatgenhorst is the third platoon lieutenant and Harold Wendt and Harold Mooney command the fourth and fifth platoons respectively.

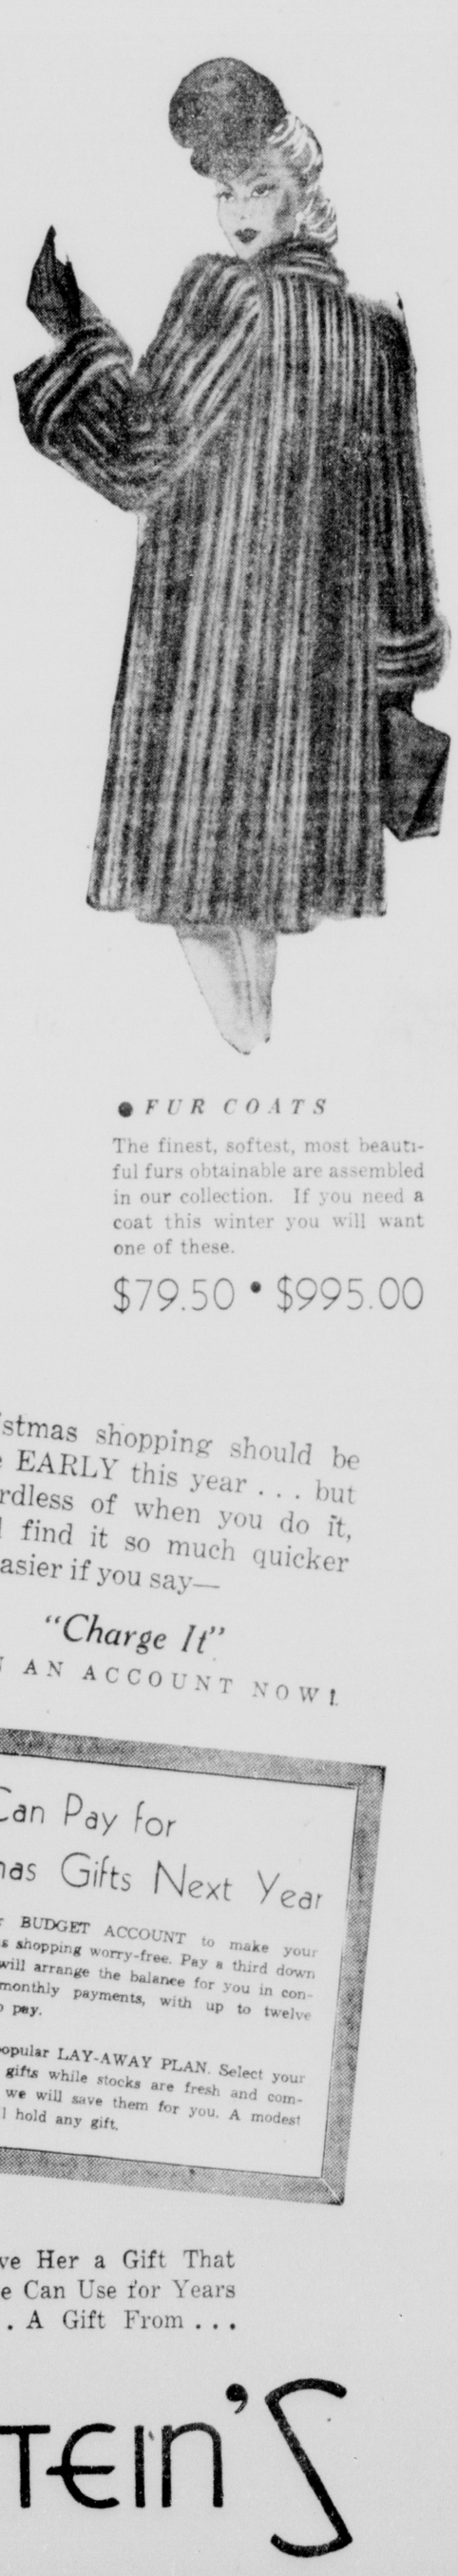

TO HAVE JOINT LUNCH

LIPP ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

Prominent West Carroll Man Seeks Senatorship From 28th District

Marvin Lipp, a lifelong resident of West Carroll parish, yesterday officially announced his candidacy for state senator from the 28th senatorial district, comprising the parishes of Lincoln, Union, Morehouse and West Carroll. He issued the following statement:

"In my estimation, the wartime votes in the four parishes of our senatorial district are in a serious mood a thinking mood. They have their feet on the ground. They are realistic. They seek straight fact. They have little time for fanfare or for the dramatic. They want, above all else, to get on with the war.

"So, I believe, even without the attendant restrictions which will limit extensive travel on the part of all the candidates, the voters would consider unnecessary travel on the part of any who us in the various campaigns as unpatriotic. In fact, the voters are under unravel restrictions themselves, and just can't turn out for a lot of political meetings to hear speeches.

"Therefore, many of the voters in this big, four-parish district probably won't even see me during the course of the campaign—because I won't be traveling around much—but I surely hope that all of our citizens will study my qualifications, review my record, get hold of the facts—largely through what messages I find myself financially able to place in newspapers throughout the district—and then, if they consider me worthy, accord their support to my candidacy and their vote at the polls.

"It is after serious and mature deliberation that I have reached the decision to become a candidate for the important office of one of our district's state senators; but I believe the principles for which I stand will accrue to the benefit of each and every citizen of the parishes of our district, to the district as a whole and to the state, and I seek opportunity of performing such services to the best of my ability, if it is the people's will that I do so.

"I have no political axe to grind; I am not a part of any political alliance, so I have no political favors to grant and none to ask except that you, as a citizen, accord favorable support to my candidacy. In return, I shall do my dead-level best to serve you efficiently, and you can be assured that I shall serve you honestly and fairly.

"Having never been aligned with any faction, and seeking one of your senatorial posts as an independent candidate, I believe I am in a position to work effectively with any and all of the other officials in helping to solve the grave problems which confront us in the district and the state.

"I want nothing to do with any campaigns of condemnation and hate, and I have no reason for engaging in such.

"It's my belief that all constructive legislation should be retained—no matter under whose administration it was enacted. I'm strongly for an adequate system of social welfare and old-age assistance; for continuance, of course, of free school books and supplies; for continuance and strengthening of the civil service system; for improved hospital privileges and facilities; for continuance of homestead exemptions; for proper accounting in all official financing; for increased school support and more adequate pay for teachers and school bus drivers; and certainly, for adequate funds for construction, improvement and maintenance of rural roads within our district and throughout the state; and for programs that will give our parishes much needed drainage and soil conservation projects. Improved farm marketing facilities are also regarded by me as essential.

"I further am in favor of more vocational training in our schools, both along the lines of agriculture and the various trades, and shall work in behalf of such development.

"Further, of course, I am vitally interested in a sound program looking toward rehabilitation and employment of our returning service men.

"And these things I'm against: Political fraud and double-dealing, insincerity, dishonesty, inefficiency, factional haggling and squabbling, waste and extravagance, the use of political position for purposes of personal bias or prejudice. . . . In short, I'm against 'nobody' as an individual, but I am opposed, along with all of our conscientious citizens, to the political abuses mentioned.

"I shall make you no promises impossible of fulfillment, but I can promise you, without equivocation, my full support of sound, sensible and businesslike legislation in the interest of our people, our district and our state. I promise you that I shall oppose those moves and measures which I conscientiously consider not in the interest of the public welfare.

"With these statements, I submit my candidacy to your consideration and assure you that I shall be grateful for your support."

March was considered the first month of the year in England until the adoption of the Gregorian calendar in 1752.

SELMAN GRAD GETS PURPLE HEART

Lt. Ralph Guinzburg, 43-2, Awarded Medal For Rescue Of Crew Member In Crash

The cool heroism of a graduate of the navigation school at Selman field resulted recently in his being awarded the Purple Heart after he had saved the life of a fellow member when their B-17 Flying Fortress crashed into the English channel after a bombing mission over Europe.

The officer, Lieutenant Ralph V. Guinzburg, 27, of New York, was navigator aboard the Fortress when German fighters singled it out for attack. During the battle Lieutenant Guinzburg was wounded in the ankle by a piece of flying shrapnel. The plane was disabled, and as it started its 1,000-foot-a-minute glide toward the sea, the pilot ordered all enlisted crew members to bail out. Then the four officers began nursing the gigantic plane toward the English coast, hoping they could glide it to a landing. Seven miles off the English coast, the plane crashed into the channel, knocking two officers unconscious and throwing Lieutenant Guinzburg against the roof, inflicting a serious scalp wound. The plane began to settle, and Guinzburg lifted a crew member to the escape hatch, put him in a rubber life raft, and helped the other three officers aboard. They were later rescued.

For the action, Lieutenant Guinzburg was awarded the Purple Heart, which was pinned on him by Colonel (now Brigadier General) Curtis E. LeMay, then in command of the group to which Lieutenant Guinzburg was assigned. LeMay was later promoted and it is now believed he heads a wing of the Eighth air force.

Lieutenant Guinzburg graduated with Class 43-2 at Selman field on February 6 of this year. He is also a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. Since receiving the award, he has been returned to action.

A Job Well Done

It was announced yesterday that the combined Community Chest and United War Fund campaign had reached its quota. The total amount of money and pledges tabulated had not been announced at the time this was written, and it probably won't be known for several days just what that figure is, but it is indeed gratifying to know that those in charge of a drive which sought to raise the largest amount of money ever obtained in a campaign for charity here have succeeded.

More than $75,000 was raised in the drive which is now closed. To those who gave generously, the directing committee of men and women has expressed its sincere appreciation. But to these men and women who devoted a great deal of their time and effort during the campaign go the sincere thanks of the underprivileged who will benefit by their efforts, and the admiration of the rest of us for a job well done.

Without the organization genius of its leaders and the ability of these leaders to imbue their co-workers with their enthusiasm for a worthy cause, such campaigns are doomed to failure before they start. In this instance, however, the men who were given the task of organizing the drive and conducting it to its successful conclusion more than measured up to the responsibilities entrusted them.

Thus, to Mr. R. C. White and Mr. Clyde Brown and their immediate associates and conferees in planning and conducting the campaign; and to the hundreds of men and women who devoted many hours in making the actual solicitation, as well as to those who gave their money, go the sincere thanks of our citizens who have made an enviable record as a community which is ever ready and willing to bear its responsibilities in any emergency.

DIE AND LEARN

General principles of warfare have not changed much since the beginning of mass fighting, but the armed force that does not learn, day by day, from its costly mistakes, is doomed either to failure or to paying more for victory than victory may be worth.

One reason for the failure of war outcome prophecies based on superficial observation and noted chiefly for glib generalities is ignorance of changes in weapons and in their employment in minor tactics. Offensive war is constantly being improved. Around the clock men on the combat fronts are reporting what can be done to increase offensive power. But every improvement in offensive power stimulates first the field improvising of a defense and then the embodiment of proved defensive methods in materiel and in training programs.

The Germans believed that in the armored divisions supported from the air they had at last invented the irresistible military force. They believed that they had made Germany safe against vertical invasion by finding a way to destroy enemy air opposition at its point of origin, the airplane factory. Failure of their submarine campaign after they sank more than 600 vessels off the American coast only stimulated the invention of a torpedo which they believed would enable them to clear the Atlantic of all shipping. But they are being whipped.

Today the United Nations are proving that an alert, searching review of combat experience, quickly assimilated and speeded back to munitions plants for changes of design, and to training centers for study, soon produces battle-front results. With its flexible industry and its habit of research and improvement, the United States has an advantage in this competition. The routine is costly in lives in time and in money, but it will pay off in a quicker, more complete victory.

AXIS RESISTANCE

With allied attack becoming more devastating by the hour, the question of how long the axis will resist is being increasingly discussed. Will Germany and Japan resist until all weapons are beaten from their grasp or will they anticipate defeat to avoid the ultimate in destruction.

Within Nazi Germany, so far as the fuehrer has disclosed, no time limit has been placed upon resistance. The Nazis are in the blackest of all plights. At one time they believed they had the war won. Now they know it is lost.

The losing phase becomes more and more destructive of German life and property as time passes. Will Germany continue resistance when it has become madness. Many observers predict that the end will come as it did in Italy, with the palace guard overthrowing the fuehrer.

The Japanese at one time may have had hopes of defeating America and Britain. Now the Japs no longer speak of victory. They threaten to prolong the conflict for five years, or until such time as the allies are willing to concede some of Japan's gains. That is a futile hope.

The war will be pressed in the Pacific until Japan is incapable of demanding anything. When all of the Anglo-American power is brought to bear, will Japs continue to think in terms of five years of resistance?

Against both axis enemies the war is going well. There is now very great effectiveness in its prosecution—effectiveness that will gain momentum as time passes. As the scope of the attack increases, resistance may collapse sooner than expected.

Now that weather censorship has been lifted, the general conversation may be expected to return to normal.

News from the southwest Pacific proves that when General MacArthur does get a few planes he knows what to do with them.

Jap ships are being sunk faster than they can be replaced, but according to all indications this will soon be one of Japan's minor worries.

Maine, with an area of 33,040 square miles, is the largest state in New England.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13.—In this column, I've repeatedly urged Hollywood producers to do everything possible to keep alive the names and memories of former screen stars now in the service—not only because men fighting for their country deserve such consideration, but because it's sound business for the motion picture industry to protect the standing of its box-office personalities. Today, I want to make a similar suggestion to exhibitors.

Yesterday, while lunching in a little Hollywood cafe, I found the walls papered with photographs of ex-actors in uniform. It occurred to me that the owner of that sandwich shop had an idea which theater owners should copy. Why not set aside a section of wall space in every theater lobby for photographs of in-the-service actors, each in his proper uniform?

I realize that the list of Hollywood's fighting men is long, and that lobby space is at a premium, therefore I'm not suggesting that any one theater should attempt to pay tribute to all such stars. Instead, let Paramount theaters use photos of Paramount stars; MGM houses concentrate on MGM stars, and so on. In that way, every actor in uniform would have his share of the spotlight, and every theater would be doing its part.

I believe movie fans would cheer such a gallery of honor, for they regard Hollywood's service men as personal friends, and are, therefore, curious concerning their whereabouts. Hollywood, I'm sure, would gladly supply the necessary photographs.

Mention Paulette Goddard's acting ability to a Hollywood audience and, no matter what side you choose, you'll get an argument. Half of your listeners will extol her as a born comedienne, the rest will shrug her off as nothing more than a catchy personality. But no arguments are forthcoming about her ability as a business woman. With the possible exception of Ruth Roland, no actress has ever been more successful in making pennies blossom into dollars. Her screen and radio contracts invariably pay her maximum wages; her off-screen investments never fail to yield big profits. Hollywood psychology being what it is, her business acumen has probably won her more respect than an Academy Oscar could ever have gleaned. Remind me to tell you, sometime, how a producer once doubled Irene Rich's salary because he was impressed by her profits on a real estate deal.

Speaking of money, here's a chuckle. Before going into the navy, Robert Taylor gave his airplane to the Los Angeles sheriff's office. Last week, that plane was rented to a studio for flying scenes. The rental fee was $50 a day. Taylor, as a one-and-a-half striper in Uncle Sam's navy, is earning approximately one-tenth as much!

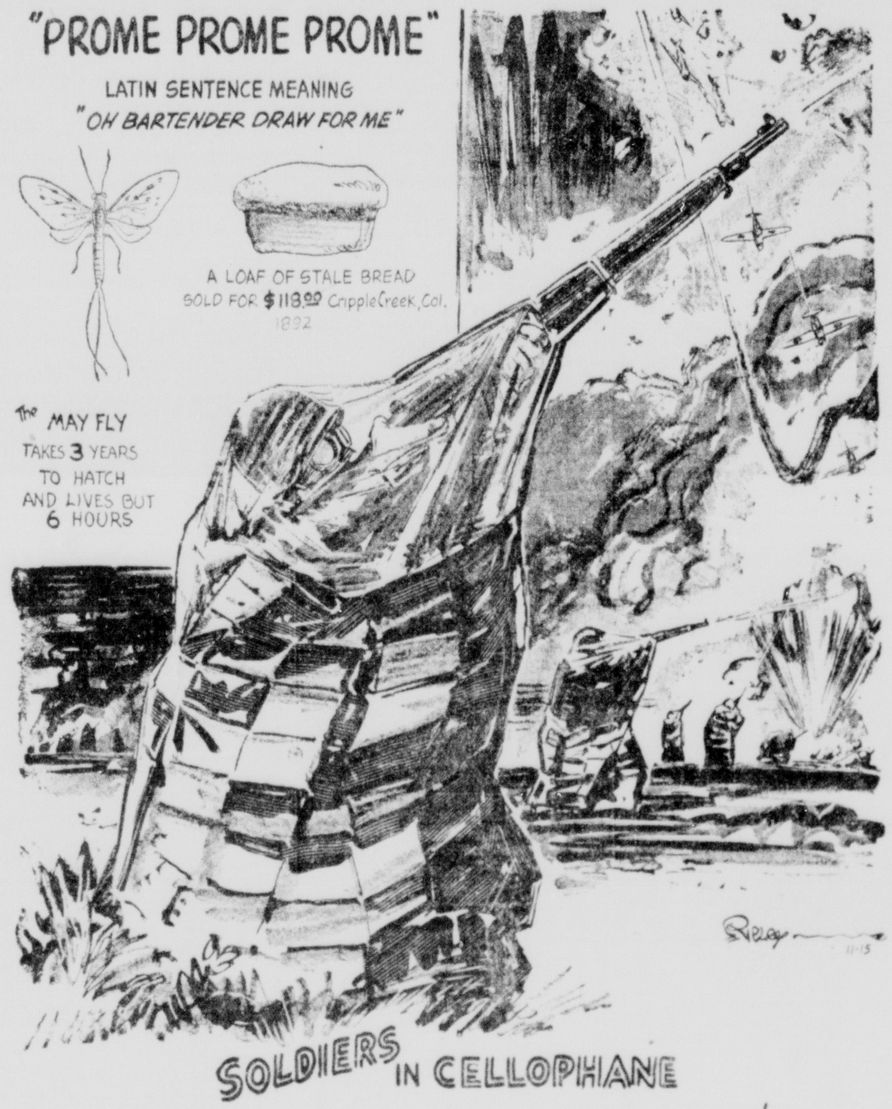

There's an old adage—I can't remember the exact quotation—about words of wisdom coming from the mouths of babes. Never was its truth better illustrated than when a fan magazine interviewer asked Joel Kupperman, the seven-year-old wonder child of the "Quiz Kids" program, to give his impressions of screen acting. Joel, brought here for a Universal picture, thought deeply for a moment, then delivered this classic summation: "They just give you some words to say and then take your picture while you're saying them!" How's that, Paul Muni?

If you think the west coast isn't feeling the gasoline shortage, give this tid-bit a thought. The other day RKO's "International Zone" troupe, numbering nearly 400 people, was scheduled for location scenes not in the remote hinterlands, but on the studio's ranch, less than 15 miles from the main lot and well within the Los Angeles city limits. Within an hour after the location "call" had been posted, front office telephones began to buzz. Ninety per cent of the troupe protested that they couldn't drive that many miles on their gas allowances. Shooting had to be held up for two days while studio carpenters constructed living quarters on the ranch to house the entire company.

Speaking of shortages, a friend of mine paid Wallace Beery a visit the other day—and came back laughing. He found Beery and his 13-year-old Carol Ann, sans all domestic help, taking care of their 14-room house. At the moment, Wally had a pillow between his teeth while he struggled, in approved housewife fashion, to cover it with a clean slip. I've heard of stars without domestics before, and taken the ensuing wails in stride, but somehow, when I think of "Butch" Beery making beds, I know we must be fighting a war!

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 21
Texts: Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19:11, 13; Luke 19:1-10, 45, 46
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The blending of Old Testament and New Testament texts in the study material for this and other lessons of the present quarter is significant, and is not without an important basis in the appreciation of fundamental facts in the realism of human relations.

The Jewish law contained a great deal that many devout Jews no longer observe, and that Christians who gratefully recognize their great heritage from the Old Testament never have regarded as binding upon the Christian conscience—matters of ritual observance, and of formal injunctions and inhibitions, that may easily be distinguished from considerations of inherently moral value and of matters of essential justice, mercy, and gracious living between man and man.

Particularly we have reserved the Ten Commandments, but we have disregarded much that was fine and noble in Jewish provisions for the general welfare. In principle at least, and in whatever adaptation might be necessary, these ought to have an essential place in modern life—such provisions, for instance, as were embodied in the land laws, the Year of Jubilee, the cities of refuge, and other measures designed to prevent oppression and to promote humanitarian acts of justice, restoration, and recovery.

The Bible is still our greatest and finest text-book in matters pertaining to the welfare of society.

The study of early Jewish society, and the principles laid down for its protection and welfare, of which the Ten Commandments are a part, is valuable and enlightening because we see there laid bare, as we cannot always see them in our modern complex society, the basic facts of human existence, and the basic conditions that are necessary if man is to live on good terms with his fellows, and if there is to be a strong, well-ordered state in which just privileges and rights are to be maintained.

What we do not see as clearly as we ought to is that the complexities of society make no difference in the basic facts. The Jewish law-givers saw that if any man sought to take what was not his, or tried to overreach or take unfair advantage of his fellows in a small, closely-knit community, the whole well-being of society was put out of adjustment. In a well-ordered society each man must bear his fair share of responsibility, and must not seek, to the disadvantage of others, that to which he is not justly entitled.

So the law-givers said. Thou shalt not steal. The Commandment is not less exacting today, but even more so, under conditions in which the opportunities for stealing are immensely increased, and stealing is possible on a vast scale never contemplated when this Commandment was written. Both Old and New Testament writers recognized, and emphasized, the fact that stealing is not just a matter of cracking a safe, or of taking something out of somebody's pocket. "Ye shall not deal falsely, nor lie to one another."

A man is a thief, actually in the sight of God, and socially in relation to his fellow men when either illegally, or by the subterfuge of unjust laws, or by unfair trade practices, he seeks to get what is not rightly his.

OUR CHILDREN

SO IT'S A POOR NEIGHBORHOOD
By Angelo Patri

Our neighborhood is one of those poor neighborhoods. Poor people live in it. It is none too clean and the houses are run down. The rents grow cheaper and the tenants moving in are poorer than those who move away. There are many children. They attend the public and parochial schools near by. Most of the children are healthy and well-behaved. A few on each block are bad-mannered and there are always some that are worse than that. When one of these is arrested and sentenced there is always someone to sigh, "Well, look at the neighborhood he comes from."

Well, look at it. There is a lovely little park where the children play in cleanliness and safety. There is an athletic center with pools and tracks and courts and the young people use them all. There are churches and schools. There is a fine library and good hospitals. The streets are swept occasionally and once in a while we see a policeman. Nobody has any money to spare. It's a poor neighborhood. "You can't expect much of it."

On the corner where the street sweeps into the wide parkway there is a huge board inscribed with the names of the young men who have left the neighborhood to go to the defense of our liberties. It would take many minutes to read that roll. Do you still call us poor?

There is a boy growing up among us whose life denies the stigma of the poor neighborhood. He is slender as a young birch tree and as handsome. His hair is a nest for sunbeams—they linger in its waves and glint about his beautifully poised head.

He is a busy boy with no time to waste on footless objects. When he was small he had a paper route. He was a faithful, dutiful delivery boy and many a neighbor took the paper for the joy they got out of seeing him, watching his earnest face as he handed out the paper and counted back the change. He belonged to the Cadets, and he played in the band. Now he is in high school, on his way to college.

There are ne'er-do-wells on the corners but he never sees them. There are enticing temptations on every hand but he is quite unconscious of them. He is too busy. He attends to his church duties, to his school affairs, to his outside jobs. By and by he will be a somebody in the land. And he came out of this poor neighborhood. Queer, isn't it?

Do your children embarrass you before guests? How to train children to receive guests pleasantly and politely is described by Angelo Patri in his booklet 304, "Your Child and Other People." GREEK KIDDIES NEED CLOTHING

Appalling conditions reported from Greece indicate that clothing is vitally required. War relief groups in New York are to organize a big drive for the United Nations, and aid is sought here in Monroe by a special committee of Greeks headed by Mrs. Tom Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson asks for clothing for children as cargoes of these supplies are permitted to enter Greece but clothing for adults is not permitted by the Germans occupying the country.

All who have clothing that is suitable for children of all ages are asked to call Mrs. Johnson. They can be left at the Green Mill, 25 Walnut street, or 1700 North Fifth street. A telephone call No. 3217, will be all that will be required to have a truck brought to any local address to obtain clothing that is being offered

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent

Maybe what the guv'ment needs after all is another one of them professor fellers. This time, a professor of semantics, that being the $4.40, tax included, nine-letter word meaning "the science of the meaning and sense development of words."

President Roosevelt took 10,000 words in the longest message ever sent to congress to spell out the wartime food problem, but when you have swallowed, chewed the cud over and digested those 10,000 words, they milk out into the pail as nothing more than the need for one little word.

What's wanted is a substitute for the word "subsidy."

The president says the only way to keep down the cost of living is through subsidies.

Congress, in its present frame of mind, doesn't want anything to do with a subsidy, which it considers a naughty word.

The solution is to find some other sweeter name for the thing and call it that. Or find some orange juice to make congress swallow the castor oil of subsidies, and like it.

Forbidden Word

Congress has not always been opposed to subsidies. The farm organizations have not always been opposed to subsidies. Subsidies are admittedly nice things to have when prices are down. A "soil conservation payment" is acceptable, even though it is a subsidy. An acreage allotment "benefit payment" is acceptable, though it's a subsidy. "Crop loans" are subsidies when the market price goes below the loan value; "parity prices" are subsidies. They are all acceptable, apparently, just so long as they're not called by the nasty name of "subsidy."

Leon Henderson dragged out the "roll back" subsidy and got busted for it. Claude R. Wickard invented the "incentive payment" subsidy and got burnt. Congress would have none of either. Currently, the new price administrator, Chester Bowles, has been toying with the phrase "production bonus," but it hasn't been formally presented as yet and whether congress would like it any better is a question. The need for the semantics experts is ever-present.

Before the house of representatives now is a bill which would ban practically all food subsidies after Dec. 31. A similar bill was passed by congress last July, only to be vetoed by the president. If this second subsidy ban should be passed by congress it likewise would stand a good chance of receiving a veto, judging from the sense of the president's long food message. Hence the administration's concern in finding an acceptable word or formula to embody the subsidy idea while still taking off the curse of the word subsidy itself.

Farmers' Viewpoint

The reasons or the excuses for the farm bloc's dislike of subsidies at the present time aren't hard to find. In the present favorable farm price situation, they see a chance to get the farmer out of debt, in which sad state most farmers have always been, ever since the founding of the country. Farmers today admit they are making more money than they ever did, and the figures prove it. Farm income is way up. Rate of payment on farm loans is way up. Savings are up. Farm failures and forced foreclosures are way down. Two years more of unlimited high prices would put the farmer on easy street—so the farm leaders think and so they talk and agitate.

The threat of inflation apparently scares no one at all. And there is a very curious reflection on this business of the science of precise meaning and sense development of words. If all the distrust and fear of the word "subsidy" could be shifted over on the word "inflation" and if all the lovely aspects of inflation could be fastened on to the word "subsidy"—then there would be no work for the professor of semantics to do this issue in wartime government and economics.

What the president's food message does do is draw the line of battle on the subsidy issue. That it is all the president's workmanship is of course a naive idea. That it is all the president's workmanship is of course a naive idea. This is the war food administration program, and if you were to shout a demand for "Author!" on this message, in the WFA wings of the department of agriculture buildings, a head would probably pop out of every door to take a blushing bow.

'LITTLE TOTS' TO HAVE NURSERY

"Little Tots Nursery," directed by Mrs. Camille Terranova, at 403 Wood street, will be ready for the formal opening November 22.

Mrs. Terranova, herself the mother of a "little tot," and finding herself in a position where she is compelled to earn her own way in the world, has devised a nursery which is unique and appealing to the kiddies. The room in the Wood street house has been redecorated with walls made attractive to the kiddies and with equipment such as they desire for their entertainment and instruction.

Mrs. Terranova states she will be in a position to care for youngsters where parents are engaged in war industry and arrangements can be made to care for the kiddies by the hour, day or week.

Already she has enrolled a number of children and expects many more will be added when the place is ready to open.

5TH DISTRICT OF P.-T. A. TO MEET

The Fifth district P.-T. A. will meet here on Wednesday at the First Baptist church, it is announced by Mrs. C. C. Lindley, Fifth district president.

Mrs. Roger Sharp, state president of the P.-T. A. will deliver the principal address.

The sessions will start at 10 a.m. and close at 2:30 p.m. Delegations from all parts of the Fifth district are expected to attend.

MORE COTTON GINNED

The census report just issued shows that 14,787 bales of cotton were ginned in Ouachita parish from the crop of 1943 prior to November 1, as compared with 12,907 bales ginned for the crop of 1942.

FAILURE TO DELIVER PACKAGES PROTESTED

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Carlos J. Rabby, organizer and judge advocate of the "Wing Mothers of America," announced today the charter Baton Rouge chapter of that organization had protested to Washington against the apparent failure of mail and packages to reach American prisoners of war in Axis hands.

Rabby said the organization, composed of some 60 mothers of men and women in flight duty, had sent to the president, the American Red Cross and the national Y. M. C. A. copies of a resolution requesting greater effort on the part of the government to aid contacts with captured Americans.

The resolution said several members had waited months before learning that their sons had been captured, had to wait for as long as eight months for letters from the captives, and the letters indicated the prisoners had received neither letters nor packages.

Rabby said the charter chapter of the organization, formed to boost the morale of its members, was headed by Mrs. Whitney P. Aucoin, who had lost a son last April in the Canadian air force.

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office.

NEW YORK—Diary: Comes word from Daughter Mary that she and her soldier husband, Lieutenant John McKee, are now living in Lexington, Va., where he is taking a course in something or other at Washington and Lee. . . . Already, she has learned that soldiers' wives must travel light. She has shipped home about half the gear and supplies she took with her to Florida when she went to join her husband. . . . Dr. Frederick J. Walter of San Diego, writes me a very gracious and flattering letter, in which he says, "It's well to get people's minds off the war now and then. You do it so beautifully. I envy you and your power over the pen and people." . . . But Doctor, you can't imagine how I envy you and all physicians the skill in healing and relief of pain that is your common possession, in greater or less degree. I have often wished that I had studied medicine. In fact, I always wanted to when I was in school but never could find the means. Now doctors are among my closest friends and I am lost in admiration at the skill, nearly always so modestly exercised. . . . I am sure the reader will understand that the Doctor and I use the word envy in a harmless sense, expressing a wishful admiration rather than a real envy.

It is interesting to me that this same Dr. Walter, whose good fortune it is to live and work in one of the most beautiful cities on earth, becomes lyric in his enthusiastic description of his home town, Princeton, Ill. . . . A small city with broad streets, lined with elms that touch overhead. A cultured society of people who grew up there, educated in a high school started by John Howard Bryant, brother of William Cullen Bryant.

Well, well. Through San Diegos and Savannahs though we may roam, be it ever so small a place, there's no place like the home town! And that's not meant to be rhyme, so don't criticize the meter!

New Yorkers are great consumers of Scotch whisky. While whisky drinkers throughout most of the country prefer rye or bourbon, Scotch is the regular diet of the drinkers and topers of the metropolis.

Shortly after the government published ceiling prices per bottle of whiskies, naming the brands with the prices, practically all the Scotch disappeared from the shelves of Manhattan liquor stores.

My wise friends tell me there is a real shortage of Scotch. It has simply gone black market. When they really want a bottle very badly, they merely offer the dealer a premium, over the ceiling, and the dealer then names a price, still higher. If the price is right out comes the bottle from under the counter.

If this is true, and so many have related personal expeciences that it must be otherwise, I should think enforcement officers would begin to close up some black market liquor stores.

Burton Rascoe, who has operated many and varied fields of writing, is turning out to be one of the most astute and entertaining of the New York theater critics. He went over the theatrical department from a single column, in the World-Telegram. For the first, he showed independence in the expression of his views of the plays. He often disagreed with his fellow-critics. Very soon, his judgments began to click with the customers.

Rascoe, native of Kentucky, was brought up in Shawnee, Oklahoma, and had much of his early newspaper training on the Chicago Tribune. He is 51, slight, of medium height, a quiet talker and deep thinker.

LEGION POST TO OBSERVE DRIVE

L. B. Faulk Group Goes Over Top In Membership Campaign

L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, with 427 members enrolled for the ensuing year, exceeded the quota set of 423 as the campaign ended from Armistice day. The conclusion of the drive will be celebrated at the meeting of the Legion post to be held at the Memorial home, Forsythe park, on Monday at 8 p.m.

At this meeting ten World War No. 2 veterans will be initiated into membership in the post.

Two officers from Selman field will attend and deliver talks in connection with the recruiting of WACs. Halley are Lieutenant Grady Roper, who was with the Eighth air force in England, and also Lieutenant Polly McAllister, commanding officer of the WAC detachment at Selman field.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served at the close of the night's program.

TO LIST PROPERTY OWNED ABROAD

Citizens of Monroe and West Monroe who own any property in foreign countries were notified by Postmaster James R. Wooten that they must file reports of their foreign holdings with the treasury department before December 1. The notice was given by means of a poster placed on display in the postoffices.

Postmaster James R. Wooten points out that it is necessary, for the government to have as complete information as possible on the American stake abroad to assist the military authorities and the civilian governments on the fighting fronts and to bring about sound solutions of the post-war problems.

Report forms, known as TFR-500, may be obtained through commercial banks, or from the nearest federal reserve bank, the postmaster states. Penalties are provided for those who wilfully fail to file reports.

MERRY CHRISTMAS Gifts

It has been announced by the office of the Postmaster General that, due to the unavoidable handicaps of war, there can be no assurance that gifts mailed in the weeks immediately preceding Christmas will be delivered on time. The only way in which deliveries of Christmas mails can be made on time is by spreading the mailings over a longer period so that available transportation equipment and postal personnel can be used during more weeks. THIS YEAR, NOVEMBER IS THE TIME FOR MAILING GIFTS. GIFTS SHOULD BE MARKED "DO NOT OPEN UNTIL CHRISTMAS."

SOCIAL WELFARE WILL CONVENE

Regional Conference To Be Held In Monroe Next Thursday

The final program of the northeast regional meeting of the Louisiana Conference of Social welfare, to be held in Monroe November 18, has been completed, it was announced by Dean C. C. Colvert, chairman of the program committee, Saturday.

The morning session from 10 a. m. to noon, will be devoted to the topic "Community Planning for Youth" and the speakers will be L. P. McLane, associate professor of physical education at Louisiana Tech; Mrs. Elizabeth Whetstone, teacher in the Tallulah High school; and Mrs. Harry Burdeaux, chairman of recreation for the West Monroe civic league.

Isaac Abramson, Shreveport, attorney for the governor's commission on revision of the mental health laws, will speak on "Mental Health Problems in Louisiana."

The afternoon session, 2:30 to 4 p. m., will be devoted to the subject of "Three Aspects of Probation and Parole" and speakers will be Drexel H. Martin, probation officer for the U. S. district court of Monroe and Shreveport; Louis Meek, probation and parole officer in the Monroe area for the Louisiana Department of public welfare and Paul J. Armstrong, superintendent of the Louisiana Training institute.

The registrations and morning session will be held in the health unit, Dean Colvert stated. The luncheon and the afternoon session will be held in the USO building.

The public is invited to attend, but advance reservations should be made. A business session of conference officers and delegates will be held from 2:15 to 2:45 p. m., and at the close of the afternoon's general session, there will be tours made of the E. A. Conway Memorial hospital and the Louisiana Training institute.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy . . . it helps keep the skin soft and pliable . . . thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin . . . for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

CHAPTER XI

Emily looked at the name and address again. Karsten, Cedar Court . . . it must be one of Dad's patients, she thought. Karsten? But she didn't remember anyone named Karsten.

The moment she went into the very small house and saw her patient she knew. Hilda Allen. Dr. Hall had brought Hilda into the world, and here she was married, established in a little home and, it transpired, going to have a baby of her own.

"Why Hilda," said Emily, astonished . . . "I'd forgotten—that is, I never knew your married name."

"Miss Hall!" Hilda's delicate, drawn face was illuminated. "I hadn't any idea. . . . The doctor said he'd have a nurse come at once. He's at the hospital, he said he'd get here as soon as he could." She looked desperately anxious. "I was so scared," she added, "when I heard Dr. Hall was ill. I didn't know what to do. . . . "

She explained the circumstances haltingly and Emily said briskly:

"The first thing to do is to get to bed. I'll help you." She took the frightened girl into the bedroom, found nightgown, robe and slippers under her direction, undressed her deftly, took her pulse and temperature. She asked, "You're all alone?"

"Gus—that's my husband—had to go into Boston," said Hilda shivering. "My mother died last year, Miss Hall. The only other person I'd want is my aunt. But she's away, too. This—this just happened a little while ago," she said, her lips white.

A little later Emily opened the door for Jim and stood for a moment in the narrow hallway, giving him her report. Together they went back to the girl.

Presently Jim went next door to telephone. There was no 'phone in the Karsten cottage. He returned and smiled reassuringly at his patient. "The ambulance will be here very shortly," he said.

On the way to the hospital, Emily sat beside Hilda in the ambulance, holding her hand. Jim folowed in his car.

She waited while Hilda was admitted and taken to the ward. After a time Jim came out to her. He said, smiling, "She'll be all right. I'll look in on her later this evening. She's better off here with someone to look after her than at home. She'll have to stay in bed, perfectly quiet, for some time." He added, "I don't think she believes me. She looks upon me as a very poor substitute for your father, and, of course she's right."

"If you'd wait a moment," said Emily, "perhaps I could persuade her—"

She went back toward the ward, and when she reappeared, she was smiling. "You're wrong, she likes you, she thinks you're grand. And she's perfectly satisfied to remain here. She asked me to go back to Cedar Court, pack a bag for her with the things she'll need and leave a note for Gus so that he 'wouldn't be scared.'"

"I'll go with you," he said. "I'm all through; this was the last call."

They went back to Cedar Court and let themselves in with Hilda's key, of which she was inordinately proud. While Emily packed, putting in the picture of Gus—showing him stern, large and very self-conscious in his wedding clothes, Jim prowled around the house chewing on a cold pipe. "It's a crime," he announced, coming to stand before her, as she bent over the shabby little suitcase, "a kid like that getting married. And she hasn't any business having children, she's frail and undernourished and—"

"She's in love," said Emily calmly, "and Gus has a good job at the munition plant. Operates a punch press. He may be drafted but at present he's deferred. Hilda's had a pretty hard time. Her mother was a chronic cardiac, her father a drunken old creature who deserted his little family years ago. She has an aunt who is good to her after a fashion. But she's never had anything really her own till she acquired Gus and this little house. She'll be all right. She'll have her baby, she'll bring it up by the book and she'll make a home for it and for its father."

Someone was coming up the steps. Emily and Jim regarded one another. A heavy step but with youth and impatience in it. They had left the door open. Gus came barging through shouting at the top of his voice, "Hilda," he shouted, "hey, Hilda. . . ."

No good smell of dinner cooking greeted him. Emily came out and spoke to him quietly. He stared at her a moment, the color left his square thick-featured face. He said, "My God what's happened to her, Miss Hall?"

"She's perfectly all right," said Emily. "This is Dr. Thompson . . . he'll tell you more about it."

She went back to the bedroom leaving the two men alone. A moment later, the suitcase in his enormous hand, Gus was headed for the hospital. He declined their offer to drive him. He said, "You'll miss your dinner. It ain't very far, I'll take the street car . . ." He shuffled his feet a moment, and added, "I—Gee, thank you," he said miserably, and then with a great unashamed gulp—"if anything had happened to Hilda!"

He locked the door after them and went off at a furious pace toward the corner.

LITTLE THEATER TRYOUTS PLANNED

Mrs. Mildred Merill, director of the Monroe Little Theater, announced Saturday that tryouts for the next play: "The Man Who Came To Dinner" will be given at the workshop, 3404 DeSiard street, Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The cast for this play will require 20 people.

Mrs. Merill has just recovered from a serious illness which has prevented the holding of tryout at an earlier date.

REALTY GAINS SHOWN IN CITY

West Monroe's Assessment List Larger Than In Past Years

Assessed property valuation in West Monroe has shown an increase of $107,518 the past year, according to the report rendered by City Clerk L. L. Wood for the last fiscal year. The valuation in 1941-42 was $3,106,223 and for the past year, $3,213,741.

Mr. Wood said houses originally built with three-year tax exemption were constantly being returned to the taxable property list, helping to swell the city's total assessment values.

He reported his office is now receiving property tax payments for 1942 and that taxes on 55 pieces of property have already been paid. Taxes on property become delinquent when unpaid by January 1 and are subject to a 10 per cent annual penalty.

West Monroe's municipal finances remained in sound condition in the fiscal year July 1, 1942, to June 30, 1943, according to an audit just completed and submitted to the board of aldermen of the auditing firm of Cox & Frazer.

The audit shows the city had a total income of $93,609.51 and total expenses of $67,279.03, leaving excess revenues of $26,330.48.

The report reveals the waterworks system yielded the majority of the revenue, a total of $50,387.43 coming from this department.

The city's bonded indebtedness on June 30 was $468,200. Bonds totaling $14,500 were retired during the year. The remainder are due over a long period of time.

Destroyer Escort Vessel U. S. S. Roy O. Hale To Be Launched

The destroyer escort vessel U. S. S. Roy O. Hale, named for the late Lieutenant (j. g.) Roy Orestus Hale, Jr., U. S. N., of Monroe, La., will be launched at Orange, Tex., November 20 at the yards of the Consolidated Steel Shipbuilding corporation.

Lieutenant Hale, awarded the distinguished flying cross and purple heart posthumously, was killed in enemy action in the Coral sea on May 8, 1942.

Sponsor of the vessel will be Mrs. Roy Hale, Sr., 118 Glenmar avenue, Monroe, La., mother of the flier.

Lieutenant Hale was born in Monroe, La., May 10, 1916. He entered the naval academy from Louisiana in 1934, was graduated in 1938 and had consecutive duty in the U. S. S. New Orleans and U. S. S. Trever until July 1, 1940. He had flight training at the naval air stations Pensacola and Miami, Fla., from July 15, 1940, until March, 1941, when he was ordered to fleet air detachment, naval air station, San Diego, Calif. He was promoted to the grade of lieutenant (j. g.) on June 2, 1941. On June 21, 1941, he was assigned to duty in Scouting Squadron Two.

He has been awarded the distinguished flying cross posthumously and cited as follows:

"For extraordinary achievement in aerial combat as pilot in a scouting plane in action against enemy Japanese forces in the battle of the Coral sea, May 7 and May 8, 1942. Fighting with courageous determination and aggressiveness, Lieutenant (j. g.) Hale boldly engaged attacking enemy aircraft in spite of fierce fight opposition. His gallant devotion to duty throughout this battle was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States naval service."

He is entitled to the American defense service medal, fleet clasp, and the Asiatic-Pacific area campaign medal.

THEATER TO SHOW 'WOMEN AT WAR'

A subject of particular interest to women of this area, "Women at War," will be shown tonight and tomorrow night at the Paramount Theater.

The film will be run in connection with the regular bill, Adolph Menjou and Martha Scott in "Hi Diddle Diddle," which is to be shown at regular prices.

"Women at War" is a 22-minute technicolor subject on the Women's Army Corps. It was filmed at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, in cooperation with the United States Army.

Any woman who is interested and eligible to join the WAC may get further information by calling at the local recruiting office, Room 307 Post Office building, telephone 6082. Eligibility conditions are that the applicant be between 20 and 50 years of age and have no dependents or children under 14.

COMPLACENCY HIT BY RICKENBACKER

Flier Marks Anniversary Of Rescue In South Pacific

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Eddie Rickenbacker, marking the anniversary of his rescue in the south Pacific last November 14, after 21 days on a life raft, called upon the American people today to shun complacency and bend all efforts toward knocking Hitler out of the war in 1944.

America owes that, he said in an exclusive statement to the Associate Press, to its "fighting men, whose deeds, in my opinion make possible a total victory over the cruel and heartless enemy in Europe during the year of 1944."

Rickenbacker recalled his rescue with thankfulness, and added:

"Since then I have had the rare privilege and honor to visit all the fighting fronts throughout the world, including Russia, which has crystallized one basic thought in my mind—that America has produced a generation of fighting men unequalled in our history, who are scattered throughout the four corners of the world.

"We have watched the Russians driving the Germans back with great rapidity. Our boys in conjunction with those of our allies have chased the Germans and Italians out of North Africa. Mussolini and his fascists have been overthrown, and the Allies are now gradually driving the Germans out of Italy. In the Pacific our combined forces of air, land and sea are meeting with success against the Japs.

"The result—thousands and thousands of those on the home front are beginning to relax their efforts and sit back with a profound complacency that the war is almost over.

"This complacency should be dispelled immediately, as, in my opinion, the Allies still have the real fight ahead of them before the war is ended in Europe—to say nothing of what confronts them in the war against the Japs."

PROSTIGMINE TRIED ON POLIOMYELITIS

DALLAS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Use of prostigmine, a new drug taken orally or by injection to relieve muscle spasms of poliomyelitis victims, is being studied by the medical profession, attendants at a clinical examination here of nearly 100 polio sufferers were told.

The extent of its aid is being pondered, said Dr. Ralph Ghormley, Rochester, Minn., who headed a seven-member committee of top-ranking orthopedic surgeons studying the Kenny method of treatment in this country and Canada.

The new drug was used on almost 50 cases in Dallas during the recent polio epidemic and it is believed to have given decided help in some cases.

The committee was named by the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons and the American Medical association, and in addition to Dr. Ghormley, comprises Dr. Albert Key, St. Louis; Dr. H. R. McCarrell, Chicago; Dr. Herman Schumm, Milwaukee; Dr. James Dickson, Cleveland; Dr. Robert Funston, University of Virginia and Dr. Edward Compere, Chicago.

The aqueducts of Rome at the time of the Caesars supplied 320 gallons of water daily and were 249 miles long.

LIEUT. WAGNER GIVEN CLUSTER

Award Comes As Surprise To Him And Other Graduates

Immediately after he had delivered the graduation address to the members of Class 43-15 in the post theater at Selman field, Lieutenant Walter A. Wagner, Jr., of Los Angeles, was awarded the oak leaf cluster to the air medal by Colonel John W. Egan, commanding officer of the post.

This was the second decoration made in as many days at Selman field, for Friday afternoon, before a wing parade staged by the pre-flight school, Colonel Egan presented the air medal to Mrs. J. L. Jones of Monroe, who accepted in behalf of her son, First Lieutenant William T. Jones, a bombardier who is now a prisoner of the German government.

Lieutenant Wagner, a veteran of 18 months consecutive combat as navigator aboard a B-26 Marauder in the Aleutian theater of operations, had no forehand knowledge of the presentation. The entire move came as a surprise both to him and the class of graduates. He was decorated for his actions against the Japanese in the Aleutians. He has a total of 15 bombing missions to his credit, scored against Japanese shipping, harbor installations, and air fields in Kiska and Attu.

Introduced to the class and audience by Lieutenant Colonel C. D. Wright, commander of the navigation school at Selman, Lieutenant Wagner told the graduates that for the past 18 weeks, they have been learning the theory of navigation and that from now on, only cold experience will be their guide.

"Up to this point, you have been taught the theory, for we cannot here teach you the knowledge that experience will bring. We have taught you how to think; now you must learn for yourselves how to act," he told them.

Explaining to the class how their next stop, at operational training units over the country, would better acquaint them with actual combat tactics and evaluations, Lieutenant Wagner implored the graduates to first earn the confidence of their crews with which they will work and fight. "To get this confidence," he said, "you must have first a confidence in yourself and your abilities. That is what we have tried to teach you here. The lives of serveral men may some day depend on your calculations, and unless you have the confidence of every one of them, they will never see you as the man who can bring them back to safety."

Lieutenant Wagner, who is assigned to the department of tactical navigation training at Selman field, one of the four navigation schools of the army air forces training command, was awarded the oak leaf cluster after he completed his remarks, the citation for which was read by Lieutenant Colonel Wright.

The top ten men of the class and the class officers were then given their diplomas and wings by Colonel Egan, after which Lieutenant R. F. Moss, secretary of the school, administered the oath of office. Chaplain Bannen Y. Swope offered the invocation and Chaplain Leo Lichtenberg the benediction.

RELATIVES CAN'T GREET GRIPSHOLM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Relatives and friends of the American repatriates from the Orient who are scheduled to arrive at New York December 2 on the exchange liner Gripsholm should not expect to meet them on the pier as this will not be permitted by the authorities for security reasons, the state department announced today.

The Red Cross was designated the sole agency at the pier for the purpose of giving information to repatriates, delivering mail, telegrams, as well as addresses, telephone numbers and other information as to where they can meet friends and relatives in New York.

This arrangement has been agreed on by the various interested relief and welfare agencies, the department said.

Relatives and friends of repatriates have been advised, said the announcement, to remain at their hotels, homes and other points of contact away from the pier and to advise the Red Cross as to their exact location and telephone numbers in New York City.

BRITISH READY TO TAKE OVER LEBANON

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The British government made it clear today that it was ready to seize control quickly in Lebanon if necessary to protect the strategic Middle East following reports of clashes between the French and Lebanese nationalists. British troops already are on the spot if needed.

While the French-controlled Beirut radio announced that the situation in Syria and Lebanon was quite and charged that reports of disturbances were "enemy propaganda," the British showed that they definitely did not share this view.

Mrs. A. L. Peters, attractive wife of Captain Peters, is a guest in the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Peters in Edgewater Gardens. Following maneuvers Captain and Mrs. Peters will take up residence in Alexandria where Captain Peters will be stationed at Camp Claiborne.

Public Is Invited To View Paintings From Brush Of Prominent Artists

To step aside from the usual Sunday afternoon routine and view the paintings from the brush of Monroe artists will be a pleasant experience for those who look for diversion today.

The paintings, in which skill and taste predominate, are on exhibition at the Monroe Recreation center on South Grand street and will remain there during the month of November in recognition of National Art week.

The work of Monroe's artists is familiar to most art enthusiasts but the new arrivals know very little about the work being done by the little colony of painters in the Twin Cities. A special invitation is extended them to view the paintings today.

For sheer artistry in composition the paintings now being exhibited are the very best the Monroe public has viewed. Bess James, one of Monroe's most skilled painters, has on display five still life pictures. They are rich in color and done in capivating manner. Her flair for brilliant colors is shown to splendid advantage in two paintings in particular—Chrysanthemums and Iris.

One landscape by Mary Bergevin is being much admired and is well worth a visit to the gallery.

Mrs. Robert Bacon is another prominent Monroe artist who is exhibiting two paintings. They are exceptionally well done and add considerable distinction to the show.

The portraits exhibited by Mrs. H. R. Saenger and Roy Henderson are most interesting. Mrs. Saenger works with a subtle and sensitive stroke and her portraits are fascinating, whether done in profile, or the full face three-quarter length. When viewing her portraits now being exhibited note the background and the detail. They are beautifully delineated, tranquil and serene.

Roy Henderson's exhibits have met with great success in this city where he has created a special niche for himself in the field of art. Some of his work now on display at the Monroe recreational center embraces a varied type of work. One portrait in oils is creating favorable comment and another, a pencil sketch, is clever and masterful.

Women's Auxiliary Of Medical Society Meets

Luncheon in the Butterfly room at the Frances hotel brought members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical society together last week. The luncheon table was adorned with a massive bowl overflowing with crimson roses. Flag blue satin ribbons radiated to the four corners in the shape of the letter V.

In spite of rationing the luncheon was unusually delicious and faultlessly served to: Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. E. G. Calvert, Mrs. F. C. Bennett, Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. P. L. Perot, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. A. B. Gregory, Mrs. Irving Wolff, Mrs. Clifford W. Johnson, Mrs. W. L. Bendel, Mrs. G. T. Gallaspy, Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. F. P. Rizzo, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, Mrs. E. B. Pitts, Mrs. R. W. O'Donnell, Mrs. C. P. Gray and Mrs. J. B. Vaughan.

Mrs. Irving Wolff, Mrs. Jennie O'Donnell, Mrs. A. L. Peters were hostesses.

Delta Rat Club Plans Dance Thanksgiving Eve

Members of the younger dancing set are enjoying an anticipatory thrill over the Thanksgiving dance planned by members of the Delta Rat club at Lakeside Country club, November 24.

Mickey Dubos, president of the "Rats," and members of his committee are making rather elaborate plans for this event which promises to be one of the most outstanding of the early winter season in younger social circles.

A floor show under the direction of Armandine Renaud will be a distinct feature of the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Dubos conceived the brilliant idea of giving away a turkey to the person holding the lucky number. Every one who holds a ticket to the dance will be entitled to a chance at the turkey.

Miss Jane McKenzie, lovely daughter of Congressman and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, has returned from Los Angeles, Calif., where she served as maid of honor for Miss Virginia Earl Kersh when she became the bride of Lieutenant John Richard Miller, Jr., at the Little Church of the Flowers.

Miss Sarah Word Presented Is Presented On Fine Arts Club Program

Miss Sarah Helen Word, wearing a beautiful black evening gown accented with a corsage of pink camellias and a pink camellia in her hair, entertained members of the Fine Arts club in the home of Mrs. Henry Mayo, with a dramatic reading of Edna St. Vincent Millay's, "The Murder of Lidice." The poem was written by Miss Millay at the request of the Writer's War Board to depict the Nazi infamy in the destruction of the little Czechoslovakian village of Lidice as a means of revenge for the killing of their Deputy Gestapo Reinhard Heydrich. They destroyed the little Czech village and killed or dispersed its people into German servitude, because the villagers were suspected of hiding the killer of Heydrich.

The heinous crime was consummated on June 10, 1942, and Miss Millay, one of America's best-loved poets of all time wrote this poem that the memory of Lidice might live on despite Nazi barbarism. The broadcast of the poem over the NBC network on October 19, 1942, held up before the peoples of the world the barbarism of Nazi Germany, and as a result, a great enthusiasm was definitely quickened for the radio as a medium for drama. It was then seen that radio drama had done what the movies had already done successfully—that of picking up an item of news out of the current war and making it at once into effective art. The theater, too, has done the same thing, only much more slowly. It requires many processes and many techniques before a play can be written, financed, designed, cast, rehearsed, and finally produced; however, all these can be speeded up, for the theater had given us "There Shall Be No Night," "Watch on the Rhine," and "The Moon Is Down" before America hardly realized the war was actually on. Another effort put forth, that the memory of Lidice might live came in the christening of a town in Illinois by the name of Lidice, Ill.

Miss Word, a dramatist of exceptional ability attacked the human-interest theme embodied in this tragic poem in the most convincing manner. Forcefully and dynamically the story was unfolded leading up to the dramatic climax. The poem seemed to be the perfect vehicle for the speaker's unusual talent.

Miss Word, instructor of speech at Northeast Junior college, is a distinct acquisition to the cultural, social and civic life of this city. Her first public appearance last week placed her in the front ranks of dramatists. She will no doubt be much in demand as an entertainer during the season ahead. She received her bachelor of oratory degree and her bachelor of arts degree at Henderson State Teachers college and her master of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin.

Before coming to Monroe in September, she was an instructor in Hampton, Ia.

Following Miss Word's dramatic reading Miss Mary Alice Mickel and Mr. Leon Hammonds entertained with brilliant piano numbers. "Warrior Song," by Heller, was rendered by Miss Mickel and "Reverie," by Debussy was contributed by Mr. Hammonds.

An exhibit of portraits from the brush of Roy Henderson was an interesting feature of the evening's program.

At the close of the program delicious refreshments were served to the following members and guests: Miss Mary Bergevin, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mr. Joe Craig, Miss Ladelle Duke, Mrs. Nell Grigsby, Mr. Leon Hammons, Mr. Roy B. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Barlow Inabnet, Mr. and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, Miss Louise Moore, Mrs. Birdie Mae Mulhern, Miss Cliffie Olmstead, Miss May Reed, Miss Juanita Porter, Corporal and Mrs. Lorenzo Smith, Mrs. Taunton W. Veazey, Mrs. Bessie L. Stern, Miss Mary Alice Mickel, Miss Tannie Ivey, Tyler, Tex.; Mrs. Kaye De Luca, New York City, Mrs. Bob Hurst, and Miss Carrie Mae Stephenson.

Miss Aswell Honoree At Tea And Shower

Miss Jewel Vadine Aswell whose engagement to Sergeant Richard A. Hyde of Pennsylvania was recently announced was the guest of honor at a tea and miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. D. C. Black with Mrs. Howard Scott co-hostess.

Autumn flowers of vivid coloring adorned the reception suite and dining room. Mrs. Black wearing a pink lace and blue taffeta model and Mrs. Scott, wearing orchid chiffon, stood with their guest of honor to receive the guests. Miss Aswell wore a white net and aqua taffeta model and her mother, also in the receiving line, wore a black lace model. All wore corsages of harmonizing colors.

The tea table in the dining room had for central decor a pyramid of red Radiance roses. Mrs. L. G. Wilkinson, wearing lavender and orchid net, presided over the silver coffee urns and Miss Grace Carter, wearing blue chiffon presided over the tea service.

Mrs. Forrest Seaman, wearing a black chiffon model beaded in silver, presided over the table where the beautiful gifts bestowed upon Miss Aswell, were on display. She was assisted by Miss Vivian Fluitt who wore an apricot net model.

Mrs. Selby Aswell in pink taffeta, presided over the bride's book where the guests registered.

Seventy-five or more guests called during the tea hour.

The date for the Aswell-Hyde nuptial event has been postponed until December due to the fact that Sergeant Hyde was recently transferred to Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Patrick Herbert Reardon, the former Miss Maxine Robison of Austin, Texas, whose marriage to Ensign Reardon, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reardon of this city, was a brilliant event of November 3.

Local University Women To Hear Address By Noted Speaker Next Week

Members of the local branch of the American Association of University Women are looking eagerly forward to the address to be delivered by Mrs. Harriet Ahlers Houdlette, associate in childhood education for the A. A. U. W. on the 18th of November.

"In this war crisis, it is the responsibility of university women, along with other educational groups, to discern dangers that threaten education and advance to meet them as educational shock troops, even before the people as a whole are ready," Mrs. Houdlette said.

Mrs. Houdlette is serving on the children's bureau advisory commission on children in wartime, and she was also a member of the subcommittee studying the wartime needs of young children for the United States office of education wartime commission. As legislative consultant for the association of childhood education, she is serving her second term, and she is on the advisory panel of the governing board of the national association for nursery education, and for four years has served as chairman of the committee on professional standards of the Chapel Hill conference on marriage and the family.

Mrs. Houdlette has had a varied experience in the educational field. She was for four years director of women's work of the bureau of adult education, Hartford, Conn., directing a community education program. She was subsequently associate director of child development and parent education under the Rochester, N. Y., board of education and the University of Rochester. She was teacher of psychology in the Bryn Mawr summer school for women in industry, and was a teacher of child development at George Washington university.

She was born at Red Wing, Minn., attended the schools of that state, receiving her high school education at Mankato, and her B. A. degree from the University of Minnesota. She has since combined advanced studies with practical education work, studying at the University of Minnesota and at Bryn Mawr in the graduate department of social economy and education.

As director of an AAUW study-action program in the field of education, Mrs. Houdlette is guiding local groups of the association in utilizing their knowledge of child development in the movement to provide day care for children whose mothers are employed in activities essential to the war effort. She asks that individuals and groups work actively for a desirable relationship between local, state, federal governments in providing this care and goes on to say that such a plan is outlined in the war area child care act, S1130, known as the Thomas Bill which has been endorsed by the American association of university women. This bill, Mrs. Houdlette says, gives grants-in-aid to states thus making it possible for local communities working closely with state departments of education and welfare to control their own programs.

"The present year's education program also includes a plan of 'child accounting' which was introduced by a survey of summer activities for children in which 384 branches of the AAUW participated. The aim of this plan is to provide the best possible environment for every American child through cooperation of all community groups. The child is the greatest national resource, and 'child accounting' must take the place of cost accounting if this nation is to continue as the land of opportunity."

During the years between the depression and the present war, Mrs. Houdlette guided AAUW groups in making a survey of "The American Family in a Changing Society." Returns from AAUW members all over the country gave a realistic picture of the American family at the close of the pre-war period which sociologists already value as an historical record for that era. This study she is extending into the war period through a supplement on "War and the American Family."

Under Mrs. Houdlette's direction, the American association of university women has pioneered in the field of school-community corporation. She conducted the organization's study-action program, "Know Your Public Schools," which has resulted in much closer cooperation between the public and its schools in many American communities.

The Woman's Missionary society of First Baptist church will meet Tuesday, November 16, at the church at 3 p.m. Mrs. H. C. McCormick returned missionary from Africa will be guest speaker. Every member is urged to be present.

There will be no circle meetings on that date as previously announced.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Morrison and daughter, Peggy, left Friday for Clarksville, Tenn., to attend the funeral of Mr. Morrison's sister, Mrs. Vernon Swift.

Captain and Mrs. Dan Dunnett returned to Camp Polk, La., after spending the week-end with relatives. Mrs. Dunnett was formerly Miss Dorothy Gusmere.

Miss Robertine Rhymes Marries Benajah Bibb Cobb At Methodist Church Here

Ceremony Solemnized By Rev. A. M. Serex

Many Friends Attend Reception At Bride's Plantation Home After Wedding

The wedding of Miss Robertine Juanita Rhymes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ray Rhymes, and Benajah Bibb Cobb was a brilliant event of the month taking place at the First Methodist church, Nov. 7, with the pastor, Rev. A. M. Serex, officiating in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives filling to capacity the generous environs of the church.

The church decorations were trailing lengths of southern smilax with pink dahlias and pink chrysanthemums the floral motif. High floor standards overflowing with pink chrysanthemums were placed in mass formation against a solid curtain of smilax. Pink dahlias overflowed from urns placed in the niches above the altar. These beautiful flowers also studded the communion rail.

Myriad tall pink tapers in tall floor candelabra were lighted by the ushers before the ceremony.

A brilliant concert was rendered by the organist, Mrs. John Sholars, while the guests were being seated. She also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. A. M. Serex, in black and white vestments, who sang in beautiful voice Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Until," by Sanderson.

The seats reserved for intimate friends and members of the family were marked with old fashioned bouquets of dahlias and pink tulle.

The bride's attendants, her sister, Miss Jane Rhymes, maid of honor,

Miss Margaret Robbins Weds. Lieut. Sandford

Informal Reception Follows Marriage Of Popular Local Girl And Officer

Of sincere and affectionate interest to a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Margaret Lee Robbins, daughter of Mrs. Annie Mae Robbins, and Lieutenant Robert Sandford, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Sandford of Maplewood, N. J., at the home of the bride's mother in West Monroe, with Reverend A. M. Serex, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating in the presence of a few intimate friends and immediate members of the family.

An improvised altar in the reception suite was banked with white chrysanthemums against a background of ferns and southern smilax. Tall floor candelabra supporting cathedral tapers were placed on either side of the altar.

The bride's attendant, Miss Evelyn Wade, wore a lovely rose beige model with rustic brown accessories and a corsage of rose colored carnations and stephanotis.

Lieutenant Sandford was attended by Lieutenant Grover Hazelhurst.

The bride wore an original model of seafoam green crepe with fuchsia accessories. Her small hat was fashioned of fuchsia colored feathers with shoulder length brown veil. A corsage of orchids completed the distinctive ensemble.

Immediately following the double-ring ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Johnson. Mrs. Robbins, the bride's mother, wearing a Soldier blue model with orchid corsage, was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. Johnson who wore a black crepe model with corsage of pink roses. Mrs. C. H. Tait and Mrs. W. J. Veazey assisted in the receiving.

The wedding cake, centering the beautifully appointed bride's table in the dining room, was a three-tiered confection, embossed in valley lilies. Crystal bowls of white chrysanthemums were placed at the four corners. Individual wedding cakes and other confections were served.

Mrs. Sandford was graduated from Ouachita Parish High school and Northeast Junior college, and attended Louisiana State university. She is a member of Delta Psi Omega sorority and was a member of the student council, Purple Jackets, and was business manager of the Chacahoula. At the university she served on the Reveillee, and was pledged to Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Lieutenant Sandford received his education in the schools of New Jersey. He has been with the armed forces for two years and is now stationed at Selman field. He received his basic training at Maxwell field.

The young couple are now at home to their friends at 716 North Fifth street.

Many Attend Benefit Card Party At Center

Scholarship Fund For Nurses Increased By Affair Sponsored By Book Club

The Welcome Branch Book club climaxed several weeks of intensive planning and work with a benefit card party Wednesday afternoon at the Monroe Recreation center. The purpose of which was to raise funds to continue to provide scholarships for worthy girls who desire to enter the nursing profession, but who would otherwise not have the opportunity to do so. The sponsoring of scholarships for nurses is one of the most commendable projects of the Federation of Women's clubs.

The Welcome Garden club was responsible for the artistic floral decorations. Beautiful crysanthemums of varied colors artistically arranged in baskets and vases lent a festive atmosphere to an afternoon of enjoyment.

Upon arrival the guests were greeted by the president, Mrs. T. H. Scott, the chairman of nursing, Mrs. F. H. Peterson and members of the reception committee.

In characteristic clever manner and with appropriate words, Mrs. Peterson welcomed the guests told something of the club's various philanthropies.

During the afternoon the guests were served assorted confections, cheese straws and punch by members of the refreshment committee.

At the close of the card games attractive and useful prizes, donated by the merchants of Monroe and West Monroe, were awarded to those holding the lucky numbers.

Club members who were present to greet the guests and help to make the benefit a success were: Mesdames T. H. Scott, F. H. Peterson, A. R. Doughty, J. R. White, J. T. Eubanks, Paul T. Wright, W. E. Ceremony Solemnized By Rev. A. M. Serex and Mrs. J. W. Berry, Mrs. Oliver Lowrey of Rayville, La.; Miss Frankie Cobb, Miss Sarah Virginia Jones of Tchula, Miss.; Miss Marguerite McHenry and Miss Jane McKenzie, all wore satin and net models ranging in color from palest pink to rose color. The basques of satin were tight fitting and the skirts of net were long and bouffant.

They carried in their arms sunbursts of Brier Cliff roses shading from pale to deepest pink. Quaint Dutch caps of pink net with shoulder length veils of pink tulle were worn. Streamers of wide satin ribbon in the deep shades of pink fell to the hemline of their skirts.

The groomsmen were Private First Class Armand McHenry, Jr., Private First Class George Muelich of New Orleans, Private First Class Jesse Henderson of New Orleans, Dr. Jack Hayes of Mission, Texas; Mr. J. W. Perry, Private First Class Robert Black.

Mr. Ben Walker, Jr., of Tuskegee, Ala., a lifelong friend of the family, served as best man.

The bride, walking with her father who gave her in marriage, was youthful and lovely in her wedding gown, an Emily model of ivory satin and Chantilly lace fashioned along Princess lines. The tight fitting basque, drop shoulder effect, was trimmed with pleated lace. The sleeves were long and tight fitting and the voluminous skirt ended in a long court train. Chantilly lace was arranged in cascade effect at the hemline. A veil of rose-point lace was caught to the hair with a coronet of orange blossoms.

The bride's bouquet was fashioned of orchids, bouvardia and stephanotis.

The reception at the Rhymes plantation home of the bride's parents attracted a large number of guests despite the fact that travel via automobile is difficult these days.

The spacious, high ceilinged rooms were ideally suited for entertaining in grand manner. Cheery fires burned in the wide hearths and on the mantels glowed great sprays of pink chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Rhymes, the bride's mother, wore ice blue crepe with bodice embroidered with gold sequins. Mrs. Cobb, the bridegroom's mother, wore black crepe model with aqua blue lace encrusted in jet beads.

The wedding cake centered the silver serviced candle-lit table in the dining room and was cut by the bride and bridegroom before they departed on their honeymoon. The cake, a three-tiered confection surmounted with a spray of white roses, was encircled with Picardy gladioli. Garlands of these beautiful flowers stretched from one end of the table to the other and encircled the handsome, antique crystal candelabra placed at the four corners.

Toasts were drunk to the bride and bridegroom and trays of luscious refreshments passed among the guests. Two crystal punch bowls imbedded with mounds of pale pink chrysanthemums, were presided over by Miss Jane Lefleur of Houston, Texas, and Mrs. Lasley Richardson of Rayville.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a stunning Brambleberry three-piece Ted Stein model. She wore a John Frederick jeweled beret and corsage of orchids.

Following a honeymoon on the Gulf coast the young couple will be at home in New Orleans where Mr. Cobb is a student at the Tulane medical school. After his graduation he and his bride will reside in Shreveport where he will intern in a Shreveport hospital until the army calls him for active duty.

The bride, one of the most popular members of the younger set, is a graduate of Gulf Park preparatory school, Gulfport, Miss. She received her bachelor of arts degree at Sophie Newcomb college, New Orleans and her bachelor of law degree at Tulane university. She is a member of the Louisiana Bar association and a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, the Chanter club and the Junior Charity league. For the past two years she has been associated with the law firm of McHenry, Lamkin, Lamkin and Lake.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Cobb of Tuskegee, Ala., and the grandson of the late Judge J. E. Cobb, congressman from Alabama. On his maternal side he is a grandson of the late Dr. John Massey, first president of Huntingdon college, Montgomery, Ala. He received his bachelor of science degree from Alabama Polytechnic institute, Auburn, Ala., where he was a member of Kappa Nu fraternity. He did postgraduate work on his master of science degree at Johns Hopkins university, Maryland, and will receive his doctor of medicine degree at Tulane university in February. He is a member of Nu Sigma Kapps Psi medical fraternity.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. Harvey Parnell of Dallie, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Phillips and A. L. Phillips, Jr., of Union, La., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherrouse and Miss June Sherrouse of Capo, Mr. Frank Morton of New Orleans, Miss Mary Mahaffey of Little Rock, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Barnes of Lafayette, La., Mrs. A. R. Richardson of Phoenix, Ariz., Mrs. C. Lafleur, Miss June Lafleur, C. C. Lafleur, Jr., of Kinder, La., Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gallagher of Mer Rouge, and Mrs. J. E. Roark, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Powell of Marion, La., Miss Anna Stewart of Bastrop, La.

Ensign Patrick Reardon And Miss Maxine Robison Married In Austin, Tex.

Bride's Parent's Home Is Scene Of Ceremony

Bridal Couple, Their Parents And Attendants Receive Following Ceremony

A brilliant nuptial event took place in Austin, Texas, November 3, when Maxine Robison, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James T. Robison became the bride of Ensign Patrick Herbert Reardon, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reardon of this city.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents at eight o'clock in the evening with Rev. Thomas F. Tierney, officiating.

The bride descended the stairway, focal points of which were accented with pink roses entwined with vine, t omeet her father at the entrance at the living room. White sating ribbons marker a pathway to a large wedding ring formed of gardenias and white ribbon improvised against deep turquoise damask draperies. At either side were tall white tapers in doubletiere dcandelabra. The couple knelt on a white satin bench.

The mantel was covered with vines and small conical trees of pink roses stood at either side of a handsome antique gold mirror.

Miss Robinson wore a picture gown of white slipper satin with a deep sheer yoke, accented by a scalloped bertha of net and valencienne lace, with long fitted sleeves that terminated in points over th hands. Lace ruffles formed a godet in the front of the full hooped skirt, which swept into a deep train. Her finger-tip veil fell in full circular tiers from a matching satin calot. The same lace trim was repeated on one tier, which fell to her shoulders in the black.

She carried a shower bouquet of stephanotis and white satin ribbon, centered with three white orchids. Her only jewelry was a diamond and sapphire bracelet, a gift from the bridegroom.

The maid of honor, Miss Myrtle Newman, and bridesmaids, Mrs. D. H. Arnold, Misses Gloria Robison, Carolyn Vaughan and Mrs. George Mariwether, wore identical bouffant dresses of turquoise faille. They carried bouquets of Bettertimes red roses and wore matching velvet pompadour bows.

The flower girl, Carolyn Kirkland, wore a dress of turquois net over matching taffeta and carried a shell pink booklet of red rose petals. Her wristlet corsage was of sweetheart roses. Jean Amsler, who lighted the candles, also wore a dress of turquoise net with a wristlet corsage of sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Harry Newman sang "Ave Maria" and Carl A. Fehr, organist, played Shubert's "Serenade" and "Oh, Perfect Love."

The bridegroom was attended by A. J. McMurrey, of Corsicana.

Receiving at the reception were the bridal couple, their parents and attendants. Miss Susan Jean Diggle of Dallas and Miss Frances Harrison served the cake and Miss Bertha Scarborough of Paris and Mrs. Edward M. Alsbury were in charge of the bride's book. Also assisting was Miss Nancy Robinson.

The bride's table covered in white organdy over shell pink tafetta held the three-tiered wedding cake frosted in pale pink an dembossed with roses. A large flower-framed mirror above the bride's table reflected the scene. Punch was served from crpstal bowls on the enclosed terrace which was also decorated in pink and red roses.

Following a wedding trip to New York and Canada the couple will make their home in Kittery, Me., while Ensign Reardon is stationed at Portsmouth, N. H. For travelling the bride chose a Fred Block suit in French blue trimmed with brown velvet. Her hat was of brown feathers with brown veil and her alligator accessories were also brown. A corsage of brown-throated yellow orchids completed the costume.

The bride attended Sweet Briar college and received her B. A. degree from the Universiay of Texas, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, Foo and Ownooch clubs. She was a Blue-bonnet Belle and in 1940 sweetheart of the university.

Ensign Reardon attended Culver Military academy and graduated from the University of Texas with a degree in petroleum engineering. He was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Miss Robbins Honoree At Lovely Tea-Shower

Mrs. Cecil H. Tait entertained at a lovely tea-shower in her home on South Riverfront street in West Monroe, honoring Miss Margie Robbins, whose marriage to Lieutenant Robert Sanford was a recent event of interest.

Mrs. Tait's home was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and red roses from her gardens. In the dining room the table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a plaque of white chrysanthemums encircled with white candles.

Miss Robbins was wearing a lovely trousseau model of black and yellow velvet with a corsage of lavender flowers, a gift from her hostess. Mrs. Robbins, the bride-elect's mother wore a black crepe model. Her aunt, Mrs. C. T. Johnson, also wore black. They both wore white corsages presented to them by Mrs. Tait. Mrs. Tait wore black crepe and lace with a corsage of gardenias.

The guests presented Miss Robbins with many lovely gifts of silver and china, in her chosen patterns, also linens.

During the tea hour the hostess assisted by Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. Ed Stinson, Misses Sue and Dean Stinson of Jonesboro, La., passed silver trays laden with open-faced sandwiches, wedding-ring tarts and a variety of small cakes and cookies.

Those present at the shower were close friends of the bride-elect and her family.

They were:

Mrs. W. J. Veazey, Miss Evelyn Wade, Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Miss Ruth Poimboeuf, Mrs. R. H. Poimboeuf, Miss Betty Jo Ford, Mrs. Will Mitchell, Mrs. P. L. Ward, Miss Betty Rhinehart, Mrs. E. W. Stinson, Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Misses Sue and Dean Stinson, Jonesboro, La., Mrs. Bob Kilgore, Miss Louise Thomas, Miss Olive Gunby, Mrs. Charles Yancey, Miss Louise Hawkins, Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. W. Ward, Miss Mary Belle Rogers, Mrs. E. Payne, Miss Maibel Hood, Miss Robbins, her mother, Mrs. Annie Mae Robbins, and the hostess.

Those unable to be present, but sending gifts were: Mrs. Marie Frazier, Mrs. Sam Robbins.

Altrusa Club To Adopt War Project

The regular monthly business meeting of the Altrusa club was held Thursday, November 11, at the home of Mary Clay with Miss Clay and Ruth Hawkins hostesses. Refreshments were served. The club adopted war work as their project for the coming year.

One of the members, Ruth Hawkins, has qualified as a nutrition instructor and all members have agreed to take the course. When the course has been completed by club members, the Altrusa group will work with the canteen at Selman field.

In addition to this activity, several members have already joined the motor corps. Emma Lee Short was named chairman of the committee to collect clothing for children in the Greek relief drive. This is regarded as a highly worthy cause and anyone having old or discarded children's clothes are asked to get in touch with Miss Short, Phone 5135-J and collection of the garments will be made.

Altrusa club members attended the meeting were: Mamie McNeil, Mary Benoit, Evelyn Reims, Bernice McCoy, Agatha Burkett, Hattie Taylor, Thelma Bond, Adrienne Carr, Alma Heinberg, Emma Lee Short, Fay Walker, Mary Clay, Ruth Hawkins and Davie Goodlett.

RED CROSS MOTOR CORPS CHAIRMAN

Mrs. C. C. North is now busily engaged in the work of recruiting young women for service as drivers of officers' cars at Selman Field. It is estimated at this time that at least 100 drivers are needed.

Mrs. Ware Addresses Readers Clique Group

'Our Children' Topic Of Interesting Talk Presented At Monthly Meeting

Members of the Readers' clique were delightfully entertained in the home of Mrs. Sidney Gill, 701 K street, for their regular meeting, which was presided over by the president, Mrs. Henry Loeb, Mrs. Stanley Archibald was welcomed as a new member. After the usual business, plans were discussed for the annual luncheon, which this year due to wartime rationing, will be a pot luck luncheon of unrationed foods. Mrs. Alvin Furlow, chairman of the luncheon committee, has planned a most delectable menu, and the members are looking eagerly forward to the event.

Mrs. Clyde Blanchard presented Mrs. R. O. Ware, who gave a splendid talk on "Our Children." She said in part, "Many parents are constantly searching for simple, but infallible rules for bringing up children. They want rules that can be applied without thinking, without the responsibility for making discrimination, such are likely, when dealing with children, to incline to one or the other of two extreme positions. Either they take the easy course of leaving everything to nature, on the theory that children will in due time outgrow their childish difficulties, or they are never conscientious and take over-seriously every manifestation of childishness as a warning of dire disaster. We find in most cases the parents are either too concerned or not concerned enough. In most situations where conditions are otherwise favorable, it is likely that things will right themselves gradually with the help of a few admonitions and some friendly encouragement.

The situations that cause genuine anxiety to parents carry often the suggestion of "Faulty Character." They are related to honesty, truth-telling, stealing, the mishandling of money and the like. Along less dramatic lines, but still arousing deep concern are forms of conduct that raise questions of considerateness toward other people, kindness, responsibility, the meeting of obligations and so on.

It is easy to understand, once we grasp the principle, that in many cases the child's "false" statements are manifestations of his imagination rather than efforts to deceive. The child needs criminate between what he actually experiences and what he only imagines. Parents cannot let faulty conduct pass unnoticed, merely because it belongs to a passing phase in the child's development. The child needs sympathy that assures him not so much of forgiveness as of understanding. It is not a question of condoning and overlooking errors, but helping the child use them for his own growth. The parent's tact shows itself in overlooking some blunders, treating others casually and lightly, and using still others as stepping stones for the child's own advance in understanding or control.

A child must be given the privilege of testing his own faiths and beliefs The most difficult thing for the adult to learn is that he cannot transfer his own experience to his child. Children cannot develop strong moral and mental characters if they have no obstacles to surmount in the way of such an attainment. Although the hot house plant may be temporarily and nicest to look at, it doesn't last, man differs little except that he turns out best who is trained in the sharpest school. Children grow through experience. An infant learns to walk only after many tumbles. Some of the tumbles are painful but few of them are really serious. Growth and development of character proceed in the same way by constant practice and by mistakes from day to day.

We have to seek and help the child find the sources of objectionable conduct, and help him cultivate controls and efforts for better conduct in the future. We have to give him constantly the assurance that our efforts come not from resentments or annoyances, but from an effection and enduring confidence.

The parent has to take a long view and to realize that it is the slow building up that counts. Not standardized, mechanically determined responses to situations, but growth toward more satisfactory ways of meeting life's situations. This is the aim of education which includes religion. Only by means of such an all embracing religion can we hope to develop character that will stand the strain of changed conditions, only thus can we hope to develop men and women who can bear the strain of modern life without despair or boredom or collapse; who can dream dreams and see visions of a day when selfishness is overcome by love, and hatred by goodwill; can "look up and love and laugh and live."

Mrs. Gill served delicious refreshments to the following: Mrs. Henry Loeb, Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. Russell Cook, Mrs. Ernest Marchman, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. Clyde Blanchard, Mrs. Oliver Lowery, Mrs. Fred Parrish, Mrs. Skeeter Morgan, Mrs. Alvin Furlow, Mrs. Wilbur Ross, Mrs. J. T. Sumrall, Mrs. W. M. Ryland, Jr., Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mrs. Burl Hollis, and Mrs. R. O. Ware.

TAM Organization Has Dance On Friday Night

The teen age group of Monroe enjoyed a dance Friday night at the Community center, sponsored by the "Tam" organization. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Gatlin band, composed of a group of Monroe teen age boys.

The Monroe Community center is a place for boys and girls in Monroe to meet, dance if they like, play games and enjoy good wholesome fun. It is open every afternoon. Friday night is "Tam Night" for the members of the Tam organization. Saturday night is open for all teen age boys and girls.

There is now a membership of eighty-nine and the roll is still open. There is a small membership charge for yearly dues.

It is a great source of satisfaction to parents to know that all affairs at the recreation center are properly chaperoned and an atmosphere of refinement and congeniality radiates at all times.

Friday night three members of the Readers Clique, Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. J. T. Sumrall and Mrs. E. T. Robinson, Jr., served as hostesses.

Local 'Y' To Observe World Fellowship Week

During the week of World Fellowship, November 14 to 20, the Monroe Young Women's Christian association will join with the members of the Y. W. C. A.'s of the United States and many other lands in affirming its belief in world fellowship and the powerful factor in making our world "One Fellowship." The shadow of war falls darker and darker on Y. W. C. A. workers as the years pass.

The time to assure a just and lasting peace is now. This will require the untiring effort of every individual and an awareness of the responsibilities of our citizenship. The Y. W. C. A., because of its Christian purpose and background, is keenly conscious of its responsibilities in bringing about a world fellowship, the basis of an abiding peace, and for years has had as one of its main emphasis: Building a world community or fellowship and has set aside one week in November as "World Fellowship week."

The Monroe Y. W. C. A. is having observance of World Fellowship at the "Y" on Thursday morning, November 18, at 10 a.m. Mrs. W. C. Oliver and Mrs. F. C. Bennett, worship committee, will be in charge of this meeting. The public is cordially in vited to attend.

Miss Barrier Mae Walsworth Weds Dr. Nathaniel R. Spencer In Washington

Popular Monroe Girl Weds. Maryland Doctor

Ceremony Performed In Memorial Chapel At Army Medical Center In Capital

A wedding characterized by wartime simplicity, impressive ceremony and beauty of detail, took place at Memorial chapel, Army Medical center, Washington, D. C., when Miss Barrier Mae Walsworth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Edgrin Walsworth of this city and Dr. Nathaniel Roscoe Spencer, of Washington, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Spencer of Bethesda, Maryland, were united in marriage, October 23 at five-thirty o'clock in the afternoon.

The church was candlelit and fragrant with the pungent odor of chrysanthemums overflowing from urns placed at the base of tall white candelabra supporting cathedral tapers. While the guests were being seated a brilliant concert was rendered by the organist of the National Cathedral of Washington. The pre-nuptial numbers included, "To the Evening Star," from Tanhauser by Wagner, "Angel's Serenade," "Because," "Ave Maria," by Schubert, "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," from Samson and Dalilah, "Liebestraum," by Liszt, "At Dawning," by Cadman, and "Moonlight Sonata," by Beethoven.

The bride's matron of honor, Mrs. Frederick Norman Brown, sister of the bridegroom, wore a rustic brown ensemble trimmed in mink. She wore a small mink hat with brown veil and brown suede gloves and shoes and carried an arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom, wearing the uniform of a first lieutenant in the Army Medical corps, was attended by his brother, who wore the navy blue, gold trimmed uniform of the United States Public Health service.

The groomsmen were Colonel Maddox, Army Air corps, cousin of the bridegroom and Major Louis Kraus, Army Medical corps of Baltimore, Md.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a distinctive original Stein model of Bride's blue with blouse of golden brown embroidered in bronze sequins. She wore brown suede gloves, bronze kid slippers with bronze buckles and a small, close fitting hat of antelope by Bernice Charles. A corsage of bronze orchids was in perfect harmony.

The bride observed all the old superstitions including the sixpence in her shoe borrowed from Miss Hazel Mitchell, a cherished friend. For something old she wore her grandmother's diamond brooch and carried a Brussel's lace handkerchief.

The bride's mother, Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, wore an afternoon model of black embroidered in pink pearls and a small black hat trimmed in pink roses. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. George Wilson Hutchison, wore a black velvet model trimmed in black sequins with a small hat of black coque feathers and a corsage of gardenias.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. R. R. Spencer, wore a black crepe model trimmed in moonstone blue jewels. Her small hat was adorned with blue birds. A corsage of gardenias was worn.

Following the ceremony performed by Colonel Charles D. Trexler, U. S. A., chaplain, a reception was held in the Blue room of the Shoreham hotel where an orchestra supplied music during the receiving hours and later for dancing.

The cutting of the wedding cake, a luscious confection surmounted with figurines of a bride and uniformed bridegroom, was the highlight of the occasion. Ices in the form of wedding bells were served from a mammoth silver tray emblazoned with the Military shield. The American flag was cleverly depicted in ice.

Mrs. Spencer is the granddaughter of Mrs. Henry Clay Walsworth and the late Mr. Walsworth of Jackson parish, La.; the granddaughter of Mrs. George Wilson Hutchison and the late Mr. Hutchison of Nashville, Tenn.; great granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Frick of Philadelphia and Frick's Locks, Pa.; great niece of Mr. John Locken of Nashville, Tenn., and of Mr. and Mrs. James Turner of Nashville, Tenn., and Edinburgh, Scotland.

She was graduated from Vanderbilt university where she was a member of the Arts club, the Masque club, the A Capella choir, and the Gamma Phi Beta sorority. She received her master's degree from George Peabody college, and has also done post-graduate work there. She is also a member of the American Association of University women, the American Association of Collegiate Registrars, a charter member of Quota, International, of Harrisonburg, Va., and a charter member of the Spinsters' club of Monroe. At the present time she is a member of the faculty of Shenandoah college and Conservatory of Music, Dayton, Va. She reigned as Queen of the Mardi Gras ball in Monroe several years ago.

Dr. Spencer is the son of Dr. Spencer, medical director of the National Cancer institute of Bethesda, Md., who has also attained acclaim for his outstanding work with Rocky Mountain fever, which was described in Paul deKruif's famous book, "Men Against Death," and Lloyd Douglas' book "Green Light." Dr. Spencers' role being portrayed by Errol Flynn in the moving picture version of the same story. The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Green Grasty of Baltimore, Md., formerly of Danville, Va. He is a descendant of Thomas Spencer who settled in Virginia in 1630, and from General Nathaniel Grasty of the American Revolution. He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Heruert Spencer, Mrs. Burke Spencer and the late Mr. Spencer, all of San Antonio, Texas. He is also the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Branch Worsham Spencer of West Point, Va., and descendant of the Spencers of Mount Vernon, Virginia.

He was graduated from George Washington university and the medical school of the University of Texas. He is a member of Phi Chi fraternity, the William Beaumont Medical society, the Tennessee Academy of Science, and the Sons of the American Revolution. At the present time he is resident interne at Walter Reed General hospital, Army Medical center, Washington, D. C. He will go on active duty as a first lieutenant with the Army Medical corps the first of the year.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were: Miss Marie Rogers of Richmond, Va., Miss Joyce Hurt of Dayton, Va., and New Orleans, Miss Marcia Jump of Dayton, Va., and Boston, Mass., Lieutenant and Mrs. Thomas Leigh of Arlington, Va., and Monroe, Miss Rhoda Kellogg of Arlington, Va., and Monroe, Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Walter Kellogg of Washington and Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. George Snellings of Arlington, Va., and Monroe, Mr. Roderick Norman Brown of Forrest Hills, Long Island, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Green Grasty of Baltimore, grandparents of the groom, Mr. Davenport Grasty of Baltimore, uncle of the groom, Mrs. E. W. Holsinger of Dayton, Va., Mrs. Harold Maddux of Arlington, Va., cousin of the groom.

Those who were invited but unable to attend the wedding due to wartime restrictions, were: Miss Mary Stuart Kellogg, of Arlington, Va., student at Sophie Newcomb college, New Orleans, Miss Cornelia McHenry of Monroe, student at Randolph Macon college, Miss Elizabeth Grisso of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Clark Blackman, Jr., of Nashville, Tenn., Misses Hazel Mitchell and Josephine McCranie of Monroe, La., Miss Mary Dann of Rochester, N. Y.

BRIDE OF RECENT DATE

Mrs. Frank W. DeHaven, whose marriage to Lieutenant DeHaven was an interesting event of recent date is the former Elvie Leonora Pylant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pylant of Purvis, Miss. Mrs. DeHaven is the granddaughter of the late Hugh Potts of this city.

Miss Elvie Pylant And Lieutenant DeHaven Wed

Interest centered in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Elvie Leonora Pylant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pylant of Purvis, Miss., and Lieutenant Frank W. DeHaven, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. DeHaven of 2351 Eastbrook Drive, Toledo Ohio.

The ceremony took place in St. Andrew, Fla., at the Episcopal church with Chaplain T. A. Franklin of Tyndall field, officiating.

Immediately following the ceremony the young couple left for a honeymoon in Toledo, Ohio.

The bride is well known in this city where she attended Northeast Junior college. She is the granddaughter of the late Hugh Potts of Monroe.

Lieutenant DeHaven attended Toledo university and is now with the Army Air corps. He is a graduate of the navigation school at Selman field. Mrs. DeHaven will make her home with Lieutenant DeHaven's parents until he is permanently stationed.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Monthly Meeting At Home

The American Legion auxiliary held their regular monthly meeting, at the Legion home, Thursday night with Mrs. Graves Godwin, president, presiding.

Mrs. Harry Stein, chairman of Girls State, and three representatives, Misses Beverly Simmons, Joy Harper and Louise Tisdale, made their annual report, which was very interesting and entertaining. It gave the members a realization of how worthwhile this project is, not only to the few representatives but beneficial to those to whom they bring their messages.

It was also announced by the membership chairman, Miss May Faulk, that the membership quota for the ensuing year had been reached. Mrs. F. H. Madison reported on the 5th District conference held in Ruston, Sunday, October 31st. The spring conference will be held in Bastrop.

Mrs. Ted Mahr, Community Chest chairman, reported that the committee collected $27.45. It was decided that the Legion Auxiliary sponsor some king of entertainment for the WACs of Selman field, between now and Christmas. The following committee was appointed: Mmes. F. H. Madison, C. H. Mitchell, Mengis, T. C. Mahr and Mrs. Edward Auerbach.

After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served to: Mmes. Graves Godwin, Edward Auerbach, F. H. Madison, C. M. Mitchell, Mengis, A. D. Tisdale, T. C. Mahr, F. V. Allison, C. M. Abboud, H. Stein, C. H. Mobley, Dan Young and Misses May Faulk, Beverly Simmons, Joy Harper, Louise Tisdale and Helen Stein.

Friends will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Marie Liles is recovering from a recent tonsillectomy.

RECENTLY MARRIED

Sergeant and Mrs. Larry Ferracci, who were recently married, are now residing in Childress, Texas. Mrs. Ferracci is the former Miss Maxine Guidry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Guidry of West Monroe.

Miss Eleanor Kendrick To Marry Lieut. Marr

The affectionate interest of many friends is centered in the beautifully engraved invitations just issued as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Earthman Kendrick request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter
Eleanor Elizabeth to Terrence Carlton Mahr, junior
Lieutenant, Air Corps United States Army on Saturday morning, the twenty-seventh of November Nineteen hundred and forty-three at nine o'clock
Christ the King Church
Nashville, Tennessee

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Kendrick inspired the following article appearing in the social section of the Nashville News:

Pretty Eleanor Kendrick is deep these days in wedding plans and shopping tours as is indicated by the exciting news of her engagement to Terrence C. Mahr, Jr., Lieutenant, United States Army Air Forces, stationed at Smyrna Air Base, which is being announced today. She is also scanning the lists of apartments to find a suitable spot to live for the bride and groom-elect plan to make their home here "if their luck holds out"—that is, if Terrence remains at Smyrna Air Base.

The Kendrick-Mahr romance began last May and for some time Eleanor has been sporting a pair of small silver wings. The wedding rate has been set for November 27 and Christ the King church will be the scene of the ceremony. We'll guarantee that Eleanor will be among the prettier autumn brides.

Captain and Mrs. Leonard D. Parsons announce the arrival of a daughter, Jennifer Lynne, at the Wright-Bendel clinic, November 9.

Mrs. Tidwell Reviews Book For Miro Members

Lloyd Douglas' 'The Robe' Described In Feature Of Book Club Program

One of literature's greatest gems, "The Robe" by Lloyd Douglas, was beautifully reviewed by Mrs. A. S. Tidewell at the regular meeting of the Miro Book club with Mrs. S. M. Collins, Mrs. J. . Whitfield's review of "Suds In Your Eyes," by Mary Laswell, rounded out the afternoon's program.

If you haven't read "The Robe," you will enjoy Mrs. Tidwell's review. She said in part:

"Mr. Douglas has labored long and diligently upon one of literature's greatest themes: the crucifixion of Jesus and the birth of Christianity. In one sense this is no new departure for him. Those of us who have read such books of his as 'Magnificent Obsession,' 'White Banners,' or 'Green Light,' will recall how Lloyd Douglas always tries to convey to his reader some religious idea or worthwhile thought. 'The Robe' is only a final and definite statement of his own magnificent obsession—that is, teaching religion through writing.

"In the autumn of 1940 a saleswoman in an Ohio department store wrote to Lloyd Douglas inquiring whether anyone knew what became of the robe that the Roman soldiers gambled for while its owner was dying on the cross. It will be remembered that the Gospel tells us that the Roman soldiers did cast lots for His coat, 'that the scripture might be fulfilled which saith, They parted my raiment among them, and for my vesture they did cast lots.'

"To whom did this coat, 'woven without seams, woven from the top throughout' fall as a prize? And what happened to it and its possessor afterward? It is this question that Mr. Douglas bases his newest and best novel on.

"According to Douglas the garment fell to the lot of Marcellus Gallio, a Roman tribune and son of a senator. Marcellus was not an ordinary man. Born of high parentage and possessing all the luxuries of the day, he was at heart a noble person. I use the word 'noble' perhaps erroneously; for I do not intend one to think of his high birth in using it. Rome—in his day—the day of Christ—was a wicked city ruled by wicked men—who ruled the world of that day by brute force. One of the objects of this force, slavery, brings into this story the second most powerful figure, Demetrius, a Greek slave of high birth. Demetrius was given to Marcellus on his 17th birthday, when he entered the bounds of manhood in an impressive ceremony. A more worthy gift no father could ever bestow upon a son, for the loyalty, love and friendship that arose and existed between master and slave forms, to me, the mainstay of the entire book.

"As I said, Marcellus was noble. Being too outspoken at a public banquet, about his disgust for the disgusting Prince Gaius, Prince Regent of Rome and stepson of Emperor Tiberius, he was more or less exiled from Rome when sent to take command of Fort Minoa (or Gaza), 'a villainously dirty little port city' in southern Palestine—a fort where only riff-raff were sent. It so turned out that Prince Gaius sent the wrong man to this fort—for Marcellus decided to take immediate command of the fort—that is exact obedience from the unruly and disorderly. And that he did, much to the regret of all the soldiers at Minoa. But, not for long! For Marcellus, not pompous at heart, soon won the friendship of all when old Sextus, third in command, broke his leg; and the commander in person fixed a suitable bed and prepared a nourishing broth for the suffering man. This instance was followed by other acts of kindness. The men became proud of their polished swords, clean-shaven faces, clean uniforms, perfect drills—and most of all their new commander. And they even liked his slave. So by the time the big Jewish celebration in Jerusalem, Passover week, came around, all officers eagerly made plans for a week of festivities at Pontius Pilate's expense; for it was the custom for each fort to send around a hundred soldiers into Jerusalem at this time to keep peace. We all recall enough of our Bible to remember how Pilate squandered the money of the temples to build his wife a garden in the desert country. The splendor of his palace in contrast to the squalor of the city of Jerusalem amazed Marcellus and Demetrius.

"I quote this paragraph describing the streets:

"'The streets were crowded. You had to pick your way carefully through the market district or you might tramp on some reckless huckster sitting cross-legged on the narrow sidewalk surrounded by his pitiful little stock of merchandise; a few crude earthenware jugs, perhaps. Here sat a shapeless bundle of rags that turned out to be an old woman with three eggs and a melon for sale. The roadway was choked with pack-animals unloading into the little bazaars. Everywhere emaciated arms stretched out for a penny. Loathsome sores were unwrapped and put on display. Now the street narrowed into a dark, pestilential cavern that declined over a series of broad stone steps, slippery with refuse, swarming beggars and mangy, half-starved dogs.'

"Every year the Jews gathered around and wailed about the Messiah. Demetrius was the first to witness the new man they were proclaiming. But Marcellus was the one chosen to crucify the new Messiah for disturbing the peace of the Temples. Marcellus and Demetrius, both present at His trial, recognized this man, Jesus, as being unusual. Having been commanded by Pilate to crucify this man, Marcellus loathed his task so that he performed it in a state of drunkenness. Afterward, conscious of having crucified an innocent man and being forced to put on His robe that he had gambled for and won, Marcellus grew remorseful to the point of nearly losing his mind. Fortunately, he was recalled from Minoa. When his family saw his condition, Senator Gallio commissioned Demetrius to take him to Athens. Not even did the senator think it wise that Marcellus should see Diana—his bride-to-be and favorite of Tiberius—so sick mentally did he consider his son.

"In Athens Marcellus found comfort in nothing, until one day, steeling himself for what was to him an ordeal, he touched the robe with his hands, and to his surprise it mysteriously healed his mental ailment. To an intelligent Roman, trained in rational ways and more or less pagan, the fact was bewildering; and somewhat against his own will he as well as Demetrius, found himself slowly but inevitably drawn into a quest of elucidation.

"It is at this point that the narrative assumes real weight and significance. Marcellus and Demetrius return to Galilee, but separately. Marcellus' journeys through Galilee bring him into contact with some of Jesus' disciples and with some of the men and women on whom Jesus had left His mark—Miriam, Lydia, and Jonathan. He meets the big fisherman, none other than Peter; and he witnesses the martyrdom of Stephen. He is told how thousands followed Jesus for days—dropping whatever task they were performing when he passed. Marcellus found that easy to understand—for he had witnessed that calm strength. But the miracles! However, he did not question these stories or attempt to reason them out—for did not Stephen see Him just before He died? And did not Peter walk out of prison? The reader must remember that Marcellus' love really dated back to the trial when he looked at Him for the first time."

Reading Certificates Awarded By Library

One of the features of the Ouachita parish public library's celebration of National Book week, November 14-21, will be the awarding of 55 reading certificates presented by the Louisiana library commission to those individuals who have read 12 outstanding books on a variety of subjects during the year.

The theme of this year's list is "Build the Future with Books," and the list helps one do that by becoming better informed on present-day living, on world conditions today, and on planning for the future. Never before has information been more necessary, and we rejoice that in America books are made into beacons instead of bonfires.

New reading lists for the coming year are now available at the libraries in Monroe and West Monroe. Ask for one of these reading lists the next time you visit the library.

Those who earned reading certificates in the Twin Cities during the past year are: Mrs. A. P. Ryan, Mrs. Bruce Frizzell, Mrs. John West, Mr. Parker Redmond, Mrs. E. N. Terrell, Mrs. W. B. Clarke, Mrs. Leo Micheles, Mr. G. N. Mills, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. Eugenia C. Oliver, Rev. Vernon C. Gross, Miss Marie Powers, Mrs. T. W. Fatherson, Miss Carrie D. Drew, Miss Frances Michie, Mrs. George Salisbury, Mrs. Mowitt S. Drew, Sergeant Mowitt S. Drew, Mrs. Lawrence Ballweg, Mrs. Grace Calvert, Captain Harold E. Sinclair, Mr. George Holland, Mrs. A. B. Bergevin, Mr. Frank Kennedy, Mrs. W. S. Houston, Mrs. H. D. King, Mr. Harry Rogers, Sister Juliann Prevost, Sister Aloyisus, Miss Genevieve Gremillion, Miss Mary Bergevin, Lieutenant Drew P. Lawrence, Dr. Samuel J. Nichamin, Mrs. Christene Moore, Mrs. G. O'Quinn, James Earl Thompson, Tommy Neal, Mrs. Victor L. Fox, Mrs. Joseph Landreaux, Mrs. Josephine M. Faulk, Mrs. Kate Morrice, Mrs. R. G. Odell, Mrs. Fred Bennett, Mr. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. Achsah Belt, Mr. Foster Pepper, Mr. H. C. Ervin, Mary Frances Griffin, Mrs. Amos Hood, Miss Katherine Averett, Miss Gloria Fowler, Captain LeRoy P. Martens, Mrs. G. C. McAuliffe, Mr. Rupert Goodwin and Captain George Salisbury.

Several Clubs Meet During Week At 'Y'

On Monday afternoon the Fidelis club of the Girl Reserves met at the "Y" with Merrie Lee Hoyt, president, presiding. Carol Jean Stegall, chairman, read the devotional: "Our Ideals and Standards Today" from the "Girl's Everyday Book." Gwen Walker was in charge of the program. Mary Lou Willy gave an interesting talk on "Our Manners." Gwen Walker talked on "Charm." Dolores Massett talked on "The Care of the Hair." There was a general discussion on the topic of "Our-selves." The meeting was closed with the Girl Reserve slogan, purpose and code.

On Tuesday afternoon the Followers of the Gleam club met with Felicia Mallett, president, presiding. Nancy Johnson read the devotional: "The Art of Getting Along with People." Jean Phelps was in charge of the program.

Blue Circle club met with Jane Steed, president, presiding. Jerry Freeman, devotional chairman, read "A Prayer of Thankfulness," Jane Steed, Janice Tucker, Jo Anne Ransome served on the program which was on "Self-Control." The meeting was closed with the code, purpose and slogan.

On Wednesday afternoon the Tri-Y club of Girl Reserves met at the "Y." Johnnie Duhe, president, presided. Yvonne Brett read the devotional. The secretary called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. Yvonne Brett gave a report on the jackets for the club. The program was in the form of a "social." Several games were played: "A Musical Romance" proved interesting. The girls were delighted to have Ann Mallett as their guest accompanist. After the games refreshments were served.

On Thursday afternoon the Jolly Y Janes club of the Girl Reserves met with Jonanne Severance, president of the club, presiding. Carolyn Bagwell read the devotional, a selection from "A Girl's Yearbook." The program, led by Marna Hynum, was in observance of Armistice day. Marna Hynum read "The American Creed." Joanne Severance read, "I Am An American." Several quotations of great Americans were read. Joanne Severance sang "Over There" and "There's A Long, Long Trail A'Winding."

Officers Of Business Girls Club Honored

The annual party for the members of the Business and Professional Girls of the Y. W. C. A., honoring the past and present officers, held Thursday evening, was a charming affair in every respect.

Card tables were set up in the reception rooms of the "Y" for the evening's entertainment of "crazy bridge" which was a source of much fun for those present. Prizes were won by Miss Deas Robinson and Miss Georgia McCoy.

Mrs. Louise Phillips, president, presented Miss Wista Smith, retiring president, with twin crystal vases for her efforts in guiding the club's activities during the past year. Mrs. Henry Whitfield, president of the Y. W. C. A. board was also presented with a gift in appreciation for her faithfulness as sponsor for this club during the past few years.

Rhymes-Cobb Wedding Party Are Honorees

Breakfast Party At Home Of Congressman And Mrs. McKenzie Precedes Wedding

A charming compliment extended Miss Robertine Rhymes and Private Benajah Bibb Cobb on their wedding day was the eleven o'clock breakfast in the home of Congressman and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie with their daughters, Miss Jane McKenzie and Mrs. Lee Thompson and Mr. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Perry, hosts and hostesses.

The pink color theme selected by Miss Rhymes for the gowns worn by her wedding attendants, was portrayed in every detail of the breakfast table overlaid with pale pink net. Pink satin ribbon bows adorned mingled with the pale pink sesanquahs overflowing from a silver basket placed in the center of the table. Directly over the table hung a pink tulle wedding bell studded with pink sesanquahs.

The favors marking each cover were match holders bearing the words, "It's a match, Robertine and Ben."

Following the serving of the delicious three course breakfast a silver tray laden with luscious fruits was passed.

Another distinctive affair honoring Miss Rhymes and Private Cobb was the dinner party given by Miss Rhymes' aunt, Mrs. John K. Atkinson. Mrs. Atkinson was assisted by her two daughters, Misses Sue and Ann Atkinson in extending courtesies.

The reception suite was banked with beautiful autum flowers with yellow chrysanthemums predominating. Candlelight mingled with the glow of the wood fire on the hearth in the most charming manner.

Before dinner aperitifs were served in the living room.

The dinner table was beautifully appointed with silver and crystal and florally adorned with a wide-spreading plaque of yellow chrysanthemums reflected in an oval mirror. Low silver candlesticks supporting yellow tapers encircled the mirror.

Exquisite bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums marked covers for the feminine guests.

Four courses were faultlessly served to Miss Rhymes, Mr. Cobb and members of the wedding party and out of town guests.

OUR GUIDING LIGHT

On an island in the harbor of New York, the Statue of Liberty stands as a symbol of America to all who come and go by way of this great city.

As from many American ports our boys embark on transports for the war fronts of the world, perhaps this great bronze Goddess provides them with a mental picture of the shining ideal of Freedom. On the lips of many of those who come back may be framed the question, "Where is this Liberty we have fought for?"

In the name of freedom, we at home have an obligation that we must discharge to our men in the service. It is the obligation to keep America American for them, so that the symbol of American liberty that greets them on their return may not be just a symbol.

Let this be our guiding light: Keep America the land of freedom—freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom from want and fear—and freedom to strive for success and—if we are able, to succeed!

'Sweet Rosie O'Grady' Opens At Paramount Tuesday

Betty sings, Betty dances, Betty romances! That Grable gal is a show all by herself, and when she's starred with such top-notchers as Robert Young and Adolphe Menjou, it's bound to be a success—and that's just what they're saying about the new technicolor film, "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," which opens a five day engagement at the Paramount Tuesday.

Grable Is Starred In Musical Hit

Robert Young And Adolphe Menjou Also In Outstanding Cast

THERE NEVER was a girl like Rosie! You remember—Rosie O'Grady, they called her. And now her adventures are depicted in the new technicolor hit slated to open Tuesday at the Paramount theater, entitled "Sweet Rosie O'Grady"—and is she ever a honey! Who plays Rosie? None other than the army's favorite pin-up girl—blonde, beautiful Betty Grable, the gal with the shapely legs, out-of-this-world voice and a smile that can defrost even the iciest heart.

Critics declare it's the best musical yet from 20th Century-Fox, and this is saying plenty, as the recent "Hello Frisco, Hello," "Coney Island," "Wintertime" are all from the same studio—and they were all smash hits.

Starred with Betty, are Robert Young and Adolphe Menjou, two of the top actors in Hollywood. And in supporting roles are Reginald Gardiner, Virginia Grey, Phil Regan, Sig Ruman, Alan Dinehart, and many, many more—all popular favorites and all perfectly cast.

Betty is seen as the toast of London who, as she is about to win her Duke, is exposed by Reporter Young as an ex-Brooklyn entertainer. How she gets even makes for top-notch entertainment.

In a musical, it's the songs that count, and in "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" there are melodies that are headed for top popularity. Ace tunesmiths Mack Gordon and Harry Warren worked for months providing lilting new numbers, and they have come up with some corkers, including "My Heart Tells Me," "Goin' to the Country Fair," "The Wishing Waltz" and "My Sam."

And as for the dance numbers, staged by Hermes Pan, ably abetted on the musical numbers by Fanchon, they are, to quote previewers, "dream confections." La Grable is synonymous with superlative dancing—and when she has the costumes, the music and the lavish settings provided in "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," she really outdoes herself—ina word, she's magnificent.

John Wayne and Albert Dekker are shown in a scene from the story that made America great—"In Old Oklahoma." Wildcatters—men who could lick their weight in wildcats—and did. The spectacle, so wild and reckless, is the midnight show attraction at the Paramount theater.

The finger of guilt points to Adolphe Menjou when Pola Negi discovers that her apartment and wardrobe have been taken over by Martha Scott in the comedy, "Hi Diddle Diddle," which plays at the Paramount theater today and Monday.

Shown above are Mary Lee and Jackie Moran in a scene from "Nobody's Darling," a picture that will make you cry a little and laugh a lot, playing at the Capitol theater Friday and Saturday.

NOVEMBER MEET OF P.-T. A. HELD

The Millsaps P.-T. A. held its regular meeting on November 10 with Mrs. T. C. McAuliffe presiding. An Armistice day program was given. Mrs. C. C. Covine spoke on "Honoring Our Flag," and her talk was followed by the audience.

Flag display and rules were read by Mrs. P. G. Johnson. Pupils of the third grade displayed the flag and demonstrated the proper way to salute it. Mrs. Johnson read "Salute to the Flag," and the national anthem was sung and all joined in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Following prayer by Mrs. Frances Ortis, Mrs. K. D. Hayes, program chairman, read the P.-T. A. program for the year and introduced the guest speaker of the afternoon, Miss Jean Bonham, child welfare supervisor. Her address was on the subject, "Foster Homes and Adoption."

The third and fifth grades tied for first place in the attendance of mothers contest.

'Watch On The Rhine' At Capitol

Bette Davis And Paul Lukas In Cast Of Play Termed 'Best Of Year'

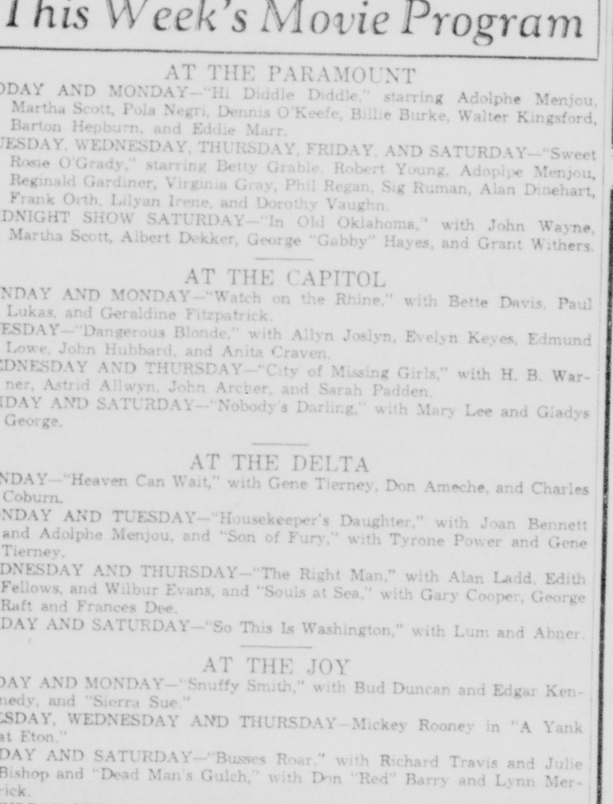

HERMAN Shumlin has been a long time coming to Hollywood, though not for lack of invitations. As Broadway's most consistently successful producer and director over more than a decade, he sponsored such hits as "The Last Mile," "Grand Hotel," "The Children's Hour" and "The Little Foxes," all of which came on to fame in Hollywood.

After piloting "Watch on the Rhine" for a run of 15 months, he took the play right into Hollywood and put it on film for Warner Brothers. The picture, starring Bette Davis and Paul Lukas, opens today at the Capitol theater.

Shumlin, in his first try at movie-making, had the comfort of working with familiar faces in their familiar and accustomed roles. Lillian Hellman, who wrote the play also added scenes and dialogue for the screen scenes and dialogue for the screen play by Dashiell Hammett. Paul Dukas starred in the stage production, was was certainly at home before the camera. Lucile Watson, George Coulouris, Frank Wilson and Eric Roberts recreate the key roles they played for over a year on the stage.

Hollywood's contribution to the film cast leads off brilliantly with Bette Davis, who, as twice winner of the Academy Award, is anybody's bright particular star. Geraldine Fitzgerald, Beulah Bondi, Donald Woods and Henry Daniell, all seasoned and tested players, add to an impressive supporting cast.

"Watch on the Rhine" (as a play) was marked by the New York critics as Herman Shumlin's best production, after they had already learned to expect any Herman Shumlin production to be superbly cast and mounted.

Gene Kelly and Judy Garland swing on out for a musical treat in M-G-M's "For Me and My Gal," playing at the Saturday midnight show at the Joy theater.

SELMAN TO BATTLE CAMP POLK HERE TODAY

NEVILLE STADIUM SITE OF CONTEST

Cyclones Seek Fourth Straight Grid Win In Tilt With Strong Polkmen

With three straight victories behind them, the Cyclones of Selman field were all set for their first meeting of the season with the Camp Polk eleven at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon at Neville High school stadium.

One of the closest tilts of the season is in the offing for local fans today with the gridmen from Polk rating on even terms with the ever improving Cyclones. Employing practically the same type of offense and stacking up evenly in the weight department, with the edge, if any, being enjoyed here by the invaders, the opposing teams seem set for a battle royal.

Advance notices from the camps of both elevens reported the two squads in top condition. The injury jinx, one that has bothered the contestants throughout the first part of the season, has been overcome and all key men will likely be in uniform together for the first time. Only one man on the Selman eleven, Ed Schumacher, guard, is in the doubtful category—and he stands a good chance of getting into the ball game, despite a bad leg. Polk is expected to be at full strength for the tilt.

Deception and speed are the two prime assets of both the Cyclones and the Polkmen. A set of light backs that move behind the quick opening holes of a hard charging but comparatively light line give both teams the dangerous attack of a razzle-dazzle outfit, and when these two tricky elevens tangle this afternoon fireworks are expected to explode often.

Coach Clyde Funderburk, head mentor of the Cyclones, has announced that he will employ the two-team system against the invaders. Both of the Cyclone combines are made up of experienced men who have played a lot of football for Selman this fall and one club is rated just as good as the other.

The regular starting quartet of backs, Jimmy Harris, quarterback; Bob Swanson, left halfback; Jess Nichols, right halfback, and Mack Bishop, fullback, will likely be on hand to answer the kickoff whistle. In the alternate backfield will be Gerry deBouchel, quarterback; "Dub" Mattis, left halfback; DeSales Cavey, right halfback; John Jamison, fullback.

Both local backfields are loaded with dynamite and the offensive thrusts of the Cyclones have been getting stronger with each tilt. Mattis, who was mentioned for all-American at Tulane, turned in a superb performance last week as Selman blasted Camp Livingston, 21 to 2, there and the eel-hipped back is carrying the main hopes of the Cyclones today. A hard runner, crack passer and long

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Ever since Chicago U. dropped out of Big Ten football competition, there have been reports that Pitt was pulling strings in hopes of replacing the Maroons. . . . Well, Pitt now has lost ten straight games to Western conference foes, so what more proof do they want than the Panthers deserve the Chicago berth?

Service Department

Lieutenant Don McNeill, former national tennis champ, who was rejected recently by the navy for aviation training, has asked for a transfer from the embassy in Buenos Aires to "anywhere, just so it's in the middle of a good scrap." . . . Marine Staff Sergeant Gene Ward, former New York sports scribe, sends back word that New Zealand is the finest place in the world for fishermen and deer hunters. . . . Private John MacKenzie of Glasgow, Scotland, former Philadelphia golf pro, has been assigned to a 90 mm. gun crew at Camp Edwards, Mass. . . . Did it have a slice? . . . Bill Cadenhead, who helped the San Diego marines upset the Southern Cal. football team, was an Alabama freshman last year and Coach Frank Thomas called him "the finest left halfback prospect I have had since coming to Alabama in 1931."

Modern Language

When Detroit's Johnny Sherf got two good chances to score against the Montreal Canadiens the other night, only to be blocked by Goalie Bert Gardiner, he protested: "I thought I had him beaten but he made his move at the right fraction and blocked the puck. That man must be equipped with radar."

TEXAS LOOP TO OPERATE IF PLAYERS AVAILABLE

DALLAS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Texas league will operate next season if there are sufficient players who can give a caliber of baseball commensurate with that of former years.

By unanimous vote, the league directors at their annual meeting today pledged a desire to resume next year and said the manpower shortage was the only problem.

President J. Alvin Gardner, who has strongly recommended that the circuit start up again after remaining out of action this year, said after the meeting:

"We are going to have baseball next season. I am confident of it."

The upshot of the meeting was that each club will check on material and determine if there will be sufficient players to start in April. Then they will report at a meeting to be called by Gardner.

The club directors plan to attend the national baseball convention in New York December 1 and after that will be able to give a definite answer.

IRISH OVERCOME WILDCATS, 25-6

Notre Dame Keeps Grid Record Clean; Northwestern Puts Up Hard Battle

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The "Fighting Irish" undefeated and untied, roared to a 25-6 victory over Northwestern today, not only to retain their place as the Nation's No. 1 football eleven, but to further establish rank with the greatest Notre Dame teams in history.

A record-smashing crowd of 49,124, largest to ever fill Dyche stadium, watched the South Bend supermen register their eighth straight triumph. However, Northwestern held Notre Dame to the lowest number of points of any team this season.

Notre Dame, held to a 6-0 margin at the half, gained momentum in the remaining two periods. With its great running left halfback, Creighton Miller, and 18-year-old Johnny Lujack in command of the T formation, setting off the dynamite.

The Irish scored first in the remaining two minutes of the second period, Reserve Bob Kelly smashing over from the two to cap an 84-yard parade which featured Miller's running and Lujack's 22-yard pass to his towering battery mate, John Yonakor, right end.

Miller who accounted for 151 yards of his team's total of 302 by rushing, again led a drive at the start of the third period which carried 50 yards and ended when he drilled over from the one.

Before the final period concluded, Ziggy Czarobski recovered Joe Scriba's fumble on the Wildcat 34 to give the Irish a running start for their third touchdown at the outset of the final period. Lujack speared to Yonakor for 18 yards and Julie Rykovich churned into the end zone to score on the next play.

Lujack's attempted place-kick was blocked, but with quick thinking he scooped up the ball and ran it across to give the Irish their only after-touchdown point of the game.

After the ensuing kick-off, the Irish capitalized on another fumble, Otto Graham bobbling a bad pass from center. Paul Limont fell on the ball on the Northwestern 29 and seven plays later Lujack spotted a five-yard pass to Kelly at the corner of the field for the final marker.

Notre Dame completely dominated the statistics, picking up 20 first downs to six—18 of them by rushing—and 302 yards by rushing to 66.

BOGALUSA WINS

GULFPORT, Miss., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Passes from Parnell to Hemphill clicked for two touchdowns today and enabled Bogalusa High to defeat the Gulf Coast Military academy team, 14-7. The Visitors scored in the first and fourth periods while Glenn pushed over in the second quarter for the lone cadet score. Parnell place-kicked both extra points for Bogalusa.

PROKOP LEADS GEORGIA TECH TO 33-0 WIN OVER TULANE

Jacket Ace Tosses 4 Passes For Scores In Beating Green Wave

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Eddie Prokop's fancy forward passing exhibition netted four touchdowns and paced the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets to a 33-to-0 win over a battling Green Wave before an estimated 30,000 fans here today.

With the exception of one touchdown pass to Jimmy Dorough, lanky Tech end, Tulane completely smothered Prokop's aerial magic in the first half. Prokop completed only two of 10 passes attempted in the first two quarters and had two of them intercepted.

He hit his target 11 successive times in the second half, however, for what is believed to be a record in the Tulane stadium.

Dorough was on the receiving end of three Prokop-propelled touchdown tosses. Quarterback Jim Lindsey got the other Prokop scoring strike.

The Jackets scored their first touchdown in the opening minutes of the second quarter after Joe Renfroe, Tulane wingback, had kept them deep in their own territory with expert punting most of the first period. The Greenies halted a Jacket drive on the Tulane 3-yard line, but Renfroe punted out weakly to the 23.

After Prokop had missed with one toss, he flipped the ball into Dorough's arms over the Tulane goal. Prokop missed the try for point.

The Jackets got busy in the third period and used a wide assortment of half spinners, laterals and forwards to run up 20 points. The Jackets marched 65 yards for the first touchdown of the period, Prokop passing the last five yards to Dorough.

Prokop kicked the point to give Tech a 13-to-0 lead.

Prokop shot another six point pass to Dorough midway of the quarter, and just to get a bit of variety into the thing, the Jackets opened up for Fullback Ed Scharfschwerdt to crash over from the one-yard line.

Lindsey caught the final Prokop pass for the only score in the fourth period. Prokop kicked two points. Ritter one.

The Greenies never quit fighting and made two mild scoring threats of their own. Wally Schmitz, Greenie back, intercepted a Prokop pass on the last play of the first half and ran 15 yards to the Jackets' 16. Late in the third quarter, Jim Shiver moved the Greenies from their own 15 to the Tech 13 on passes to Bob Finley and Hugh Taylor, but a fumble ended their threat.

The lineup:

Ga. Tech	Pos.	Tulane
Tinsley	LE	Tarzetti
Chambers	LT	G. Jones
Steber	LG	Iglehart
Cummings	C	Kirscheneuter
Hills	RG	Bourgeois
Phillips	RT	Roseman
Wilson	RE	Olsen
Faulkner	QB	Finley
Prokop	LH	W. Jones
Logan	RH	Renfroe
Scharfschwerdt	FB	Jackson

Score by quarters:

Georgia Tech	0	6	20	7	—33
Tulane	0	0	0	0	— 0

Georgia Tech scoring: Touchdowns, Dorough 3 (sub for Tinsley), Scharfschwerdt, Lindsey. Points after touchdown, Prokop 2, Ritter.

NAVY OVERWHELMS COLUMBIA, 60 TO 0

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Through the courtesy of a friendly mathematics professor we are able to report that Navy crushed Columbia, 61 to 0, today in what was advertised as a football game.

There never was any doubt about the outcome after Hillis Hume ankled 31 yards on a fake from Harold Hamberg on the second play from scrimmage. That didn't result in a touchdown but it was only seconds later that the same Hume went the same distance for the first marker.

From then on until the score was 54 to 0 the Midshipmen kept pounding through the vulnerable line. They tried not to score in the waning moments but just as the clock marked the end of the fray Dick Gay snagged a punt and ambled 55 yards for another touchdown.

The outcome apparently confirmed the suspicions of Captain John E. Whelchell, Navy coach, who left the team in charge of Lieutenant Commander E. E. Miller and travelled on to West Point, N. Y., for a personal survey of Army, the Middies' opponent on November 27.

In that way the game became unique in that neither head coach was present, Lou Little convalescing at his home after a recent hospital siege with balky sinuses.

The feeble Lions ended the day with a minus yardage of 81 although the Navy first team never returned to the fray after building up a four touchdown lead early in the second period.

BOLLWEEVILS DOWN KEESLER COMMANDOS

KEESLER FIELD, Miss., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Arkansas A. and M. Bollweevils scored twice in the fourth quarter here today to defeat Keesler field's Commandos, 19 to 7, before 14,000 coatless soldiers and civilians.

It was the first loss of the season for the Commandos and the fifth win against one tie for the colorful Bollweevils.

Halfback Charley Gray and Full-Halfback Charley Gray and Full-Tech aces, were the main springs in the Bollweevil attack. Gray completed five successive passes, the last to Bill Cromer, for a touchdown in the final period that broke a 7-7 tie.

Steed assured the Bollweevils of a win by adding another touchdown in the fourth quarter, going over from the 2-yard line after his 25-yard run had set up the play.

Arkansas A. and M. opened the scoring in the second quarter when Billy Houch, former Oklahoma A. and M. star, intercepted a Keesler pass on his 5-yard line and sprinted 95 yards for a touchdown. Marshall kicked the point.

Herman Rohrig, one-time Nebraska great, knotted the count for Keesler field early in the third period by scoring from the one-yard line and kicking the point.

Gray completed 10 passes out of 14 attempts for 131 yards. He totaled 88 yards on 25 rushing plays.

Arkansas A. and M. made 8 first downs to 7 for Keesler field and outrushed the soldiers 175 yards to 121.

The Bollweevils made a scoring threat in the third period, but the Keesler line strengthened to take the ball on downs on their own 5-yard line.

DUKE POWERHOUSE SMASHES VIRGINIA

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Duke's high-stepping Blue Devils continued their high-scoring ways here today to run rough-shod over the University of Virginia Cavaliers, 49-0, as 6,000 chilled spectators looked on.

The Dukes were hardly pushed in taking the victory, scoring twice in the first, two more in the second, and adding one in the third, and then topping off the day's activities with two in the final frame.

The Dukemen used just five plays to get their first marker when Luper spun through the Cavalier line for 28 yards and the score. Luper and Cittadino had moved in successive first downs to the 28. Gantt kicked the point.

After stopping a Virginia aerial drive on the 28, the Dukes quickly added another touchdown, with Gordon Carver breaking through and romping 70 yards to score standing up. Gantt converted and the Dukes were ahead 14-0.

A minute after the second period opened, McCain intercepted one of Burnett's passes on the 24 to set up Duke's third marker. Balitsaris, substituting for Borbely, smashed over from the one.

Four plays elapsed and then Duke entered pay dirt again. Balitsaris and Hartley alternated in driving 36 yards, and then Hartley went over from the two. Gantt converted both times.

The second half had just begun when Buddy Luper tossed a lateral to Gordon Carver on the Virginia 38, and he tossed down the field to Milner, guard, who ran across for the touchdown. After Gantt converted, the Dukes immediately began working goalward again.

Haggerty intercepted another of Burnett's passes on the Duke 25 and stepped off 62 yards down the sidelines before being brought down by Seiler on the Virginia 13. On the first play of the final period Balitsaris spun through the line for the touchdown. Gantt's toe was true again.

NELSON INCREASES GOLF LEAD OVER JUG M'SPADEN

DALLAS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Byron Nelson shot a four-under-par 67 today to increase his lead over Harold (Jug) McSpaden to nine strokes in their cross-country golf tour for war relief and a $5,000 purse.

The two crack professionals played the first 18 of 36 holes over Lakewood Country club course.

Nelson had 36 on the outgoing nine but came in with 32 while McSpaden showed 35-40—75.

When they teed off here Nelson held a one-stroke lead from 36 holes they had played at Pinehurst and Greenwood, N. C., courses.

Some 4,000 persons followed the match today, all proceeds going to the Dallas war chest. The final 18 holes will be played tomorrow.

From here Nelson and McSpaden will go to the west coast, playing at Seattle, Portland and Los Angeles.

NORTH CAROLINA DEFEATS QUAKERS

Tarheels Surprise Penn, Eke Out A 9-To-6 Gridiron Victory

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Hard-driving, rugged-tackling North Carolina football team refused to believe the odds against it today and defeated a highly-favored Penn eleven, 9 to 6, in a game in which both teams alternately roared up and down the field in stirring offensives that, except on two occasions, sputtered and wheezed to a stop before reaching counting territory.

Thirty thousand astonished fans saw the Tarheels take a 2-to-0 lead in the final minute of the second period when a Penn pass was grounded in the Quakers' own end zone; fall behind as Joe Kane sprinted 80 yards from scrimmage in the fourth period, and then go permanently in front a little later when Hosea Dodgers cut right through the middle of the Penn line for 34 yards and a touchdown.

It was an amazing game in many ways, with both teams covering vast quantities of ground entirely by leg power. In fact, North Carolina wound up with a net yardage of minus seven as a result of passes, and Penn with minus six.

For most of the first two periods it seemed that Penn would explode at any minute, but the fuse never was lighted. Penalties and the staunch North Carolina defense always bobbed up to quell threats, and when the scoring break did come it came to the Tarheels.

Pushed back to their own nine-yard line in the fading moments of the second quarter, Penn elected to try a surprise pass. Joe Michaels eased back into his end zone to make the flip, and big Barney Poole, North Carolina tackle, crashed through and blocked and all but caught the ball. It fell for a safety.

The teams battled viciously through the third period with no profit, but in the opening moments of the final quarter after Penn had taken the ball on its 20 following a punt over the goal, Kane took the ball from the tailback spot, sliced off his left tackle, cut back and sprinted 80 yards to the goal. Twice before he had shaken himself loose for long runs, only to have Jack Fitch cut him down with rugged tackles. This time Fitch again was on his trail, but his stride broke and his last second dive left him prone with Kane covering the last 10 yards undisturbed. Frank McKernan missed the placekick for extra point.

The Tarheels, with a lusty wind at their backs, came right back, and the breeze gave them a sharp advantage on an exchange of punts. They worked the ball from the 41 to the Penn 34 on running plays, and then Rodgers found daylight through the middle and rambled through untouched to the goal. George Grimes booted the extra point to end the scoring for the day, although North Carolina was threatening again as the game ended, having intercepted a desperate Penn pass on the Penn 24.

FORMER N. J. C. STAR RETURNS FROM AFRICA

Captain Bill "Butch" Porter, one of Northeast Junior college's outstanding athletes of the Indians' "red-hot" years of 1937-38, is back in the states after serving 16 months overseas in the African and Sicilian campaigns, it was learned here the past week.

Captain Porter, guard on the Indian football team, undefeated in two years as middleweight boxer at N. J. C., guard on the basketball team and catcher for Jim Malone's baseball club, is an army air force pilot. He was reported slightly wounded. He returned to the stater on a hospital ship and is now at Stark General hospital at Charlotte, N. C.

His wife, the former Miss Jo T. Conger of Monroe, who has been residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Conger, here, has already left here to be with Captain Porter. The former junior college athlete has a young son, whom he has never seen. The youngster is still here with his grandparents, who expect to see his daddy for the first time when the latter is permitted to come home within the next few weeks. Captain Porter is a native of St. Louis, Mo.

MARCH FIELD BATTERS SOUTHERN CAL, 35 TO 0

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—(AP)—March fields' Fourth air force swamped Southern California today, 35 to 0, with a spectacular aerial attack generated by Jack Jacobs, former University of Oklahoma backfield star.

The defeat was the second straight for the injury-riddled Trojans, who won their first six games without being scored on and then dropped a 10 to 7 decision to the San Diego naval training station.

The Fliers riddled the Trojans defense in the second quarter, scoring four quick touchdowns. A short plunge by Sal Rosato, once of Villanova, drove over the first touchdown.

The other three were registered on perfectly timed spot passes by Jacobs, one to Owen Thuerk, ex-Detroit Lions, for 42 yards; the next for 25 to Shelby Adams of Georgetown, Ky., and the other for 42 to Ohio State's Jumping Joe Williams.

BATTLE ROYAL ON WRESTLING CARD

Four Grapplers Already Lined Up For Event Thursday At Local Arena

A wrestling battle royal, with Wildcat Monddy Brown, Allen Parker, "Butch" Martin and Jack Swenson already lined up for action, will be the feature event on Thursday night's mat program at the Monroe Wrestling arena, Promoter Gus Kallio announced last night.

The battle royal will be an open affair, Promoter Kallio said, and any others who desire to participate in the scrap are invited to do so. Kallio said he was making the event an open affair with the hope of attracting wrestlers from army camps of this area.

"I understand that a Selman soldier took on a circus strongman here Thursday night, staying 33 minutes with the heavier showman and making him look silly with judo tactics," Promoter Kallio said. "I don't know what army regulations at the various fields are, but if it's possible for the local soldier to wrestle he is welcome to enter."

Promoter Kallio said the riot or mass mayhem would start the Thursday show at 8 p.m. If more than four wrestlers participate those first to fall will be eliminated from the card. When only four are left in action the first two to be eliminated will return for the semi-final match, a dual affair with an hour time limit. The two wrestlers last standing in the battle royal will cease hostilities and return later in the main event which will have a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

Wildcat Brown is appearing for the first time on a Kallio-promoted card here, and will be running up against a pretty rugged crowd in Parker, the villainous ex-sailor of Nashville, Tenn.; Swenson, the rugged Swede from Kalamazoo, Mich., and Martin, the Monroe strong boy, who will be trying his hand at the mat game again after a layoff of several weeks.

N. J. C. TROUNCES CAMP CLAIBORNE, 13-0

ASTU '11' CLICKS IN CLOSING HALF

Locals Weather Early Bid By Invaders, Forge Ahead After Rest

Northeast Junior college's 4810th ASTU football team, undefeated in its own backyard, trounced the Camp Claiborne military police eleven, 13 to 0, here yesterday afternoon after weathering an early blast of razzle-dazzle from the invaders that threatened to overpower the locals.

For the first quarter of the ball game the Camp Claiborne M. P.'s had the best club and showed an array of tricky reverses, hidden ball plays and criss-crosses with spectacular passes that kept the fans and foe on edge. But the heavier aggregation, despite its early spurts of speed and power, began to bog down as the game progressed, and the N. J. C. servicemen forged ahead offensively and defensively.

Jim Hutson, co-captain with Frank "Tony" Valente, scored first for N. J. C. on a line buck from the Claiborne two in the third quarter, and Ernie Hamilton cut through tackle for six yards and the second touchdown in the final period. End James Spafford kicked the point after the second tally. Spafford, in addition to adding a one point, played one of the best games turned in by an individual at Brown field in some time. His all-around defensive play was just about flawless and his reception of passes from "Tex" Graybill, the fireball flunker, set up the first N. J. C. touchdown.

Getting possession of the oval on the Claiborne 38 after a seven-yard punt return by Fullback Mercer, Graybill passed to Spafford for a first on the Claiborne 26. On the very next play Graybill passed again to Spafford for another first on the Claiborne five. Graybill hit right tackle for two and then lost two at the same spot. Graybill circled left end for three, but the Indians took a four yard penalty assessed against Claiborne for offsides, putting the ball on the Claiborne one. Hutson rammed right guard to score. Try for the point failed.

A pass interception by Tackle Huber set up the second N. J. C. touchdown midway of the last quarter. The invaders, who had been throwing passes throughout the game without much success, cut loose again in the last period with a pass from behind their own goal line that Huber took in on the 15 and returned to the Claiborne six. On the very next play Hamilton raced straight to the right and suddenly cut in over right tackle to go untouched to pay dirt. Spafford place-kicked for the point.

Massey D. McConnell, racehorse of the N. J. C. backfield, turned in several spectacular runs, looking particularly good on speed plays around the ends. "Pug" Hammond, reserve blocking back, also showed surprising form when sent into action late in the game, and Tackle "Slouch" Egan proved plenty rough on the invaders with his defensive work.

In fact, the entire N. J. C. line—or lines, as Coach Jim Malone used two combinations—of Huber, Egan, Spafford, Hopkins, Lathrop, Harkins, Passman, Tuck, Valente, Blessen, Freda, Halliburton, Herda, Boyle and Tieman—more than held its own against the heavier Claiborne forwards led by McNamara, Clausen, Kulovitz and Pettinella.

Tony Lamanowski, the Claiborne backfield ace, got nowhere against the locals. The Tribe kept him well bottled up while he was in action, giving Halfbacks Quinnett and Malcolm a better opportunity to shine.

A total of 33 passes, 20 by Claiborne and 13 by N. J. C., was tossed during the course of the game. N. J. C. completed only two, both of those coming in succession and paving the way for the first touchdown. Claiborne, Huber and Halliburton made pass interceptions for the locals. Quinnett and McNamara accounted for Claiborne's interceptions.

Coach Malone said last night negotiations for a game next week-end for the ASTU eleven were underway and he hoped to be able to announce the next foe Monday or Tuesday.

The lineups:

Claiborne	Pos.	N. J. C.
Clausen	LE	Hopkins
Kulovitz	LT	Huber
Tarvin	LG	Harkins
McNamara	C	Tuck
Greene	RG	Passman
Nordstrum	RT	Egan
Pettinella	RE	Spafford
Papadakis	QB	Finnson
Quinnett	LH	Hamilton
Malcolm	RH	McConnell
Caputi	FB	Mercer

Hot Off The Gridiron

GEORGIA 46; V. M. I. 7

ATLANTA, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Georgia had the guns, the ammunition and the range today, and the combination leveled a determined but impotent Virginia Military institute football team, 46-7, before a sparse crowd of 3,000.

Little Johnny Cook, 17-year-old, pint-sized successor to Frankie Sinkwich, scored 24 points. Starting with a 79-yard runback of V. M. I.'s opening kickoff, the Rome (Ga.) freshman crossed the payoff line thrice in the first period and once more in the second before turning over the scoring job to others.

Cook set up the second touchdown with recovery of Ed White's fumble on V. M. I.'s 11. Billy Rutland, Georgia fullback, pounded up to the three, and Cook slashed through to score.

V. M. I. had time for just three plays and a punt before Cook was away to another one. This time he took Bill Stapleton's spiral on the 19 and raced 81 yards for the touchdown.

Georgia rolled to within two yards of V. M. I.'s goal in the second period only to lose the ball when Rutland fumbled and V. M. I.'s Ray Gibbs recovered. Bryant Hicks punted, but Cook brought back the ball to the 18. Four plays later Cook scored.

Wally Butts' toy Bulldogs marched 67 yards to a fifth touchdown after receiving the third period touchdown, Rutland raging over from the one.

But V. M. I. stormed right back with a touchdown of its own. Billy Collins zoomed 52 yards with the kickoff to Georgia's 38, and he alternated with Garvin Jones to go to the 15 in three slashing plays. Then Collins streaked away on a double reverse to score.

TEXAS 46; T. C. U. 7

AUSTIN, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns trounced Texas Christian university, 46-7, before 12,000 spectators today, but the Horned Frogs gave the Southwest conference football champions a scare in the first half.

Highlight of the game was the performance of Texas' four foot, eleven-inch tall waterboy, Billy Andrews. He booted two perfect drop-kicks after touchdowns to add his bit to the conference victory.

The Horned Frogs gave Longhorn supporters a start by scoring first. At halftime the Longhorns led by a not-too-comfortable 13 to 7.

Texas made another counter in the third period, and added 26 points in the fourth.

SEAHAWKS 28; CAMP GRANT 13

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Seahawks, preparing for their shot at mighty Notre Dame, got a brisk tune-up today as they collected their eighth straight victory with a 28-to-13 decision over a battling Camp Grant football team.

The Seahawks whipped over two touchdowns in the first period, Jimmy Smith going 16 yards with a lateral from Frank Maznicki, and the brilliant Dick Todd whipped a 31-yard pass to Bob Timmons for the second counter.

ARMY 16; SAMPSON NAVY 7

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 13.—(AP)—A seldom-seen safety gave Army, playing without its star halfbacks, Glenn Davis and Doug Kenna, a 16-to-7 victory over a stubborn Sampson naval training eleven today.

A small crowd of 5,000 that sat through rain and snow saw the Cadets tie the score at 7-7 in the third period on an eight-yard forward pass, Carl Anderson to Tom Lombardo, and then get the winning points on the safety early in the last quarter.

The safety came after George Maxon kicked out on the Sampson six-yard line and was hotly disputed by the Blue Jackets. Bill Maceyko faded back into the end zone to pass, was rushed and got off a short wobbly pass that fell incomplete back of the goal line. The officials ruled it was an automatic safety, putting Army ahead, 9-7.

Sampson took to the air after that in a desperate attempt to win. Bob Woods intercepted one of these heaves and raced 27 yards for a touchdown to assure an Army triumph.

CAMP LEJEUNE 14; N. C. NAVAL 14

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Camp Lejeune's burly marines broke out in the third period today with a long run and capitalized on a fumble to score two touchdowns and tie the North Carolina naval pre-flight school football squadron today, 14-14.

Trailing by two touchdowns, Ray Terrell, ex-Mississippi star, who took in a punt on his 40 and threaded his way 60 yards through a quick-forming shield of marine interference. Stan Erickson place-kicked the point.

Moments later Erickson blocked Bob Kellogg's attempted quick kick and recovered on the Pre-flight 24. Paul Dubenetzky's pass to Bob Fitch on fourth down was ruled good because of interference on the half-yard line. Dubenetzsky scored on a line buck and Erickson place-kicked the tieing point.

N. C. STATE 20; DAVIDSON 0

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—North Carolina State wrought an easy 20-0 victory over Davidson here today in a Southern conference game played before 2,500 spectators.

After Davidson turned State back on the Wildcats' one-yard line, the Wolfpack embarked upon its first scoring drive near the end of the first quarter from Davidson's 47. A pass from Howard Turner to Grafton Pearce from the Davidson 22 gave State its initial touchdown on the first play of the second period.

Turner and Pearce again collaborated for a touchdown just before half time, the former pitching this time from the Davidson 29 to climax a 51-yard advance.

GEORGIA NAVAL 32; CLEMSON 6

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Georgia naval pre-flight school's talented football club ran, kicked and passed its way to an easy 32-to-6 victory today over a light, inexperienced Clemson team.

Steve Filipowicz, former Fordham player, tossed a pass to Revensbert, an end, on the fifth play of the game for 30 yards and the receiver ran 20 more for the first touchdown. Hoequist late in the period snatched up a bouncing punt on his 17 yard line and struck out down a sideline for 83 yards and the second score.

The Skycrackers got their third touchdown in the second quarter after Filipowicz had spearheaded a drive from midfield to the 13. From there Randall ran around end for the score.

Allen set up the 'Crackers' third period touchdown with a 50-yard jaunt from scrimmage to the Clemson 15. Hudson ran 10 off tackle and Allen broke through center for the score. Felley place-kicked the point.

Clemson drove from midfield on short passes and runs in the final period for its lone score, Freeman taking a three-yard pass in the end zone for the six points.

With only two minutes remaining, Thigpen broke away for a 30-yard run for the Skycrackers' last touchdown. Davidsmeyer kicked the extra point.

The pre-flighters gained 354 yards rushing to Clemson's 62 and registered 13 first downs to Clemson's six. The navy men completed all three of their passes for 59 yards, but Clemson completed but three of its 14 aerials for 31 yards.

THRILLING FINISH GIVES BUCKS WIN OVER ILLINOIS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Ohio State defeated Illinois, 29 to 26, today before 36,331 fans—and despite a day filled with long runs, steady marches and scintillating performances, all the drama was packed in the last two seconds when the Bucks captured the verdict long after everyone thought the game was over.

With the score deadlocked at 26-26, Ohio had blasted its way from its own 41 to the Illinois 15, only to lose the ball on a fumble. Two plays later the Bucks regained the ball the same way on the 21. Two seconds remained to play, and Ohio tried a pass which sailed into the end zone as the final shot sounded.

The teams raced for the dressing rooms, and the fans filed from the stadium. Meantime P. C. Goebel of Michigan, the head linesman, was gesticulating wildly that Illinois had been offside. The teams were ordered back for one more play—but the fans continued to leave, not knowing what was going on.

Twelve minutes after the final shot, the teams lined up and Coach Paul E. Brown sent John Stungis, 17-year-old substitute quarterback, into the fray. Stungis, with substitute Fullback Bob McQuade holding the ball, calmly booted a field goal from about 25 yards out—and the three points broke Illinois' heart and Ohio's Big Ten losing streak at the same time.

distance booter, Mattis' triple-threat talents have been a great aid to the scoring plays. Mattis has helped the team a lot, but the remaining leather luggers on the squad have improved to such an extent that Selman is far from being a one man team. Harris is another triple threater, while Swanson and Nichols are dangerous runners who are especially adept at broken field galloping. Cavey is a pony back who has looked particularly good on punt returns in recent games. When the wide open running attack bogs down, the Cyclones have two first rate line busters to call on in Mack Bishop and Johnny Jamison. Jamison is a former Syracuse luminary who will be making his debut before local followers.

Polk too has an imposing array of talent to throw against the Cyclones. David Wyman, a 175-pound tackle from Wheeling, Va., with a varied amount of football experience behind him, captains the team and carries the brunt of the defensive measures set up by the Polkmen. Ed Mercer, 235-pound guard, is another big obstacle in the opposing line that Selman will have to overcome. Thomas Canty, 193, a terror on defense and a threat on offense with his unusual pass snagging ability, is slated to be in the starting lineup at left end for Polk.

Fast and shifty, the starting backfield for the invaders will probably include Paul Cohen, 160, quarterback; Ren Scott, 175, and George Yarborough, 185, at halfback slots, and Adam Kalaity, pile driving line smasher, at fullback.

DUTIES OF MOTOR CORPS EXPLAINED

Patriotic Women Asked To Serve Their Country By Enlisting

The Red Cross motor corps is a medium whereby its patriotic women members serve their country through service as drivers of military vehicles, thereby relieving enlisted men for other duties. A motor corps member at the wheel of an army car means a man released for combat—not necessarily the actual man relieved, but he replaces another man, the other man replaces another, and eventually it means one more man on the fighting front. Multiply that by thousands and you have the extra impetus (increased manpower at the fronts) for bringing the war to a speedy end.

The work is not hard. At the most it entails first echelon duties; checking oil, gasoline, water, air in the tires, keeping the vehicle clean, and reporting performance, efficiency, and repairs to be made to the vehicle at the motor pool.

The primary requisite for a member is ability—ability to drive and ability to pass an army driver's test. So far, in regard to Selman field, members have been driving staff cars (sedans). Each has proven herself capable, courteous and efficient as a chauffeuse. Not an officer on the field, upon being driven by one of these women, has anything but praise for them.

At present there are thirty members serving their country by driving at Selman field. More members are needed here, as well as elsewhere. Women, if you are between the ages of 18 and 50 years and are interested in the quick demise of the two remaining Axis partners and their satellites—as you should be—contact your local Red Cross and make application to join the motor corps. By joining a woman can "free a man to fight" the same as by enlisting in the women's army corps.

Eighth air force's fourth on Bremen—was stressed by an official disclosure that more than 1,000,000 tons of imports from the Scandinavian countries flow through the port each year. In addition, Bremen is the home of Germany's biggest shipbuilding yards, particularly those turning out submarines.

In addition to the American heavy bomber attack, RAF fighters were also out today, continuing their usual daily blasting of enemy communications along the invasion coastline.

Major Milton Joel, Greenway Lane, Richmond, Va., leader of a Lightning squadron, was credited with destroying a JU-88 and probably destroying another and a ME-109.

Thunderbolt pilots credited with kills included:

Captain Thomas F. Beaired, Jr., 103 Egan street, Shreveport, La.

NEW ORLEANS GIRLS ASK CO-EDUCATION

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Members of the war problems 1 class at the Sophie B. Wright High school for girls here want "more co-education," and what they want they ask for.

New Orleans maintains separate high schools for boys and girls.

Last night a delegation of girls from the class posed their No. 1 problem before the Orleans parish school board in monthly session.

Said pretty Brunette Joyce Blotner, group spokesman: "We've been thinking, and we've decided there should be more co-education."

Said startled Board President Theodore O. Hotard: "But there is some in the city."

"Oh, but not near enough."

"Don't you think the boys ought to be consulted before we take any drastic action?" Hotard asked.

"Oh, them!" said Miss Blotner. "All that we've talked to think it's a very good idea."

EXPECTS ATTACK

empires. Audacity was the chief ingredient.

Why would the Japanese attack within the next four months?

They know north Pacific weather, much of which originates in the Kurile islands and in the Japanese current north of Oahu. This warm current meeting the cold Aleutian weather breeds fogs. Within the coming four winter months, the fog belt moves closer to Oahu. December, two years ago, the Japs patiently waited for this fog, then as a storm swept south to Oahu, they sneaked in under its protecting cover.

Which part of the day would they likely come?

More than likely, morning. The enemy carriers would be lying off during the previous day and they probably would make their run-in as soon as our afternoon patrols had flown out their leg and were returning to Oahu by dark. The Jap carriers would highspeed to within 350 miles of Oahu so that no extra gas tanks on the planes would displace part of their essential destructive bombloads. Bombers launched, the carriers would reverse course quickly.

ers to strafe the German beachheads and hammer island bases from which German reinforcements could be sent.

Leros is so small—eight miles long by three miles at the widest point—that the defenders' job was difficult. The island is cut by deep inlets, complicating transportation. It is two miles across a mountain goat track from the the town of Porto Lago to the point at which the Germans secured their foothold on a day on the west coast.

(The BBC said the Nazis were driving for Leros, principal town of the inland.

(Berlin radio said the island had been taken by the Germans. British holdings in the Aegean now consist only of the islands of Samos, Nicaria and Castelrosso, the radio added.

LIE TEST GIVEN

those two ladies home the night of July 7, did you return straight home." July 7, did you return straight home?" on the night of the slaying he took two women dinner guests home and returned to his cottage about 1:30 a.m. and retired.

"Yes," De Marigny replied.

"Did you enter Westbourne (Sir Harry's home where he was slain)?"

"No."

"Did you kill Sir Harry Oakes?"

"No."

"Were you in the room when someone else killed Sir Harry Oakes?"

"No."

"Did you place your hand on that screen between the time of the murder and the discovery of the body?"

"No."

Keeler said every needle kept to an even path indicating the truth.

A fingerprint of De Marigny's right little finger which the crown contended was found on a screen in the bedroom where Sir Harry was slain was a keystone in the prosecution's case. Defense attorneys charged the fingerprint was faked or through carelessness was obtained from some object De Marigny touched while he was being questioned after the slaying.

De Marigny's pretty wife Nancy, Sir Harry's daughter, was present when the demonstration was made. She was also tested on unimportant questions. Keeler was brought here for the trial as a defense expert.

De Marigny resumed today the pattern of life interrupted by his arrest for the slaying and looked back on his trial and acquittal as though these things happened to someone else.

He refused to take seriously the jury's recommendation for his deportation and insisted his immediate plans went no further than a sail in his star class yacht and a fishing trip to Exuma cays with his pretty young wife.

The couple were radiant yesterday as they sat together in their Victoria avenue cottage and met the press. Just 24 hours before De Marigny had occupied a prisoner's cage in the Bahamas supreme court, but now he seemed rested and dapper in checked sport coat and tan slacks.

He was asked immediately about his reaction to the deportation suggestion. What would he do if he were forced to leave the Bahamas?

"I'd stay in Nassau," he asserted firmly. "Sure. Sure. Definitely."

De Marigny talked freely of his trial, which he said was "boring."

"But it got me out of jail each day—and jail is no place to be, my friends."

He declared that during the whole time from his arrest on July 9, the day after Sir Harry was found beaten to death in a smouldering bed, until his acquittal Thursday, he had felt "objective, as though I were only there as a witness."

He had no theory to dissolve the mystery of the slaying, now more baffling than ever.

"It is something out of my conception," he stated. "It has 20 or 30 angles. It could have been for blackmail, or for many things. None was investigated. When I was arrested the case was closed."

While he talked, Nancy shared the small settee with him. When De Marigny jokingly remarked he was tried mostly for marrying Sir Harry's daughter, she interposed:

"I'm a jinx."

De Marigny smiled at her, and remarked, "like most women, my wife had bad taste in choosing a husband."

gadjim sector of northeastern New Guinea on the approaches to Madang, destroying six barges. P-39s are being used more and more on such strafing and bombing sweeps.

American airmen, pounding the big Japanese naval and air base at Rabaul, New Britain, with increasing fury, have clipped three more warships and 88 planes from the enemy's defenses.

This latest strike was made last Thursday. It began during the night with an attack by Liberator bombers on Rabaul airdromes. Carrier-based torpedo and divebombers, escorted by fighters, followed with a series of daylight attacks.

The final score, as reported in official communiques: a Japanese cruiser and two destroyers sunk; one cruiser and 11 destroyers damaged; 88 enemy planes shot down. Allied losses: 17 planes missing, some others damaged; minor damage and casualties to ships of the carrier-escorting force and their personnel.

Twenty-four of the Japanese aircraft were shot down over Rabaul while navy torpedo and divebombers were hammering enemy surface ships in the harbor.

Apparently hoping to catch one of the carriers undefended, the enemy sent 70 medium and torpedo bombers against it as a second wave of planes was taking off for the Rabaul assault. But anti-aircraft gunners were on the alert and other planes were in the air in sufficient number to repulse the attack.

Sixty-four of the attacking planes were sent crashing into the sea during the ensuing battle of an hour and 20 minutes.

wave fell back only after 17 tanks were destroyed and 800 men killed. In another sector 28 tanks and 80 gasoline trucks were destroyed and an infantry regiment dispersed.

Stalin's special order of the day described Zhitomir, a town of 95,000 persons, as "a most important junction of communications and a powerful strongpoint of German defenses."

Three cavalry divisions were among the spearhead troops which won back Zhitomir, cutting the Odessa-Leningrad railroad—the last important north-south link short of the pre-war Polish border for the Nazis, hard-pressed in White Russia and now ominously out-flanked in their last Ukraine stand.

Just a year ago the Germans were smashing triumphantly on Stalingrad and threatening the Volga. Since then they have been driven approximately 700 airline miles to Zhitomir, and stand about the same distance short of Berlin

The Odessa-Leningrad railroad actually was cut October 2 with the Russian capture of Nevel far to the north, but the capitulation of Zhitomir today is of far more importance to the Germans as it means they will be forced to use a round-about system of single gauged tracks almost 100 miles west. The fall of Nevel had meant only minor rerouting for the Germans through Polotsk a few miles to the southwest.

VISITS BROTHER

Miss Dorothy Holt, 302 Filhiol avenue, West Monroe, spent the past week with her brother, Corporal Cyril W. Holt, who is in a hospital in Tuscaloosa. He was injured in the Sicilian invasion. He is rapidly improving and hopes to be home for Christmas.

STAFF SERGEANT WHITE

Staff Sergeant Cedric A. White is being held a German prisoner of war, according to information received recently from the war department. Sergeant White has been reported missing in action since July 26 when he had been a member of a bombing mission over Germany.

CORPORAL R. D. HEBERT

Corporal R. D. Hebert, stationed at Lemoore, Calif., with the army flying school, is home in Monroe on a 15-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hebert.

En route to Monroe, Corporal Hebert stopped in Houston to visit his brother Charles, who accompanied him home.

FRANK WARREN FISHER

Frank Warren Fisher, seaman first class, is back home on a leave visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Fisher in West Monroe. He attended Ouachita Parish High school and was a salesman-carrier for the News-Star and Morning World for four years.

He enlisted last March 4 and has made two trips to England.

ENTERTAINED IN ENGLAND

Mrs. H. J. Walker has received interesting news from her son, Private First Class Richmond E. Walker, who enlisted March 3, 1941, and who is now in England. He writes that he has visited some of the oldest places in that country. He wrote with pride of entertainment with his company at the so-called "Mayor's Parlour" in Warwick. Richmond Walker has a brother now in Camp Polk who recently returned there after a 15-day furlough here spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Walker, 111 Harrison street, Monroe. Their father is a veteran of World war I.

cast from Honolulu or on the events in the Pacific from the Aleutians to the Solomons and New Guinea.

The mass of American naval power is deployed there. Nimitz commands it under the directives of higher authority, and this is the picture he drew in sober, reasoned confidence of what will result:

"Our northern flank in the Aleutians has been secured. In the south and southwest Pacific intensified attacks by all forces have placed the Jap in a precarious position. In other (Pacific) areas he has been relatively unmolested; but henceforth we propose to give him no rest.

"We know that our ships and our planes alone cannot destroy the enemy. The Jap has dug himself in. We must land and dig him out."

The Nimitz message means that American retributive assault on Japan up and down the Pacific need not await further developments in Europe, or the final destruction of German power there. The beginning already has been made to the north and south, and now in the crucial central Pacific the war is to be carried to Japan at an ever increasing pace.

Piecing together recent events in the final phases of the campaign to clear the Solomons of the foe and take or utterly neutralize the enemy base at Rabaul, it becomes clear that Japanese leadership is beginning to show signs of panic.

The attempt to reinforce or relieve garrisons trapped on Bougainville by the American forward leap to seize the Empress Augusta bay bridgehead and tighten the pincers on Rabaul falls into that category. It was a Japanese example of too little and too late like the defense of Attu and the retreat from Kiska far in the north.

FOUR SAY FRAZIER SHOT PRISON GUARD

ST. FRANCISVILLE, La., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Four state witnesses who were at the Louisiana State Penitentiary on September 10, 1933, when 12 convicts made a break for liberty testified today in district court that Charlie Frazier, Texas desperado, shot Captain John Singleton, prison guard, who died of his wounds.

Frazier and Walter Henderson, who also participated in the bloody break, are on trial on charges of slaying Singleton, who was wounded as the convicts seized guns and shot their way out of Angola prison as a Sunday afternoon baseball game was in progress.

State witnesses who asserted that Frazier fired into singleton's body were G over Strother, now employed in a Beaumont, Tex., shipyard; Walter Carli ii. Baton Rouge barber; Riley Strother, Oakdale night club operator, and Ed Sharp, a state highway department employe, of Clio. All said they saw Frazier holding a revolver which he fired at close range into the guard's body.

One state witness, A. R. Singleton, son of the slain man, remains to testify. He was called just before court adjourned tonight, but a dispute developed over admissibility of Captain Singleton's dying statement and Acting Judge James H. Kilbourne ordered a recess until 10 a. m. Monday.

SECRET WEAPON

curacy. "Big" Berthas" at their best had a target area roughly two miles by three-quarters of a mile, within which the shell might fall anywhere. Artillerymen figure rockets would do well to land within a five-mile square if fired 100 miles.

Use of parachute troops—which would explain the prime minister's warning that home guards as well as fire watchers might be taxed to the utmost by a new Nazi campaign—would be a novelty as a device to counter invasion.

Yet it is considered quite possible. Parachutists probably could not stop the impending great Allied invasion, but they might harass it and throw it off its time-table by disrupting communications and transportation through widespread sabotage.

About a year ago the Germans boasted, through their usual neutral outlets, of Junkers-86 stratosphere bombers which could fly at a height of nine miles, well above all flak and out of reach of all except the very latest Allied fighters.

This plane is known to exist, but so far has not appeared in large numbers—perhaps because the Allies already have found an antidote—the factory making them has been knocked out by bombing—or because it is being saved.

Concerning gas, one man who knows the Nazis well said, "I think they are capable of anything when desperate, but I believe the generals like their own necks too much to invite similar retaliation which they know we could heap on them with our vastly superior air forces."

said Saturday that death had been caused by a blow on the head, probably with a hammer.

Chief of Detectives John J. Grosch said Mrs. Mano had read an account of the body's discovery in a newspaper and sent a telegram to police here offering to help. Whether she will be brought to New Orleans depends upon an interview with Washington authorities, he said.

Mrs. Mano, 30, an attractive brunette, left New Orleans shortly after her husband disappeared in August. She operated his business in the French market for a while, advertised in newspapers in an effort to locate him, then sold the business and left for Washington, Grosch said.

Dr. Odom said that examination of the body recovered from the grave in a desolate wooden section just off the Boutte highway revealed a hole two inches in diameter in the right side of the skull. He said there were no lateral fractures and that the blow must have been struck with "terrific force."

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Profit taking hit recently buoyant liquor stocks in today's market and most leaders were unable to show much in the way of recovery animation.

The list got off to a fairly steady start but early advances were erased in many cases at the close. There were scattered spot of resistance, however, and price variations mostly were in minor fractions either way. Dealings slackened appreciably with the turnover for the two hours of around 250,000 shares being one of the smallest in more than two months.

Bonds and commodities held to a slim area.

C. K. SMITH GIVES FAREWELL SERMON

Pastor Delivers Last Address To West Monroe Congregation Today

Dr. C. Karlos Smith, pastor for a number of years of the First Methodist church in West Monroe, will preach his farewell sermon there today.

He has been transferred to Shreveport to become pastor of the Mangum Memorial Methodist church, and the pastor of that church, Rev. P. M. Caraway, will become pastor of the West Monroe First Methodist church, as assigned at the annual church conference in Lafayette Friday.

The new pastor is a graduate of Millsaps college in Jackson, Miss., and has in the past served as pastor of the First Methodist church in Gulfport, Miss. During his service in the ministry he has been assigned successively to Mississippi, Louisiana, New Mexico, and then back to Louisiana. He has a wife and family who will remove to the West Monroe parsonage within the next few days.

Dr. Smith and family are also to leave some day this week. A tea will be given this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. F. C. McConnell, 1105 North Second street, West Monroe, to honor Mrs. Smith. Members of the Semper Fidelis class of the church will be the hostesses.

MAJOR CHARLES RODRIGUEZ IN CHARGE OF UNIQUE MP GROUP

CAMP MACKALL, N. C., Nov. 13.—(Special)—Major Charles O. Rodriguez, formerly of Monroe, as provost marshal at Camp Mackall, N. C., commands the military police force at this training center and as part of his force, has a small specialized organization which is unique. It is mounted military police patrol detachment, the only mounted organization at the camp.

Major Rodriguez is a former member of the Fox-Rodriguez Insurance company, and is a brother of W. D. H. Rodriguez, commissioner of finance and public utilities for the city of Monroe.

In the seven months of its existence, a miscellaneous mixture of unusual extra jobs has been the lot of the mounted military police at Mackall.

One of its earliest and oddest extra jobs was that of night guard over a nearby 150 acre field of farmer-owned watermelons, from which the melons had, up until then been mysteriously and continuously making their disappearance. Another time two of the men rode all night looking for a 14-year-old boy from a nearby farm, the youngster later returning home of his own accord.

They have been out on a few all day patrol rides through the forests and swamps searching for lost parachutists; they have discovered and stopped unauthorized timber cutting on the military reservation; and only recently spent many hours riding through the pines in search of three prisoners who escaped from the camp stockade at the time a saddle mare was stolen from the camp corrals.

In their routine rides, they have discovered small blazes in the timber and extinguished them before they grew into forest fires. When Camp Mackall was dedicated May 1, they were conspicuous and efficient in their traffic directing job for that day.

Authority for the establishment of a mounted military police detachment at Camp Mackall was originally granted as a tire, gasoline and motor vehicle conservation measure, as the use of automobiles over the long routes and rough terrain which these men daily travel required the use of some mode of transportation. Fifteen men were in the original troop, established April, 1, 1943, but this was later cut to the present number of six, and one sergeant as a manpower conservation measure. Three of the men live in a cottage at the former North Carolina state game farm, now a part of the Camp Mackall military reservation. Two of these men ride the 6,000 acre reservation, on the lookout for forest fires, and game poachers as there are still many wild deer and turkeys in the territory and restrictions on hunting must be rigidly enforced. The third remains in the cottage as the housekeeper and cook.

Three of the ranger police are stationed in Camp Mackall. One rides the fences around the air field, a distance of six miles, acting as both guard and forest fire ranger; one a six mile wooded circuit around the camp pump and sewage disposal installations, and one remains at headquarters to act as a standby in case of need for extra help by any of the others. Each man's duty tour is 8 hours daily, but all of them are subject to call at any time.

Service records are kept on horses in the military service as well as on men, and some of those used at Camp Mackall are veterans of many years and widely separated military posts. Also like soldiers, army horses are vaccinated and innoculated against disease and these operations entered on their service records. The usual vaccinations are for sleeping sickness and lockjaw, while they are tested for glanders.

The Camp Mackall horses are nine years old or older and are in a class referred to by G. I. Joes as "limited service," because they are past the age for active cavalry duty, yet are fine mounts for such non-exacting work as that of the range patrol, where speed is not so essential as in the cavalry. Most are regular cavalry type animals, crosses between saddle and sturdier stocks. Or their service records is indicated all vital and identification statistics, just as in the case of military personnel. Included are color, sex, height, weight, date foaled, breed, sire, dam, when purchased, price, where and from whom purchased and what station it first served in the army, all successive places of service, together with the name of the officer or soldier to whom assigned in many cases.

Horses here are given the same meticulous care as those of the cavalry. Each ranger is especially trained in riding and the care of a horse, and after a tour of duty, must spend an hour or so grooming and putting his mount into quarters before he can take care of himself.

TWO SPEAK AT L. T. I. MEETING

Rev. Ernest Holloway And Thomas Davenport Address Boys

Rev. Ernest Duncan Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Thomas W. Davenport, attorney, were principal speakers at the pep meeting at Louisiana Training institute Friday night.

Rev. Holloway, the first speaker for the night, who was introduced by Mr. Armstrong, superintendent, gave this message:

"It has not been very long ago since I was sitting just where you boys are sitting right now. I was brought up in a Christian home and it was the same as being right here.

"I do not know how large Goliath was but he knew no one could beat him fighting. Goliath was a giant. He had won victory after victory. He double-dog-dared the Jews to come out and fight him. Then David came out to fight this giant and he killed this Philistine giant with a stone from a sling. He had confidence in himself. He was a true patriot. That is just what I want you boys to have—confidence in yourselves.

"Not long ago I heard a letter read on the radio. It was written by a boy in the army who was leaving his base to go into the real fighting. In this letter he urged his parents not to grieve for him if he failed to return. He wanted them to rejoice like everyone should instead of grieving. I read a story in a magazine which had to do with a young man. One day this young man found himself wondering in a jungle and there was no water to be found anywhere so that night when he went to sleep, he remembered his rearing and the next morning when he awoke, he found that it had rained that night and so his thirst for water was quenched.

"In departing tonight I want you boys to think about what I have told you about David and make yourselves another David."

Mr. Davenport, also introduced by Mr. Armstrong, brought the boys an interesting message, as follows:

"I am particularly happy to be here tonight because it has been a long time since I have been out here to see the boys at L. T. I. It might be selfishness on my part but when men get as old as me they have some kind of hobby. This is mostly my hobby because I like boys very much. I would like to see you boys 15 years from now to see how you would dress, your actions and the way you would talk. It will be a lot of difference between now and 15 years from now. I have known a lot of old men who are just boys now. Many men are going back to their boyhood. Boys your age have a fine chance in this world and only lose what they want to. We don't see how we can find our way through this world. It is hard to do.

"Most of you boys don't think it's fun to live. Most of you want to put off tomorrow to start living. You are going to be down here on this planet a long time. Don't get the idea that you aren't living. You have some good leaders here and it won't be so bad to listen to what they tell you. Too many people put off too long to start living. When most boys are young, they try to decide what they want to do and they can't decide. If you are living right, you are helping yourselves but if you are living wrong, you are only hurting yourselves. It is not hard to try to do right.

"You boys don't know this, so I am going to tell you about President Roosevelt. The president cannot stand without the aid of someone to help him up. This is never shown in the news reel because the only part you ever see is only from his waist up. He became paralyzed from his hips down but yet he has gone on living. He has confidence in himself and I'm sure you can have as much confidence in yourselves. The first thing a man has to have is confidence in himself if he wants to do something and make something out of himself. You have to work hard if you want to be a great man.

"Then pou say, 'How am I going to do this?' Well, there is a place for every man in this world. This world is going to need hardworking men, honest men and good men. You are going to see a lot of things that you would never think of seeing in this world. You have got to get along with your fellowmen if you want to get along in this world. Who do you trade with and where do you spend your money? You spend it with your friends. See if you cannot get along with the friends you have here. It is just as much pleasure to live as not to. I believe boys are the finest and truest friends man can have and it has been indeed a pleasure to come here tonight and give you this message."

DUGAS QUITS RACE

DONALDSONVILLE, La., Nov. 13.—(AP)—C. J. (Bobby) Dugas, supervisor of Ascension parish schools, announced today his withdrawal as a candidate for lieutenant governor. Dugas said he was not in position to make a town-to-town political campaign, and even if he were, could not reconcile the critical scarcity of gasoline and rubber with "the blare of a candidate's sound truck."

POW WOW AGAIN ALL-AMERICAN

N. J. C. Publication For Sixth Time Given Highest Honor

For the sixth consecutive time the Pow Wow, biweekly newspaper of Northeast Junior college, scored an All-American rating in competition with junior college papers throughout the United States.

This information was received Friday by Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, director of the publication, from the Associated Collegiate Press with headquarters at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis.

The association's scorebook showed a total of 970 points based on every item of newspaper work. In news coverage the rating was excellent, balance was very good, vitality, originality and treatment, very good. News writing rated excellent in leads content and organization, very good in style. Headlines, typography, front page and inside page makeup and printing all scored excellent. Points given for work on the editorial page included: column, excellent; features, very good and makeup excellent. News features rated very good; interviews and speech reports, good; editing, very good.

In the sports section coverage, treatment and writing rated excellent and display scored very good. Judges summed up their criticism by saying "Again the Pow Wow is one of the top papers in its class."

Comprising the Pow Wow staff at the time the paper was entered for criticism were: Prentiss Cox, editor-in-chief; Elizabeth Johnson, associate editor; Emile Liles, feature editor; Hugh Taylor, sports editor; David Martin, business manager; Barbara Schuster, assistant business manager and reporter; Sybil Daughtry, circulation manager; Mary Alice McGlohon, Sara Hazel, Helen Hayes and Barbara Ogden, assistants; Fred McDuff, photographer; Billy King Smith, Sybil Ogden, Kay Kugler, Margie Martin, Mary Elizabeth Meek, Bernard Zuccaro and Pascal Norris, reporters.

The Pow Wow was printed by the Monroe Printing company.

The first minimum wage-law was the New Zealand industrial conciliation and arbitration act of 1894.

Is My Policy

I have been accused of hiring other restaurants' help. . . . This is a gross error. I do not pirate other people's help. I do not believe it is a good policy. I have never done this . . . I never will.

Any person coming to me, wanting a job . . . and can present desired qualifications I will hire them. We are good to our employes . . . we are liberal . . . we give them every consideration and they like working for us. Our opening and closing hours are also another attraction.

I myself remain in my kitchen where the food is being prepared . . . keeping an eye on it . . . seeing that it is properly prepared and served to our patrons. I hire a cashier and other people to remain in the front. You get a good square deal as well as a good meal when you eat and do business with Palmer's.

Notice: We will, beginning today . . . donate $5.00 cash to every church in Monroe and West Monroe. Ministers will present identification and receive this donation. I have faith in our churches. They are serving humanity in the most needed way.

DICK TRACY

REGAINING CONSCIOUSNESS, LOIS, THE NARCOTIC VICTIM, CONFESSES EVERYTHING TO HER MOTHER AND THE HOUSE DETECTIVE AND CLEARS DICK TRACY. THEN, IN A FIT OF DESPAIR AND SHAME, SHE DASHES THROUGH THE OPEN WINDOW AND RUNS ONTO THE ROOF OF AN ADJOINING WING

I'M GOING TO JUMP AND NOTHING CAN STOP ME! AND IF YOU MOVE ONE INCH NEARER, I'LL—

OH, I'M NOT GOING TO MOVE ONE INCH NEARER — DON'T WORRY! I'VE WASTED ENOUGH TIME ON YOU. GO AHEAD! JUMP!

I'M A HOPELESS ADDICT. I - I —

I ONLY CAME OUT HERE TO TELL YOU WHAT A HEEL YOU ARE. YOU DON'T CARE WHAT SHAME THIS SUICIDE WILL BRING TO YOUR PARENTS, DO YOU?

BESIDES, YOU LOOK SILLY STANDING THERE IN THAT FLIMSY DRESSING GOWN. REMINDS ME OF THE POSTER FOR "ZUMA, THE BURLESQUE QUEEN."

YOU COULD END YOUR LIFE MUCH LESS SENSATIONALLY THAN THIS. FOR INSTANCE, I'VE AN OLD SERVICE PISTOL I'D LEND YOU. THAT'S NEAT AND QUICK.

MEANWHILE, IN ANOTHER PART OF TOWN, LAFFY HAS HIS LUNCH.

I ORDERED BOILED POTATOES, NOT MASHED. HA, HA! TAKE THIS BACK.

YES, SIR.

THE COOK GLANCES FROM THE KITCHEN. NODS ARE EXCHANGED

THE COOK SCOOPS THE MASHED POTATOES INTO HIS HAND AND HOLDS THEM UNDER A FAUCET

AH, HA, HA. THANKS. —AND GIRLIE, TELL THE COOK I'LL HAVE A PIECE OF HIS SPECIAL MINCE PIE FOR DESSERT.

TEN MINUTES LATER—

ONE MINCE PIE COMING UP!

SPIKE IS STILL WEAK, THOUGH DEFINITELY ON THE COMEBACK TRAIL — AT FIRST, A PATH LEADING TO THE OLD MILL ... .

OH, IT COULD BE MADE INTO SUCH A LOVELY HOME!

BUT THINK OF THE COST, SALLY! AND I HAVEN'T EVEN A JOB!

AND, OF COURSE, WE DON'T EVEN KNOW WHO OWNS IT...

OR IF IT CAN BE HAD!

LOOK, BEN BERRY! WHAT WILL YOU TAKE FOR THAT OLD MILL?

A MILLION, CASH! WHAT CAN YOU WANT IT FOR?

ANNIE WANTS IT... THE SPANGLES CAN MAKE A HOUSE OUT OF IT...

IT'D NEED AN AWFUL LOT OF FIXING...

FIRST THINGS FIRST! HOW MUCH?

WELL, FOR HER, I'LL CUT MY PRICE OF A MILLION A LITTLE...

LETS SAY FIFTY DOLLARS! I'D GIVE IT TO THEM, IF THEY'D ACCEPT IT!

THEY WOULDN'T... WE BOTH KNOW THAT!

THERE'S YOUR FIFTY... I'LL GET IT FROM THEM — MAKE THE DEED TO SPIKE AND SALLY...

IT'S YOUR UNCLE SPIKE'S AND AUNTIE SALLY'S MILL, NOW... DEED WILL TAKE A FEW DAYS — BUT HERE'S BEN BERRY'S RECEIPT...

SWELL! FIFTY, EH?

I'LL GIVE YOU MY NOTE, O' COURSE...

THAT'LL KEEP IT STRICTLY BUSINESS... HI, SOCKO!

HI, PAUL!

11-14-43

THAT OLD MILL WILL TAKE A LOT OF WORK! IT'LL COST A LOT, JUST FOR MATERIAL...

CONTRACTOR, AIN'T I? IT'LL BE A CINCH!

HELLO- WHAT'S THAT?? HIS STORE FRONT SMASHED?!! WHEN?
THERE'S YOUR FIRST CASE, CHESTER-

-YES-I SEE-- YES--DO THAT, SERGEANT- GOOD-BY--
SO THEY'VE REALLY ORGANIZED, EH? A JUVENILE CRIME CLUB!!!

I GUESS I STEPPED INTO A FAST PITCH- BUT, I'M NOT WORRIED--
I'M A GUMP-
THAT'S THE SPIRIT, MY BOY- NOW, HERE'S MY PLAN- OF COURSE, YOU WILL ATTEND SCHOOL AS USUAL- BUT WITH THIS DIFFERENCE-

I WILL HAVE YOU TRANSFERRED TO THE SCHOOL IN THAT SLUM DISTRICT WHICH IS GIVING US THE MOST TROUBLE AT THE MOMENT- IT MAY BE A BIT INCONVENIENT FOR YOU--
OH, THAT'S NOTHING, YOUR HONOR- I'LL JUST GET UP A HALF HOUR EARLIER EACH MORNING- THERE ARE GOOD TROLLEY CONNECTIONS.

A SPLENDID IDEA, MR. MAYOR- CHESTER, BY HIS STERLING BEHAVIOR, WILL SHOW THOSE BAD BOYS A FINE EXAMPLE-
NO! CHESTER WILL SET A BAD EXAMPLE- AS BAD AN EXAMPLE AS THE WORST OF THEM-

I UNDERSTAND, SIR- IN THAT WAY, I WILL GAIN THEIR CONFIDENCE-EXACTLY!!

LATER
BUT, CHESTER, DEAR- I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY THE MAYOR IS TRANSFERRING YOU FROM YOUR L-LOCAL SCHOOL TO ONE IN SUCH A DIFFERENT NEIGHBORHOOD-
HM- YES- THAT SEEMS LIKE A PECULIAR REWARD

I'LL L-LEARN LOTS MORE THERE!!
WELL, I CERTAINLY HOPE IT BENEFITS YOU IN SOME WAY, CHESTER-

NEXT DAY-
ATTENTION, CLASS!! I WANT YOU TO MEET A NEW STUDENT, CHESTER GUMP- MEET CLASS 9A-4- TAKE THE FIRST SEAT IN THE LAST ROW, CHESTER-

OH! OH! LOOK WHAT CHET DROPPED- HIS DEPUTY BADGE!

SMILIN' JACK

IT'S TOO BAD THAT WE CAN'T GET ANY SILK IN THIS DESOLATE OUT POST TO MAKE YOU A DRESS FOR YOUR WEDDING, JOY--

THAT'S THE LEAST OF MY WORRIES--I'LL BE LUCKY IF I HAVE A HUSBAND FOR MY WEDDING--

WHAT DO YOU MEAN?

A JAP PLANE WAS APPROACHING AND JACK TOOK OFF AFTER IT IN A P-51--- LOOK! ONE OF TH' PLANES IS ON FIRE---

JACK OUT-MANEUVERED THE ZERO AND SHOT IT DOWN--

?!

I COULD MACHINE-GUN THAT JAP AS HE PARACHUTES DOWN--ONE OF HIS BROTHER RATS MURDERED A PAL O'MINE THAT WAY BUT---

--I'LL GIVE THE DIRTY DOG A FIGHTING CHANCE--

HE'S LANDING ON THAT SMALL ISLAND---WITH FULL FLAPS AND A PRAYER, I THINK I CAN LAND ON THAT STRETCH OF BEACH, TOO--

AS JACK COMES IN, THE JAP STARTS SHOOTING AT HIM--

OKAY, NIP, YOU'RE ASKIN' FOR IT--MY WING GUNS WILL SHOOT OVER YOU WHEN THIS PLANE IS ON THE GROUND BUT I'LL FIX THAT--

BANG BANG

SEE! I KICK THE PLANE AROUND LIKE THIS--LOCK THE BRAKES--PUSH STICK FORWARD--

--GUN TH' MOTOR AND--TH' BLAST HITTING THE ELEVATORS RAISES THE TAIL OFF TH' GROUND AND--

BANG! BANG!

--THAT PUTS TH' WING GUNS IN LEVEL POSITION! I SQUEEZE THE TRIGGER AND THAT FINISHES THAT JAP!

RAT TAT TAT TAT

RAT TAT TAT

RAT TAT TAT

THEN JACK RETURNS TO HIS BASE--

OH! A PARACHUTE!

AFTER SHOOTING FLASH AND RECAPTURING GUNDAR AND DESIRA, BRAZOR DRIVES HIS CRIPPLED AMPHICAR ASHORE AND VANISHES. MEANWHILE, A GREAT SEA MONSTER RISES FROM THE DEPTHS, CARRYING FLASH'S BLEEDING BODY. AS IT LUMBERS SHOREWARD, A MIGHTY WATER-WORM WRIGGLES FROM ITS LAIR AT THE WATER'S EDGE.

MADDENED BY THE SCENT OF HUMAN FLESH, THE RAVENOUS WORM SLITHERS TOWARD THE MONSTER, WHICH MAKES THE DAWN HIDEOUS WITH ITS BELLOWS OF RAGE AND DEFIANCE.

MEANWHILE, THE SEARCH FOR BRAZOR CONTINUES, WITH FLASH AND GUNDAR'S MEN COMBING ALL HIGHWAYS LEADING TO THE CAPITAL. DALE AND KOLAN ARRIVE AT THE ROAD-BLOCK, AND THE WOODSMEN WHO HAD PUT FLASH AND GUNDAR ON BRAZOR'S TRAIL DO THE SAME FOR THE YOUNG LIEUTENANT.

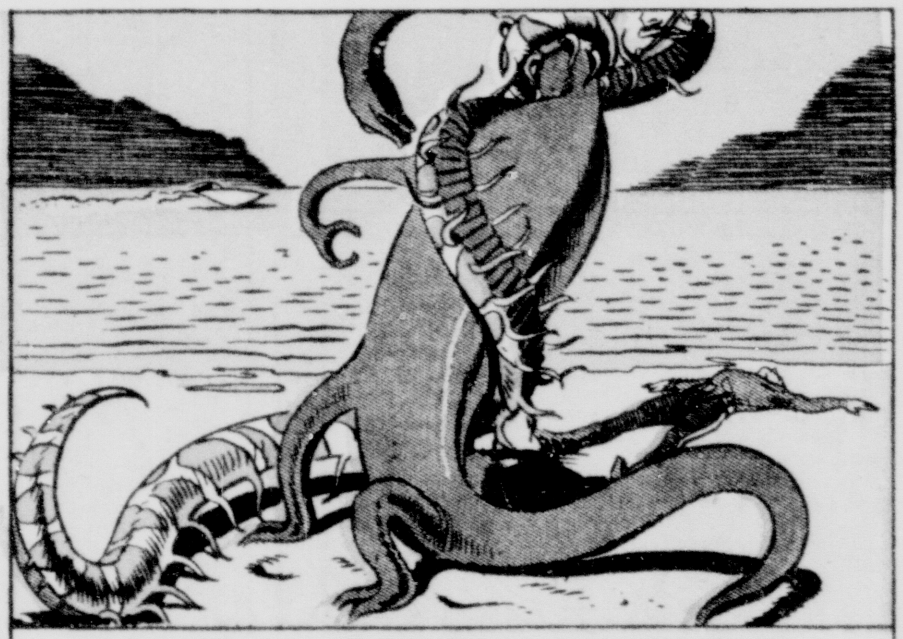

THEY SOON DISCOVER THAT THE FOREST ROAD ENDS AT A CLIFF: "DIDN'T TURN AROUND," KOLAN OBSERVES. "THEY MUST HAVE ROCKETED OFF INTO THE WATER--- A DANGEROUS STUNT!"

"THEN LET US DO IT," DALE BEGS--- HURRY!"

FROM ALL QUARTERS, THE SETTLERS RODE TOWARD JAN VLEESON'S FARM.

EMERGING FROM THE JUNGLE, TARZAN SAW THAT THE LAND-SHARKS WOULD BEAT HIM TO THE PATRIARCH'S HOME.

AS THEY APPROACHED, VLEESON CAME OUT AND DEMANDED: "WHAT DO YOU WANT NOW?"

"I SEE MANY OF YOUR NEIGHBORS COMING UP," ANSWERED OSMUND FAHRBISH; "WE'LL WAIT FOR THEM."

AS THE SETTLERS CONVERGED, TARZAN ARRIVED, TO BE HAILED WITH HEARTY CHEERS.

THESE SIMPLE FARMERS RECALLED HOW THE APE-MAN HAD AIDED THEM IN PREVIOUS CRISES.

THEN FAHRBISH BEGAN: "THIS IS YOUR LAST CHANCE. EITHER YOU SELL US YOUR LANDS, OR----"

"THIS SOIL HAS BECOME PART OF OUR VERY SOULS," VLEESON INTERRUPTED, "AND WE'LL NOT SELL AT ANY PRICE."

THEN TARZAN ASKED: "WHY DO YOU DESIRE TO POSSESS THIS VALLEY?"

"JUNGLE SAVAGES SHOULD KEEP QUIET WHEN THEIR SUPERIORS SPEAK," FAHRBISH SNEERED

TARZAN'S EYES NARROWED. "THESE PEOPLE WILL NOT SELL THEIR LANDS," HE SAID CALMLY. "NOW GO!"
